Fighting Men Are Alike

She Killed Two, Law Kills One

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HODGE, Cal., Feb. 10—Out of Tokio, across the Pacific, and overland to this Mojave country comes the news that Junnusoke Inouye, formerly Japan's finance minister, was murdered yesterday. He was killed because he disapproved of Japan's war in China. He talked peace, and those that do not want it shot him three times.

That is not "Asiatic barbarism," it is the usual thing. When the Great War began, Jean Jaures, one of the ablest men in France, was murdered. His crime was the same as that of Junnusoke Inouye, he did not approve the war.

Even in this enlightened country we were ready to jail anybody not in favor of hanging the Kaiser, and you were not a good American if you refused to believe that Germans were crucifying enemy soldiers, alive, against barn doors and other locations convenient for driving nails. Human beings are much alike, especially when they fight.

Japan proposes the creation of various, extensive, "neutral zones," near big cities in China. Washington and the League of Nations, horrified, declared "that means the partition of China." What else do Japanese activities in Manchuria mean? Does any one think Japan went there for exercise?

And what of our own western civilization? Did it not partition Poland, as calmly as any father ever carved a turkey? And what of the partitioning and carving that followed the big war? What happened to Austria, to Germany and German colonies? There seems to be a little hypocrisy among Christian nations.

Through its able, and usually very conservative president, William Green, the American Federation of Labor tells what it wants. It demands relief from the national government, in the form of a great public works program, that would supply employment, "at prevailing rates of wages, on all government jobs."

The program demands beer, with 2.75 per cent alcohol. The federation, like a famous Englishman, may well be "amazed at its own moderation." Two seventy-five is weak beer. The labor program demands higher taxes on big incomes, and inheritances, a five-day week, and deportation of any Chinese sailors in this country.

Higher taxes on successful men would persuade those men that this is not the time to start any new labor-employing enterprises. Labor, being intelligent, should know that big business does not work entirely for its health, or to supply politicians with taxes for their amusement.

Higher taxes are coming anyhow, without help from organized labor. The Treasury finds it will need to collect in taxes $1,241,000,000 more than last year, to carry out Mr. Mellon's budget program. This means $371,000,000 more than Mr. Mellon's own estimate. If you have a big income, prepare to change YOUR budget.

Ruth Judd, who murdered two women in Phoenix, Ariz., is found guilty, in the first degree. Alienists could not convince the jury that she was insane. She knew what she was doing, when she killed her two best friends, cut up their bodies and packed up the pieces, intending to throw them into the Pacific ocean.

She killed the women, so the law will kill her. She chopped up her victims, the law will hang its victim and strangle her to death. She was jealous, the law is outraged. She is declared sane and the law is supposed to be sane. But it will be called savage and barbarous by a real civilization that will succeed this initiation. As to Ruth Judd's sanity, evidence showed that she was passionately and horribly jealous of the two women murdered. Everyone knows that intense jealousy is a form of insanity.

National politics becomes interesting ahead of time. Former Gov. Smith says he is not a CANDIDATE, only willing to run, if the Democratic convention wants him. He has no political headquarters, is not spending a cent to get the nomination, not even for postage stamps. A candidate, says Gov. Smith, is one who seeks delegates and makes a campaign before the convention meets. Gov. Smith will take the nomination if it is laid down before him. He does not choose to run after it.

This distinction contains no great difference. Gov. Smith knows politics and need not seem to run for what he wants. He has plenty of friends work-

4 WOMEN SEIZED BY CROWLEY AND SQUAD

Police Head Leads "Swoop" on Back Bay House; Suspects Are Taken at Gunpoint

Swooping down, with drawn revolvers, on an apartment in Belvedere st., Back Bay, a raiding squad headed by Police Supt. Michael H. Crowley, captured two men and four women today, all believed to be implicated in the holdup carnival in Boston.

One shot was fired by Capt. John M. Anderson of the detective bureau as a youth named Rideout, declared to be one of the holdup men, leaped from the third-story window of the apartment, suffering injuries in his attempt to escape.

The two men captured—police withheld the name of the second—are believed to be members of the band who have held up an Elevated paymaster and Elevated cashier's cages and who made a holdup last night in Dorchester, Roxbury and Jamaica Plain, during which one bandit was believed shot by a policeman.

ROBBED FOR WOMEN

The four women in the Belvedere st. apartment are believed to be the women for whom the bandits staged their startling "stickups" throughout the city.

Acting on information, Supt. Crowley and Capt. Anderson, with a squad of a dozen patrolmen, went to the apartment house in the Back Bay.

Some of the men, with drawn revolvers, were stationed outside the house in charge of Capt. Anderson. Supt. Crowley led the others inside, but when he rapped on the door and demanded admittance, a voice from the other side of the door warned that there would be shooting.

Police began forcing open the door and the youth called Rideout climbed out on the window sill. To prevent his jumping, Capt. Anderson fired one shot from the ground, but the youth jumped, nevertheless, and was captured and taken to City Hospital.

PLAN BIG DRIVE

The others were arrested in the room.

Earlier in the day, Supt. Crowley, aroused by the carnival of crime, had drawn up a special order assigning extra detectives to preyed-upon districts and demanding that route men exercise more vigilance.

While the special order was being drawn up, a report came in of a burglary early today in the establishment of H. M. Koppel, Room 305, the Province Building, 333 Washington st.

The place was ransacked and Koppel said that an incomplete

ANDREW SQ. FLOODED BY CRASH

Truck Skids Into Trolley Car, Then Hits Hydrant; Dozens of Other Mishaps

The worst driving and walking conditions in years in Boston and the suburbs caused a record number of accidents and near-accidents today, and many traffic snarls, the most serious a 26-minute tieup at Andrew sq., South Boston.

This jam came when a truck skidded on the snow-covered ice, and crashed into a trolley car and hydrant, disabling the car and flooding the square.

Meanwhile the city's snow removal force was reduced from 2400 to 1960. It was explained that fewer men reported to the public welfare department for work.

WANTS MORE DIGGERS

Acting Mayor Edward M. Gallagher ordered Acting Public Works Commissioner Christopher J. Carven to put more men to work. A conference in the department was the result.

When asked about street conditions in Hyde Park, the subject of many protests, Carven insisted they were "excellent" and said he had a letter from City Councilor Clement A. Norton, complimenting his department. He said he had another from Councilor Peter A. Murray, praising the work done in Forest Hills.

HOSPITALS FULL

Haymarket Relief Hospital, Cambridge City Hospital, Somerville Hospital and other first-aid centers were kept busy treating patients injured in falls on icy sidewalks and streets. Many of the latter had narrow escapes when they slipped in front of automobiles.

Ice-ruts caused skidding everywhere, and auto drivers moved slowly for safety, delaying commuters on all sides of the city.

The Andrew sq. tieup, caused by the skidding of a laundry truck operated by Jeremiah Hurley, 28, of Covington rd., Dorchester, was remedied only by Elevated officials rushing a fleet of buses to the scene.

Two fatal accidents were recorded during the past 24 hours, one being a coasting accident at Ockley Country Club, Watertown. Eleanor Ahearn, 18, of 15 Manley st., Lexington, died today at Cambridge City Hospital from a fractured skull, suffered when her sled struck a tree at the country club last night.

Public Will Absorb Vast Issue of Prosperity Bonds

By Merryle Stanley Rukeyser

THE passing of the third and worst winter of the depression, without any clear indication of economic recuperation, is weakening popular hopes of a spontaneous business recovery.

The Hoover method of seeking to heighten recovery by acting as national cheer leader has been proved futile.

The newer administration technique of dissipating federal funds in so-called reconstruction schemes for financing the financiers is also destined to lead to a blind alley.

The cycle downward has proceeded too far to rely on a change of heart by depressed business men to reverse the tides.

THE Federal government, with its superb credit, is uniquely in position to take decisive action.

Instead of wasting its precious credit in debatable schemes to restore lost values, it should embark on a JOB CREATING CONSTRUCTIVE PROGRAMME FOR THE CREATION OF NEW VALUES.

Instead of ineffectually dealing with symptoms of the depression, Congress should go directly to the fundamental causes, and seek to react upon them.

Wholesale liquidation of debt has greatly reduced bank deposits, which in our credit economy constitute the chief medium of exchange.

Such deflation has moved in a vicious circle, each layoff causing additional depression.

By floating a $5,000,000,000 prosperity loan to finance national, state and local public works, the government will inject a vast amount of additional purchasing power into an economic situation which has been progressively languishing from decreasing buying power.

THE summoning directly and indirectly of several millions of idle persons back to work through a public works programme will quickly have a tonic effect on all trades and industries.

Family heads will buy freely as soon as they are returned to payrolls.

The demand for raw materials needed in public works will stimulate the ultra depressed trades which cater to the greatly subnormal construction industry.

If properly dramatized after the manner of the Liberty Loan drives, a campaign to sell to the people $5,000,000,000 of bonds for social reconstruction and for the re-employment of the idle will succeed.

Such a drive will go far toward bringing back into the banking system $1,300,000,000 in hoarded currency.

Perplexed persons, uncertain as to what to do with the remnant of their capital, will welcome the opportunity to buy government bonds, the safest investment in the world.

The marketing process must be raised above routine lines. It must be transformed into a great nationwide co-operative undertaking.

Investors, as in war time, should be encouraged to borrow and buy.

This will tend to bring many of the bonds

Terrific Drive Starts at Dusk All Along a Wide Front; Chinese Fight Hard

By DIXON HOSTE
International News Service Staff Correspondent

Shanghai, Feb. 10 (5:34 P. M.)—(INS)—Sharply at 5 o'clock tonight the heaviest guns of the Japanese forces boomed out what was believed to be the beginning of an extensive final attempt to drive Chinese troops out of the Shanghai area.

The heavy guns furiously shelled the Chinese positions in the northern section of the Chapei area, and simultaneously a continuous machine-gun fire broke out along most of the 16-mile front from Shanghai to Paoshan.

The attack came suddenly but not unexpectedly following a day and night of comparative quiet.

PLAN 20-MILE DRIVE

Japanese officials had announced they were about to launch an offensive which would not be let down until the Chinese were driven at least 20 miles from Shanghai.

While guns fired only occasionally through the early part of the day, heavy reinforcements of bluejackets and marines were believed

Floyd Gibbons Back of Lines in Shanghai

New York, Feb. 10 (INS)—Efforts were made today to reach Floyd Gibbons, International News Service Correspondent in the Shanghai war zone, who is somewhere out beyond the lines of communication in quest of news.

The following message was dispatched to Dixon Hoste, staff correspondent in Shanghai, by Newton C. Parker, International News Service director of foreign service:

"Gibbons out in field somewhere. Hoste."

A later message from Hoste stated Gibbons had gone to join Chinese army headquarters in the Woosung district. He was believed to have sent messages back for transmission to New York, but they were probably delayed in reaching Shanghai.

$4,800,000 FOR BOSTON HARBOR

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—Improvement of Boston Harbor to cost $4,800,000 was recommended to Congress today by Maj. Gen. Lytle Brown, chief of army Engineers.

The report said it was advisable to provide for keeping the main ship channel from President Roads to Commonwealth Pier No. 1 to 40 feet depth for a width of 600 feet with suitable widening at the bend in the channel and for dredging to afford an anchorage area 40 feet deep, 2900 feet wide and 3500 feet long on the north side of President Roads.

Gen. Brown said commerce of Boston harbor had increased from 9,000,000 tons in 1919 to 19,000,000 in 1929, but dropped to 15,658,000 tons in 1930. Massachusetts had expended $22,000,000 on improvements, he said, adding that Boston was an important transatlantic port.

Senator Dill Advises Campaign Managers to Strive for N. H. Delegates

By FRASER EDWARDS
Universal Service

Washington, Feb. 10—All candidates, avowed and receptive, for the Democratic presidential nomination now in the lists with the entry of Al Smith, the pre-convention campaign today reached the serious stage of actually pledging delegates to the contenders.

Aside from the canvasses being made on behalf of the big field of "favorite sons," two distinct drives for delegates were under way, which probably will decide the fate of Franklin D. Roosevelt.

One was the drive by the Roosevelt managers for a two-thirds majority, necessary for the nomination. The other was a drive on the part of the anti-Roosevelt forces to prevent the New York governor from getting even a bare majority on the first ballot.

BAY STATE FOR SMITH

Developments since the Smith announcement indicate that Roosevelt has no chance of carrying Massachusetts. The city council of Boston turned on Mayor James M. Curley, Roosevelt's most ardent supporter in the Bay State, and endorsed Smith. That is the attitude of all Democrats in the Massachusetts delegation in Congress.

While Roosevelt and Smith are dueling in the East the boom for Speaker Garner is daily picking up speed in the South and West and Gov. William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray of Oklahoma is making unexpected gains in the corn and wheat belt.

While the Roosevelt supporters still profess confidence that their candidate would go into the Chicago convention with nearly enough to put him over on the first ballot, the entry of Smith as a "draft me" candidate has left them somewhat panicky.

WARNING BY DILL

On the other hand, the anti-Roosevelt allies were convinced that a combination of circumstances would prevent Roosevelt from winning a majority of the delegates on the first ballot, which they believe will represent his maximum strength by the time the convention takes place.

The uneasiness among the Roosevelt followers was evidenced by Senator Dill of Washington, one of the foremost advocates of the New York Governor in Congress, in a letter to James A. Farley, the New York manager for Roosevelt. Dill stressed the necessity of defeating the Smith delegates in New Hampshire on March 8, the first primary to be held.

In another letter to Roosevelt himself, Dill suggested that the Governor enlist politicians with a national viewpoint, experience and contacts in his campaign if he expected to make progress west of the Mississippi.

INJURES SMITH'S CAUSE.

Dill wrote both letters after conferring with Roosevelt supporters in Congress from the south and west regarding the effect of Smith's statement that he would make the fight if drafted by the convention. Despite Smith's explanation after visiting Roosevelt yesterday, the opinion prevailed that he will be the most powerful single individual in the convention.

Dill, in his letter to Farley, urged stead the great importance of Roosevelt taking a positive position on public questions and showing a fighting spirit in this situation, and intimated that Smith's indecisiveness regarding his own candidacy had injured his cause.

The Western progressive urged Farley to concentrate on the New Hampshire primary for the psychological effect a Roosevelt victory would have in the other New England States where the greatest Smith strength lies.

HAITI 'FORCED' TO TAKE LOANS FROM U. S.

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—A Haitian citizen charged before the Senate finance committee, today that the State Department had forced loans upon Haiti.

The charge was made by George Seger, a brother of the Haitian foreign minister. He said, however, he was testifying as a private citizen.

The committee resumed its investigation of foreign loans so as to hear Seger's story.

"U. S. FORCED LOAN"

As he took the stand, the Haitian said:

"I propose to establish that the Haitian people have never solicited a loan on the American market.

"The State Department, by suggestions, recommendations and by constant pressure o nthe Haitian government, forced the loan on the Haitian people."

Seger said he referred to a $16,000,000 loan by the National City Bank.

He said it now is being used by the State Department "for purely political purposes" as a reason for continuing financial supervision in Haiti.

Suggestions for the loan started, Seger said, in 1917 and were repeated each year until the loan was made in 1922.

"ABSOLUTE DICTATOR"

The American financial advisor of Haiti, Seger said, has been an "absolute dictator."

"What he says goes," the witness added.

Seger said that after the 1917 election in Haiti was supervised by the American government, the American legation asked for certain changes in the constitution including one to allow foreigners to hold land.

Gen. Smedley Butler, accompanied by a number of marine officers and with a decree of dissolution, locked the doors of the Congress he said.

Since then, he testified, there was no Congress until the Forbes Commission visited Haiti in 1930.

"So the American government was in absolute possession and domination of the Haitian situation," Seger said.

He testified that Haiti's total foreign debt is now about $34,000,000.

EDGAR WALLACE, NOVELIST, DIES ON COAST

Beverly Hills, Cal., Feb. 10 (AP)—Edgar Wallace, 56, who became one of the world's most prolific and highest paid writers after starting life as a newsboy in the streets of London, died today.

Death was due to double pneumonia.

Wallace came to southern California several months ago to write for a motion picture studio. He became ill last Sunday. His wife was to embark from England for New York today, having arranged to leave her home immediately on hearing of her husband's illness.

Edgar Wallace

SERVED IN BOER WAR

Known especially for his mystery novels, which he often wrote as rapidly as two a month, Wallace was one of the most distinguished writers of the day. He, however, laid no claim to literary genius.

When eighteen he enlisted as a private soldier and saw service in the Boer War. During his six years of active campaigning he developed a latent talent for writing.

He began first by patterning after the man he most admired, Kipling, writing vigorous poetry of soldier life. This attracted the attention of various journals throughout the world, with the result that Wallace had a ready sale for his material.

Accumulating money, he purchased his discharge from the army and covered the rest of the Boer war as a special correspondent for Reuter's News Agency and the London Daily Mail.

FOUNDED NEWSPAPER

After the Boer war, he founded the Rand Daily Mail, the first English newspaper in South Africa. While editing the paper he began writing adventure stories which were eagerly sought by publishers.

Wallace wrote 200 novels, 20 plays and between 1300 and 1400 short stories.

FOES FLAUNT FLAG ON FORT

Shanghai, China, Feb. 10 (AP)—Sometime in the night the Chinese hoisted their five-barred flag of red, yellow, blue, white and black, over the Whangpoo forts. It was on the highest flagpole in town and the Japanese gunners were concentrating their fire on it.

The Chinese were reinforcing the trenches which had been battered by raking shell fire fro mwar craft and airplanes.

The Japanese were working hard on a pontoon bridge across Woosung Creek, but Chinese machine gunners were not making the job any too easy.

Toward dusk a fleet of trucks backed up to the docks on the outskirts of Shanghai and assisted in the unloading of additional field guns which apparently were to be used against Woosung.

There were indications part of the Chinese main force had been taken out of the Chapei lines and sent over to Woosung. Foreign observers found that only two lines of trenches were manned in the North Station sector where heretofore there have been three or four. The nearest Chinese support lines were half a mile to the rear.

ing for him. Gov. Roosevelt's manager says his candidate will be nominated by the Democrats on the first ballot. He is mistaken. It takes two-thirds of the delegates to nominate, and more than one-third will wait and see. Gov. Smith's statement threatens Gov. Roosevelt's candidacy, especially. Democratic managers, anxious to win, will know that Alfred E. Smith's supporters, numbering millions, in case Smith is pushed aside, would resent the nomination of Roosevelt more than any other.

The nomination least harmful to Democratic chances, least apt to offend friends of Gov. Smith, would be the nomination of Speaker Garner. Mr. Garner has lived and worked entirely apart from New York politics. His nomination could not offend Roosevelt, or Smith, or the friends of either.

To soften prohibition's rigor, and make allowances, with a profit, for human weakness, great foreign steamship lines have been organizing trips to nowhere in particular, but always outside the 12-mile prohibition limit. For a reasonable price you could, like "the owl and the pussy cat" that went to sea, sail away, not for "a year and a day" exactly, but for a week or two. Sometimes you went South, where there are palm trees, sometimes North, and always a drinking bar, well provided, went along. And as in hotels before prohibition, the profit was in the bar. For many passengers it mattered little where the ship went, since they would not remember.

The head of the shipping board, R. K. Smith says these "nowhere" trips will no longer be permitted. Mr. Smith, presumably, believes that sailing from New York and back to New York meerly to take the air in the same as coastwise traffic, forbidden to all but American ships. The latter may organize "nowhere" trips, but they will be expected to respect the Constitution and drink water.

NEW TAX PLAN TO HIT ALL

Washington Feb. 10 (INS)—A federal taxation program more far-reaching than any yet proposed to Congress may emerge from the House ways and means committee as the result of disclosures made in new Treasury estimates.

The program admittedly will reach into every pocketbook, directly or indirectly if congressional leaders carry out their promise to balance the budget.

Enactment of a general manufacturers sales tax, with exemptions for food, clothing and similar necessities, was being considered by the ways and means committee as the only means of raising needed revenue without hampering industrial recovery.

Warned by Treasury experts that $1,240,000,000 must be raised in new taxes—$321,000,000 more than estimated in December—leaders on the ways and means committee said they would go the limit to balance the budget. A 1 per cent sales tax would produce upwards of $600,000,000.

Since income taxes will provide not more than a fourth of the revenue, it is probable that $800,000,000 must be in sales, excise or stamp taxes.

Fear that a few specific levies—such as the automobile, electricity and gas taxes—would not yield enough revenue prompted reconsideration of a selected sales tax.

The treasury's figures came as a shock to the committee, but it appeared determined to levy the full amount of taxes needed.

"I believe the budget must be balanced and I will go to almost any length to do it," said Acting Chairman Crisp (D.) of Georgia.

Rep. Hawley of Oregon, ranking Republican, took the same view.

temporarily into the loan portfolios of member banks. These new securities, which are eligible collateral for bank loans at the Federal Reserve, will enable the banks to tap part of the vast unused reserves of the Federal Reserve System.

This is no time for BANK hoarding of gold.

The prosperity bonds will be an instrument for expanding bank credit and utilizing sterilized gold.

WITH vast excess reserves accumulated in the Federal Reserve System, there is no danger of unhealthy inflation.

The Federal Reserve can issue billions in additional currency and credit without reaching the legal limits.

Now is the time to mobilize reserve economic strength, and to use it soundly for socially desirable purposes.

Of what avail is excellent governmental credit, unless it is to be USED in an economic emergency when more than 7,000,000 workers are hopelessly trudging the streets without jobs?

NO individual or firm feels large enough to buck the trend, single-handed.

However, if the government embarks on a far-reaching public works programme, private interests will sense a turn, and will help along the process of recovery by jumping on the bandwagon.

Forty-six eminent economists in a joint memorandum have certified to the feasibility of floating a prosperity loan, and have indicated that it is the most practical means of inaugurating economic recovery.

In floating the bonds, the government will not be competing with private business for capital.

On the contrary, the bonds will be the basis of a healthy credit expansion, which will ease the pressure on business men and arrest the decline in the price level.

The present economic depression tests the capacity of the American people to act collectively in time of peace to accomplish a socially useful objective.

The sooner the plan is envisaged and launched the more effective will the counter deflationary campaign prove.

check revealed that eight finished suits, several lengths of suitcloth and several dozen neckties were missing. The suits in this store's windows are priced at $105 and up.

Hospitals and doctors' offices were being checked up today for clues to the bandit. Four believed to have been wounded in a gun duel last night in a Jamaica Plain drugstore during the carnival of "stick-ups."

The holdups included the robbery of a cashier in the Savin Hill station of the Boston Elevated, four stick-ups in drugstores in Dorchester and Roxbury, and the attempted robbery of the Jamaica Plain drugstore.

ESCAPES WOUNDED

The gun duel occurred in the Southgate Pharmacy, Center st., and Kingsboro rd., Jamaica Plain, when Patrolman William J. Dacey, of the Jamaica Plain station, exchanged shots with the holdup men after being summoned by the proprietor, who had overheard the plan to hold up his store.

Squad cars were dispatched to hospitals and doctors' offices in an effort to trace the wounded man, in all the holdups the bandits secured $378, of which $115 was taken in the El station robbery.

Two masked men took part in this robbery. While two patrons entering the station were held at bay, the thieves took the $115 and fled in a stolen car. This is the second El robbery within a week.

DOCTOR'S CAR USED

Shortly after 11 p. m. four bandits launched their tour of Dorchester, Roxbury and Jamaica Plain. In four drugstores they obtained $295. Three of the four, all armed, participated in the actual robberies while the fourth remained at the wheel of the car. This car, the property of Dr. Harvey Cushing, noted brain specialist, had been stolen from in front of the Peter Bent Brigham Hospital earlier last night.

Their first stop was at the drug store of Hyman Bisotsky, Blue Hill ave. and Seaver st. They took $40 from the cash register and $1 from Bisotsky. A few minutes later they appeared at the pharmacy of Hyman Kaplan at 208 Columbia rd., Dorchester. There they took $89 from the till and $33 from Kaplan.

The trio appeared a short time later in the store of Allen C. Wentworth at 435 Geneva ave, Dorchester, and obtained $50.

Their next visit was at the store of Benjamin Friedman at 154 Washington st., Dorchester, where they got $70.

THE REST OF THE NEWS

BUTLER FOR VOTE

KNIFE IN 90 YEARS

Chicago, Feb. 10 (INS)—Linus Larson's head was clear today—for the first time in 30 years. A knife blade, 2¼ inches long, had been removed from his brain, where it was lodged 30 years ago.

COPS NIGHT BANK

Berwyn, Ill., Feb. 10 (INS)—The night bank adjacent to the police station will be known as the cashier hereafter. Theaters, restaurants and other merchants in need of paper after banking hours were urged today to make the police station their night depository.

CONSERVATIVES WIN

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—Conservatives in Commons have retained their seat in the by-election of the New Forest and Christ Church division of Hampshire, which was necessitated by the elevation of Wilfred Ashley to the peerage.

CURB ON CREDIT NATIONS ASKED

Washington, Feb. 10—A move to shut off the credit of foreign nations defaulting on debts due to the American government for people was under way today.

Senator Hiram Johnson (R.) of California, has introduced a bill strictly forbidding the sale of securities issued by a foreign government which has already defaulted on its obligations.

Violation of the act would be punished by a $10,000 fine, five years imprisonment, or both. Senator Johnson last night said:

"Many individuals and officials abroad are blithely and merrily suggesting that the debts due the United States from foreign governments will never be paid. Perhaps the proposed enactment may have a different effect."

Recent investigation of foreign bond sales by the Senate finance committee disclosed that over $815,000,000 of South American bonds are in default. The issuing governments would be stopped under the Johnson bill from floating new securities here.

POSTCARD CLUE TO GIRL KILLER

New York, Feb. 10 (INS)—A postcard on which a killer revealed the murder of a 13-year-old school girl, regarded as a "model child" in her neighborhood, today was the only clue to the slayer.

Pretty Maria Rosales was found dead by police in an untenanted apartment of a house just east of Fifth ave. in the upper city. Her head was bashed.

Her body, scantily clad, was found in a bathtub partially filled with water. Examination showed the little girl was mistreated.

Already aroused by the murder of a five-year-old girl in Brooklyn, the entire quarter of the city was thrown into excitement by the slaying.

The gruesome find was made by an East Side woman who found the postcard on the building where the girl was found.

"Go to the top floor apartment. You will find something that will surprise you," the message, scrawled in pencil, read.

Maria was reported missing last Monday night by her aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. Ernesto Fernandez, with whom she lived since the death of her mother. Her father, Robert Rosales, an unemployed waiter, is now in Detroit.

HURLEY WOULD BAR FILIPINOS

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—Secretary of War Hurley told the House insular committee today that because of political chaos in the Far East the present is no time to consider liberation of the Philippine Islands, which might lead to anarchy and revolution.

"Final solution," he said, "of political relations can be undertaken at present without grave danger to both the Philippines and the American people."

He advocated restriction of Filipino immigration to the United States as an economic measure and not on racial grounds.

Readjustment of tariff relations between the United States and the Philippines was suggested as a means for improvement of mutual economic conditions.

Refugees Reach Manila

Manila, Feb. 10 (AP)—Small groups of American women and children, refugees from the fighting gat Shanghai, arrived here today on the liners President Van Buren and Empress of Russia. Many more are coming.

RELIEF ACTION IS DUE TODAY

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—A climax was in sight today for the efforts in the Senate to provide help for America's unemployed.

The strongest kind of effort was thrown behind the attempt by Democrats to put over a big road building and relief law program in place of legislating to give, outright, federal funds to the extent of $375,000,000. Its sponsors argued the Democratic measure was the only one with a chance of enactment, that the direct relief bill would fail inevitably before a presidential veto.

A vote was expected and it was conceded the result would be close although the Republican leaders claimed the could defeat it. The prospect is that some unemployment-aid legislation will be passed by the Senate.

The massive strength of the American Federation of Labor was thrown behind the relief movement yesterday in a vividly-worded petition which a delegation of its leaders laid before President Hoover, Vice-President Curtis and Speaker Garner.

The President received it without comment.

Bare "Pet Battle"

James G. McCray, Lynn merchant, is on trial in Lawrence charged with attack on Miss Margaret M. Richards and Miss Inez Smith, both of Salem. Miss Richards told the jury today of the furious battle waged on a lonely road.

'Bud' Stillman Dedicates Life to Doctoring Poor

MAY USE VAST FORTUNE TO AID NEEDY

Copyright, 1932, by the Boston Evening American.

James A. "Bud" Stillman, Harvard Medical School student and heir to a fabulous fortune, has pledged his life as a doctor to service among the poor.

He will not become a specialist in attendance upon the idle rich following his graduation in June; rather, his friends revealed today, he will devote his career as obstetrician and specialist in woman's ills to charitable work among the patients of free institutions.

His fortune, perhaps, as well as his career, is so dedicated.

In furtherance of his study and his wishes, Stillman, who will be a daddy before he is a doctor, is in intensive training as chairman of the reception committee for Old Doc Stork.

He is a daily attendant at the clinic of the Free Hospital for Women, in Brookline, studying among patients to whom luxury is only a word, some of the problems that will confront his young wife probably before the month is over.

Without a regard for his wealth, except as it may be employed in the service of unfortunates and to help fit him for service among those unfortunates, he is specializing in diagnosis and symptoms of women's ailments under Dr. William P. Graves and others at the Free Hospital clinic.

TWO GIRLS PIN BRUTAL ATTACK ON M'CRAY

Victim Tells Court of Desperate Battle and How Father of 2 Fired Shots

Lawrence, Feb. 10—Miss Margaret M. T. Richards, who testified she weighed 86 pounds, collapsed in court today after testifying to intimate details of the alleged attack upon her by James G. McCray, of Swampscott.

Lawrence, Feb. 10—A motherless, 19-year-old girl, took the witness stand here today to bare, before a jury of men, her story of forced submission to an alleged lover's lane attack by James Gordon McCray, Lynn department store manager.

Miss Margaret M. T. Richards, petite, attractive and as emotionally taut as a violin string, was the first witness called at McCray's trial on two indictments charging assault with intent upon Miss Richards and upon Miss Inez Smith, 20, both of Salem.

McCray, who lives in Swampscott with his wife and two children, is also charged with assault on Harry K. Ajootian, to whom the girls are said to have appealed for protection on the night of the attack, last May.

Miss Smith and eight other witnesses were to follow Miss Richards, who began her story against the background of a detailed outline of government's case by Dist. Atty. Hugh A. Greer.

The prosecutor said the government would show that McCray offered to drive the girls home from a Salem Willows dance in the rain, that he drove them, instead, to an isolated road, "a typical lover's lane," in Salem, parked, put out the lights of the car and demanded kisses.

The girls refused, Cregg said, and Miss Smith ran from the car 100 yards up the muddy road to where Ajootian was parked with a girl to get aid.

FIRES A SHOT

McCray produced a revolver, the district attorney charged, and forced Miss Richards to partially disrobe. The girl escaped from the back seat and ran to Ajootian's car and McCray followed, gun in hand, Cregg said.

McCray fired a shot in the air in Ajootian's direction and forced Miss Smith and Miss Richards into his own car again, but Miss Smith escaped a second time and, clinging to Ajootian's car, which had started up, was dragged 300 yards through the mud before she was taken in, it was related.

Miss Richards then attempted to run after Ajootian's car and fell in the mud. As she lay there, Cregg said, McCray hit her on the head with the gun, ordered her to disrobe and when she refused struck her twice more on the head and the girl, grabbing a stone in the road, hit McCray with it in the face.

McCray finally ordered her to "get out" and fired five more shots, and Miss Richards collapsed and remembered no more until she arrived in a Salem hospital, it was told. Cregg said she was in a hospital five days and under treatment of a physician for a month.

Miss Smith returned to the scene with police, and a bunch of keys bearing McCray's name were found in the muddy lovers' lane, the jury was told.

In Bankrupt Role

Louise Brooks is broke despite her prosperous days in the films. "My wearing apparel" is her only asset, but she has plenty of debts.

LOUISE BROOKS' MONEY GONE

New York, Feb. 10—Louise Brooks, film favorite of the pre-talkie era and ex-wife of Eddie Sutherland, motion picture director, has been adjudged a bankrupt with liabilities of $11,969 and assets—"my wearing apparel."

With the mien, mannerisms and background of a girl who knows her Broadway, Miss Brooks' type was regarded as a sure-fire tip to the producers. But Hollywood, asserting itself as knowing its own mind, went in exactly the opposite direction to find a type for Dixie Dugan.

Miss White, who was starred in the film version, produced by First National, is petite, light-haired and weighs 100 pounds.

SAFE BREAKERS TAKE $341

Burglars broke into the Hall block, 267 Moody st., Waltham, early today, forced a safe in the office of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company and took $341.

They fled when discovered by Patrolman John Havey, who was trying doors along his route.

Investigation disclosed they had gained entry by a fire escape into the office of Dr. R. P. Reardon and from there forced their way into the insurance office.

The safe had been moved out from the wall, the combination knocked off and the door forced open. The bandits abandoned a collection of burglar tools.

B. U. 'WAR' OVER RESERVE CORPS

Open "warfare" between the military and theological students at Boston University started today on the bill of the embryo ministers to weaken the R. O. T. C. unit at the university.

Lt.-Col. William A. Canoe, commandant of the reserve officers' battalion, announced he would fight the petition of nine professors and 130 students that asks all military training become optional.

The course at the university is optional now but Col. Canoe pointed out that courses in other colleges are compulsory.

Faster You Go in Your Car, Bigger the Drain on Pocketbook

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—Speed comes high.

The Chicago Motor Club has found, after an exhaustive investigation, that a mile-a-minute in your automobile is from three to four times more expensive than when your speedometer says 40 to 45.

These results were cited:

Tire wear at 50 is twice as much as at 40.

War Declared on N.Y. Rum Selling Clubs

New York, Feb. 10 (INS)—A new drive to close exclusive night clubs was started today by Atty.-Gen. Bennett in serving subpoenas on owners in connection with suits for dissolution on the ground they used state membership charters illegally to evade the cabaret licensing law.

Police Commissioner Mulrooney urged such action to end suspected violation of the liquor laws.

ICE JAMS PERIL MAINE FARMS

Carstunk, Me., Feb. 10 (AP)—The highway to Jackman was blocked again today with ice and water from an ice jam in the Kennebec River.

Last week travel over the road was halted when sections of it were covered with ice which in some places piled up 12 to 16 feet deep.

A temporary road was cut through near the base of the hills and automobiles were able to go through for a few days.

Authorities expressed concern today over a new jam at Otter Pond Landing, where the highway is closely bordered by the river and the base of the hilly which form a narrow vale. Unless the road could be made passable they said, traffic would again be stopped, as there was no room for a temporary way.

To Wed British Girl

London, Feb. 10 (INS)—Lieut.-Commander Trevon O. Summers, medical corps, U. S. N., attached to the Brooklyn Navy Yard, filed notice today of his intention to marry Miss Cynthia Peacock, British society girl.

Now, Is Good Food the Way to Win Love of a Wife?

Atlantic City, Feb. 10 (INS)—If the way to a man's heart is through the stomach, why not a woman's?

Vice-Chancellor Robert H. Ingersoll apparently thought it was worth trying, so he ruled that beginning today George Karras must give his wife her meals in his restaurant even though she is suing him for divorce.

What is more, he was ordered to provide here with "good service and courtesy."

Scores Flee From California Storm

San Francisco, Feb. 10 (AP)—Storm clouds spent their fury in southern California yesterday, inundating thousands of acres of farm lands, washing out bridges, disrupting transportation and driving hundreds from homes.

Near Los Angeles an average of 3.21 inches of rain fell between Sunday night and Tuesday evening, and records of 17 years' standing were shattered.

WOMAN TORCH VICTIM

New York, Feb. 10 (INS)—Her skirt set aflame by two men who first beat her, poured acid over her head and neck and then bound her with wire, Mrs. Lillian Oltmann, 45, today owned her life to the barking of her dog.

She went into the cellar of her Jamaica home to tend the furnace when her assailants attacked her. After they set fire to the skirt, the dog barked upstairs and the men, frightened, fled.

"You'll never live to testify against your husband," she declared they taunted her before escaping.

TOWN CAUCUS IN BROOKLINE

Brookline citizens go to the polls today to nominate candidates for selectmen, school committee, assessors, auditors, park commission, water board and constable.

Walter J. Cusick, who has been a member of the board of selectmen since 1911, is seeking renomination. He is opposed by Meyer J. Wolf, publisher and attorney.

For school committee there are five candidates for the three positions, Mrs. Lotta Bradburn, a member of the present committee; Col. Edward B. Richardson, Roger Griswold, Dr. Thomas P. Kendrick and Leslie G. Rich.

CRASH! AND NOW THERE'LL BE MORE ICE!

CONGRESS WILL GET NAVY BILL

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—Chairman Vinson of the House naval committee said today Congress will be asked to approve his $616,250,000 warship construction bill before the present sessions ends.

The measure, which would authorize 120 new vessels, has been approved by the committee. A request for House action, however, was delayed because of the depleted condition of the treasury.

"I feel now that we should go ahead and present the bill to Congress as soon as possible," Vinson said.

"As soon as the tax bill and the annual Navy Department appropriation bill are out of the way I shall ask the committee to permit me to go ahead."

Smith Out of Race, Says Georgia Leader

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 10 (AP)—Maj. John S. Cohen, Democratic national committeeman from Georgia, says he neither considers former Gov. Al Smith a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination nor believes Smith considers himself one.

"He is an able man," Maj. Cohen said, "and I supported him most heartily in 1928, but he is not only not available but in my judgment could not be elected and, good politician that he is, he knows it full well."

Never has skidding in Boston's treacherous streets been more prevalent than it was today. Snow covered the ice and pedestrians and autos both found the going dangerous. Dozens of persons were injured. Photo shows one of the lucky accidents with none hurt. San Saberman of Dorchester was driving at Washington and Union Park sts. when he hit the ice and crashed an "L" pillar. (Staff photo.)

PLEADS TO EASE VETS' BURDEN

If Congress authorizes immediate payment of the 50 per cent balance of the war veterans' adjusted service certificates, a tremendous burden will be lifted from state-operated soldiers' relief departments, the legislative committee on constitutional law was told today at a hearing.

Francis X. Cotter, legislative chairman of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, speaking on the petition by Rep. Daniel J. O'Connor, Jr., of Lynn, to memorialize Congress in favor of immediate payment, said the veterans have already drawn $1,200,000,000.

"In this same sum," he said, "the veterans' relief organizations of the country would be relieved if the other 50 per cent of the money is paid."

President Hoover Quits Handshaking

His place will be taken, however, at the formal reception of groups and organizations by Mrs. Hoover.

It having been found that an ever mounting succession of telephone calls, capped by tens of thousands of hand-shakers, were making inroads on the Chief Executive's time and strength,

ITALY OFFERS MOST DRASTIC ARMS CUT

Geneva, Feb. 10 (AP)—Foreign Minister Dino Grandi of Italy and Ambassador Tsuneo Matsudaira of Japan presented the last two of the disarmament proposals of the five great powers to the world conference today.

Italian Minister Grandi brought thunders of applause from the floor as he toiled off in staccato fashion a long list of war implements Italy stands ready to scrap.

The list included capital ships, submarines, aircraft carriers, heavy artillery, tanks, bombing aircraft and chemical warfare weapons.

FIRST REAL PROPOSAL

He also proposed a revision of the laws of war to protect civilian populations. In international quarters afterward the Italian plan was hailed as the first proposal for "real disarmament."

Signor Grandi's address brought three especially enthusiastic outbursts of applause when he said his country was willing to prolong the London naval treaty, to do everything possible toward bringing about actual disarmament and to abolish many of the most important items on armament programs.

He said Italy rejected the French theory of security to precede disarmament. "Without disarmament," he added, "there can be no security." He accepted the German demand that other nations disarm in the same proportion as Germany is forced to do under the treaty of Versailles.

JAPAN "EAGER TO AID"

Ambassador Matsudaira, chief of the Japanese delegation, assured the conference, in the shortest speech delivered by the representative of any of the great powers, that, "notwithstanding the unfortunate situation in the Far East, Japan is as eager as ever to further the cause of disarmament."

He said Japan favors reduction in size of battleships and caliber of guns, reduction of tonnage of airplane carriers, strict limitation of the use of all classes of war vessels, prohibition of air bombardments and of the use of poison gas and bacteria.

August Zaleski, Polish representative, presented a plan for "moral disarmament." He said Poland would offer a formal program under this head later and that Ambassador Hugh Gibson of the United States, "forcibly reminded us yesterday the best guarantee of security consists in our neighbors' good will."

FOES STRENGTHEN LINES

The above map shows the areas where the Japanese and Chinese are bolstering up their forces in anticipation of heavy fighting. The Foreign Settlement in Shanghai was bombed yesterday by Chinese, but little property damage was done.

JAP ATTACK ON 16-MILE LINE

to have been landed along the Whangpoo banks.

It was announced today that American troops of the 31st Infantry tomorrow would take over half of the sector now garrisoned by volunteers, who are holding the dangerous area immediately along the North Station front.

The United States Marines, holding a line on a 10-mile front inside and outside of the International Settlement, took up the heaviest burden of the defense of the Settlement. The marines' line extended from the Settlement's extreme western areas, along Soochow Creek, the northern boundary, until it met the soldiers of the 31st United States Infantry 10 miles to the east.

Parts of this front faced directly on Chapei, daily scene of shelling, bombing and heavy machine gun fire. The Chinese troops faced the marines across Soochow Creek and the marines were kept constantly on the alert as the Chinese erected barricades, but relations between the two forces were described as "friendly as possible under the circumstances" and the marines were not worried.

PEACE IS ASKED

Leading Chinese commercial and banking organizations sent telegrams during the day to Secretary of State Stimson at Washington and to the British, French and Italian premiers, urging them to try to bring about a settlement of the Sino-Japanese dispute "in accordance with the ideals of the League of Nations, the Kellogg pact and the nine-power treaty." The messages said that unless the conflict was settled soon it was likely to develop "into the actuality of a world catastrophe."

The Chinese defenders of the Woosung forts again clung tenaciously to their positions in the face of a terrific shelling and attacks by the Japanese. Japanese airplanes also bombed the forts again, but failed to dislodge the Chinese machine gunners, firmly planted in their shell holes and crannies.

Shells and bullets from the Chapei conflict continued to land in the International Settlement, thudding against the walls of the municipal police station on Dixwell road, in the Hongkew area, for example, at such a rate that the station was ordered closed. The small body of foreign police was reluctant to quit the post, which for a week has been the only occupied building in that part of the Settlement, and it was announced they would continue their guard throughout the day.

U. S. TENDER ARRIVES

The most serious action earlier today was the bombing again of the Chapei sector by two Japanese airplanes which were up for about an hour. The bombers were closely guarded by pursuit planes. Chinese fired at the planes without effect, it was believed, although there was a rumor that one of the planes had been disabled.

An unconfirmed report, which first appeared in a local foreign-language newspaper, that a Chinese cavalry unit had attacked Japanese machine-gunners at Kiangwan, was ridiculed by headquarters of the Chinese 19th army. The Chinese have no cavalry, headquarters said, and if they had they would not use them in the narrow streets of the village where the battle was being fought.

Japs Must Withdraw From Foreign Quarter First

Nanking, Feb. 10 (US)—China will not negotiate peace with Japan until Japan "ceases to use the International Settlement at Shanghai as a base for military operations against the Chinese," Foreign Minister Lo Wen-Kan declared today.

Meanwhile, Lo added, the Chinese "will be forced to defend themselves."

JAP ENVOYS TO EXPLAIN STAND

Tokio, Feb. 10 (AP)—Foreign Minister Kenkichi Yoshizawa announced today he had under consideration a plan to send envoys to the United States, England and France to explain and clarify the Japanese position on the Manchurian question.

The men to present the Japanese viewpoint have been tentatively selected. They are Viscount Keniaro Kaneko, who would go to Washington; Baron Genzaie Hayashi, London; and Viscount Kiku Jiro, Paris.

Chinese Envoy Makes New Plea to League

Geneva, Feb. 10 (INS)—The League of Nations Council today awaited more facts before acting on the Shanghai situation, following another Chinese plea for action against Japan.

"China cannot yield further," the council in special session was told by Dr. W. W. Yen, Chinese spokesman.

M. Sato, Japanese delegate, told the delegates:

"My government has no intention of continuing the hostilities in Shanghai."

The whole meeting broke out in laughter. Sato, angered at this, exclaimed:

"I do not know what the public thinks, but up to the present, our acts have been prompted by the provocation of our opponents."

U. S. ARMY BOY LIKES HIS JOB AT SHANGHAI

By MORRIS J. HARRIS

(Copyright, 1932, by The Associated Press.)

Shanghai, Feb. 10—You can take it from Private W. H. Lawin, United States Army, that Gen. Sherman had the wrong slant on this war business.

In fact, says Private Lawin, war isn't half bad, and he speaks with a measure of authority. Although he has had only nine months with the army, as a member of the Second Battalion, 31st Infantry, he has had a front row reserved seat on the Chapei battlefront since his outfit took over part of the International Settlement defense line.

Private Lawin was standing lone guard inside a sand-bag "pillbox." He was cold but cheerful, and not indisposed to hash up a little philosophy.

"TIME OF HIS LIFE"

"You can tell the folks back home I'm having the time of my life," he grinned, shifting from one foot to the other.

"It's a little colder here than in Manila, where our outfit had been stationed, and there's not so much night life, but there's action, and that's what I joined up for.

"I've done a lot of traveling all right. First they sent me to Manilla, and just when I was getting used to the tropics they shipped me up here, where it's nearly as cold as Cornucopia, Wis., my home town. There's been no leave since we got here and the quarters aren't as comfortable—and too, we've been getting a lot of 'corned bully.' But I'm not kicking. This war makes up for a lot.

WOMEN WEAR "PANTS"

"I must say though, there are some ways that Cornucopia has got it over Shanghai, or Manila.

"First, take the girls at Cornucopia—

"Say, there's some mighty nice looking girls back there in Cornucopia and I've seen nothing here to compare with them. Fact is, I don't like the way the Chinese girls do their hair and I don't like to see women wearing pants."

Private Lawin's discourse was suddenly interrupted.

"Hey! Get out of there," he shouted.

He ran along the back of Soochow creek to stop a Chinese refugee who was trying to wriggle through the barbed wire entanglements. The hapless Chinese retreated hastily as the young American, with bayonet fixed, bore down upon him.

"JUST LIKE A MOVIE"

Further conversation was interrupted by a roar overhead. Private Lawin leaned over his sandbag wall excitedly as Japanese airplanes swooped low and dropped bombs on battle-scarred Chapei across the river.

"That's what makes this war interesting," he exclaimed when the spitting of Chinese anti-aircraft guns had subsided with the retirement of the bomber.

"It's just like a movie thriller. Only it's real. And just when things get kind of slow a stray shell is liable to land within a few feet of you."

Private Lawin said he was 21 years old.

Pullman Porters' Pay Cut

Chicago, Feb. 10—The Pullman Company has decided to reduce the wages of sleeping car porters $5 a month, the amount of the increase granted in 1929.

WAR Bulletins

WU SPURNS POST

Hong Kong, Feb. 10 (AP)—C. C. Wu, long an outstanding figure in Chinese politics, has definitely declined appointment as governor of Canton. It was said he could not exact from the military arm a pledge that an entirely civilian government would be permitted.

JAPS PROTEST KILLING

Shanghai, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Japanese command said today a vigorous protest would be filed with the Chinese authorities for the killing of the captain of a Japanese merchant vessel by Chinese soldiers.

FRENCH TROOPS ARRIVE

Shanghai, Feb. 10 (AP)—The French cruiser Waldeck Rousseau arrived today from French Indo-China, with a battalion of colonial infantry to be added to the foreign defense forces of Shanghai.

900 RACE HORSES SAVED

Shanghai, Feb. 10 (INS)—Chinese and foreign race track fans today rescued 900 pedigreed horses from the Kiangwan race club stables and brought them to this city. The animals had been under a heavy aerial bombardment by Japanese.

CANTON FLIERS JOIN WAR

Tokio, Feb. 10 (INS)—Twenty-six Cantonese airplanes were en route today to Nanking as a base for a concerted Chinese air attack upon the Japanese in Shanghai, according to Shanghai dispatches to Tokio newspapers.

CHINA SET TO FIGHT

Nanking, Feb. 10 (INS)—"China's national policy in future will be armed resistance of alien invasion," Wang Chin-Wei, chairman of the Executive Yuan (corresponding to a premier in Europe), told International News Service today.

ANTI-WAR JAPS SEIZED

Tokio, Feb. 10 (AP)—Twenty-five students at the Imperial University were arrested today for participating in a demonstration in which handbills were distributed urging the people to "stop this imperialistic war!"

BRITAIN TO QUIT SOVIET PACT

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—The British government is considering denouncement of the trade treaty with Soviet Russia, made by the late Labor government, the Daily Mail said today, to stop the "dumping" of Russian goods on the home market.

The announcement will be made, the paper said, when Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon returning from the disarmament conference at Geneva. Britains trade balance is imperilled by imports of Russian goods exceeding British exports to Russia by nearly $100,000,000 a year, the Mail says.

Most British goods bought by Russia have been purchased on credit and Russia now owes Great Britain $200,000,000, while Russian goods have flooded the home market at prices sometimes 40 per cent below British prices.

SIX SENATORS AID HOOVER IN CREDIT RELIEF

Glass to Introduce Non-Partisan Bill Agreed Upon at White House Conference

Washington, Feb. 10 (AP)—A non-partisan move to loosen the credit situation and strengthen the work of the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was instituted by President Hoover today at an early conference with six senators.

Shortly after the conference adjourned White House officials announced Senator Glass (D., Va.), one of the conferees, would introduce a bill designed to bring about these results.

Details concerning the methods to be followed in relieving the credit situation and bolstering the $2,000,000,000 credit corporation were not immediately available.

Three members of the finance corporation joined in the conference. They were acting Secretary Mills, of the Treasury; Eugene Meyer, chairman of the corporation's board and Charles G. Dawes, its president.

The Senators called to the White House were Watson (R., Ind.), Robinson (D., Ark.), Glass (D., Va.), Walcott (R., Ct.), Townsend (R., Del.) and Bulkley (D., Ohio).

DESIGNS NEW SUBMARINE

Sir Hubert Wilkins, famed explorer of the polar regions, now in San Francisco, Cal., lecturing on his Arctic trip aboard the submarine Nautilus, has designed an entirely new type of undersea craft for work around the north and south poles. He is shown with some of the 4000 feet of motion pictures film he took on his epic trip. (International Newsreel photo.)

JAIL FUGITIVE STILL AT LARGE

Plymouth, Feb. 10—Ernest Valley, escaped Bridgewater state farm prisoner, was still at large today while his captured partner chuckled over a dash the two made yesterday from the courthouse steps.

With Leon Benoit, Valley escaped a dozen shots as he darted through several streets with a handcuff dangling from his wrist.

Benoit was captured but told his captors:

"I'm glad Ernie got away. He got a tough break."

The pair were in court to receive additional sentences in connection with an escape they made from the farm last fall.

State troopers and local police searched all night for Valley but met with no success.

HARBOR FORTS ARE UNGUARDED

Washington, Feb. 10—Two-thirds of the nation's coast artillery fortifications are unguarded, their guns and other armament easy prey to enemy agents who could make key harbors and cities defenseless for six months, Universal Service learned today.

As a result of the administration's defense-scuttling policy, coast artillery personnel has been so slashed that only six of 15 harbor defense units have sufficient complement to maintain guards over the fortification armament.

The remaining 10 units are on a "caretaker basis," the War Department revealed, with two or three officers and a handful of enlisted men in charge. As each coast defense unit consists of a number of individual forts, these forces are barely sufficient to keep military administration functioning. Guns and other defenses, for the most part, are left unguarded.

BANG COMING BACK AGAIN

Soft, Tufted Effect to Be the Mode

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—The spring robin redbreast will see the bang going back in favor as a style for the feminine crowning glory.

Not the formal square Dutch cut bang, nor that tufted effect worn by Victorian fashion plates, but a light, soft, slightly undulating bang that will break the monotony of foreheads long bared to the elements.

This information came from Paris by way of the inner office of the Illinois Hair-Dressers' Association, where President Max Hoefer studied topknot style forecasts.

However, it was stressed, the hair is dressed back from the forehead. The new bang is simply soft, thinned-out ringlet curls that stray over the forehead.

Very piquant are curls peeping out from under the brim of the new hats that slant down over the right eye. Equally pleasing, the hair-dresser predicted, will be light ter and seven-eighths length. Wool

Suit and Coat Ensembles to Be Popular This Spring

Paris, Feb. 10 (AP)—Spring costumes may be silk or wool, plain or trimmed, but a large percentage of the time they will be suits.

Silk suits are especially popular, and are shown in numbers by Chantel, Mirande and Lanvin. Patou varies the silk suit with a loose bolero, and also shows the bolero suit in linen.

Two-piece suits with short, semi-fitted jackets are featured in Augusta Bernard's collection. Very short jacket suits are used by Vionnet.

A white shantung ensemble is sponsored by Lanvin, as well as many ensemble coats in three quarter, seven-eighths length. Wool coat ensembles are found among Patou's costumes, and Vionnet shows print ensembles with a chiffon dress and a crepe coat of the same pattern.

Coats have many kinds of treatment. Elbow sleeved coats worn with long sleeved dresses, coats with Dolman sleeves, coats with draped collars are among the throng. Cape sleeve details are very popular. Flared circular coats, often belted are used by Lanvin, as well as coats with very large sleeves above the elbow.

MARRIAGE RAP COSTS HIM JOB

Danville, Ky., Feb. 10 (AP)—Charles J. Thurmond's views on matrimony, which were published under the caption "Stupidity of Marriage," have cost him his job as editor of the Cento, student publication at Centre College.

A big demand for copies of the February 5 issue was reported today when it became known that the editorial had resulted in Thurmond's removal.

Thurmond wrote that marriage "ends in wrecked lives and the casting of ugly blemishes on young lives having to come in contact with it."

At a meeting of the college discipline committee, called yesterday by Dr. Charles J. Truck, president, Thurmond was ousted as editor. The paper's staff named Larry Woboril to succeed him. Thurmond's supporters claimed the storm was caused by "class politics."

Colored Gowns for Court Approved by Royal Pair

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—Women folk summoned to attend the royal courts this season may wear colored gowns modeled upon four approved by the King and Queen today.

A description of the gowns now on view in the Lord Chamberlain's office says one is of cloud-white silk net sprinkled with tiny diamond stars; another is of waterlily green Nottingham lace and silk chiffon; the third is Australian gold, ruby, orange and black brocade; the fourth is of orchid mauve satin with a train of pansy velvet.

Flu Attacks Nearly Half of Population

East Woodstock, Conn., Feb. 10—Out of this village's population of 263, 128, including 26 of the town's 34 grammar school children, were ill with the "flu" today.

UNION TO BACK OUSTED PILOTS

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Air Line Pilots' Association, which claims a membership of 00 fliers and is affiliated with the American Federation of Labor, has decided to stand behind the 23 Century Air Lines pilots discharged yesterday after they declined to accept a wage cut.

President David Behncke, announced all pilots who enter the employ of the Century Lines under the new rate of pay will be permanently barred from the association. The discharged men will be cared for by the union's benefit fund.

The 23 fliers turned down $5 an hour for night and $3 an hour for day flying with a month minimum guarantee of $150, threatening to strike if former flat salaries of $350 to $375 a month were not restored. The company announced it would hire other pilots.

Seventeen planes were grounded as the result of the disagreement.

'BUD' STILLMAN TO DOCTOR POOR

Harvard, has been among "free" patients. He was attached to City Hospital for three months before beginning his study at the Free Hospital for Women.

To hundreds of patients with whom he has come in contact he is just a tall, clean young man with reddish hair and a pleasant smile, erroneously called "Doctor," without any of the background of wealth and notoriety that the name Stillman conjures. That is as he would have it.

Perhaps, in his hospital work, he thinks of his own modest household in Newell rd., Brookline, where his Canadian backwoods wife, Lena, is a "patient expectant." Or his thoughts may turn to that army of women, denied of wealth and luxury, who still continue to give life to the world that the world may go on. Many such women has the son of wealth administered to as a student doctor and many such women have whispered of their struggle.

UNMINDFUL OF WEALTH

At any rate, he isn't thinking of his father's millions or of moneyed comforts.

Sober-minded, serious of thought and purpose, this son of wealth is unassuming, modest and quiet spoken—an ambitious young man pursuing the regimen requisite of his chosen profession.

During his three months of service among the needy sick at the City Hospital, many cases were assigned to him for care and treatment and he handled his tasks with extraordinary capability.

At the City Hospital, officials say that Stillman is a promising doctor. That he possesses those necessaries which make for success in medicine. That he has patience and tact and understanding. That he possesses the rare gift of sympathy.

"When young Stillman came to the Boston City Hospital he had many hardships to overcome," a hospital authority said. "But he got over them nicely. He was simple and unassuming and he demonstrated an extraordinary desire to learn and to be of service. He was one of the best-liked medical student ever to come to the hospital.

FAMILIAR FIGURE

"His patients admired and believed in him. He encouraged confidence and those cases which were assigned to him for treatment, he handled well."

His figure coated in white with "H. M. S." initialed on the sleeves came to be a familiar sight in Wards T and U where he served as City Hospital.

His daily visits were anticipated by those to whom he administered. Nurses enjoyed working with him. He never commanded them. He simply requested their co-operation.

"Bud" Stillman asked no favors of hospital authorities. He wanted only to be given a chance to make good and this he did.

To his patients his name meant nothing. That he was the son of the New York banker and Mrs. Fiji Fowler McCormick, they were totally unaware.

LEARNS OF SUFFERING

They only knew that he was a "good-natured young doctor" who had patience and was willing to listen to their recitals of ills and pains.

Ever since boyhood and the days of unpleasant litigation between his parents, when "Bud" staunchly defended his mother and stood by her in the front-paged recordings of divorce, he has voiced undeniable respect of womanhood.

That he will serve womanhood when he passes the New York medical board examination next June, completes a natural sequence.

He has always stood for simplicity in life and in womanhood. He married a simple maiden of the backwoods—not a social butterfly, but a sturdy young woman who would be a sturdy mother of his children. He lives simply with her, and by a simple philosophy that exalts wholesome pursuit of wholesome pleasure.

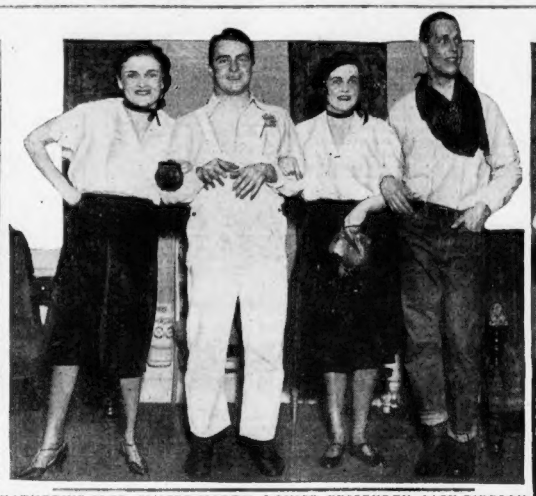
SOCIETY SCORNS EVENING DRESS TO DON OLD CLOTHES FOR CHARITY-POVERTY BALL

DOROTHY PORTER ALLEN ELLIS



KATHERINE BUSK WALTER HARDY LOUISE FESSENDEN JACK PIERSON

AND A GOOD TIME WAS HAD BY ALL—at the Somerset last night, of course. Evening gowns and dress suits were forgotten and instead society folks, young and old, dug out their old clothes, or borrowed their brothers' or husbands' for the jamboree, Dorothy Porter and Allen Ellis were snapped by the cameraman as they enjoyed a little chat between dances. Katherine Busk and Louise Fessenden were with Walter Hardy and Jack Pierson much of the evening, the quartet having a whale of a time. Another group included Dorothy Forbes, Malcolm Stone, Jr., and Alice Ellsworth. Dorothy and Alice were among the many girls present who wore long trousers, while young Stone had his old hat and pipe to go with his costume. (Staff photos.)

DOROTHY FORBES MALCOLM STONE, JR. ALICE ELLSWORTH

BEACON HILL

by Betty Alden

SIDEWALKS OF NEW YORK! WE DROPPED DOWN to Hogan's Alley last night, heard there was going to be a brawl there and, shades of our Irish ancestors, we wouldn't miss one of those. What a riot! All the molls and sailors' sweethearts turned loose for the jamboree at the Charity-Poverty Ball.

* * *

Our first stop was at the Bowery Bar where there was cider and Grade A, hot dogs, sinkers and hunks of pie. After our stroll along the river front, we was hungry and didn't they say it was for charity? Catching sight of a fresh young paper boy—poor kid, he was barefoot on such a freezing night —we gave him a dime for a paper. What a dirty face that kid had, and he looked as though he hadn't had a square meal in his life. Wiping away a tear, we carried on to Sammy's Liner where the boys were playing the Gambling Blues—they had a hearing on Tuckerman's bill yesterday—and walked up the alley on the arm of a sailor.

JUNIA MASON

They must have thought it was Monday—everybody in the neighborhood had their wash out. Lizzie has gone back to canton flannel these hard times and they must have been short of soap in some of them flats. At the end of the alley we met Mrs. Waters, the social worker for this affray, and how she can mix with that gang all the time simply astonishes us. A good woman, Mrs. Waters, and not bad looking.

* * *

THE COMMITTEE ON DECORATION HAD DRAPED ALL the lamp posts with mosquito netting and it made a girl look real nice, the dim light we mean. Saw those "hussies," the Fessenden girls, trying to pick up a couple of tramps. They don't chew their gum right. Somebody's cook, Betty Wells, came out of the bakery eating a doughnut. She paled up with the Draper kid and before long they had a string of bums after them like a link of sausages. Good looking dames.

* * *

With a Tramp

THE SNOB OF THE ALLEY, Madelyn Phillips, were gardenias, mind you, on her last year's ermine. Trying to ape the rich, that one. A fine buxom gypsy walked along as pert as you please, Chief Chapin's daughter, Martha. A tramp was with her, and she didn't feel a bit ashamed. Some folks will take anything. This poor little Gibson girl, Eleanor, is still trying to be the girl of the Good Old Summer Time of 1910, but the fellers won't stand for those high collars and your pertcoat hanging these days. She'd better wake up.

* * *

ONE TERRIBLY FRESH thing was out walking with her beau in a bathing suit of the vintage of '91, what a sight she was. Now at Revere Beach it would be different. But on Commonwealth ave.—she hasn't been brought up right. A couple of chorines, Harriet Blake from up Dedham-way and Dorothy Higginson from the Limehouse district, were giving the artists the once over. Those guys must have been down there to get some local color, and did they get it?

* * *

In Brother's Pants

GOSH, WE WOULDN'T HAVE believed it if we hadn't seen it with our own eyes, but quite a bunch of those little kids was wearing their brothers' pants. Gee, we didn't know times was as hard as that. Berita Bartlett and the little Forbes kid and Bobsy Ellsworth, John's girl, all wore pants, right out in the open. They was with fellers, too. Penn Rogers and Al Harrison, and Sayard Tuckerman Elkins and Mal Stone, Jr. Junia Mason now looked different—hers were made of silk, and Robby White looked

Prizes Awarded

THERE WAS A GRAND march and a few foreigners got in by mistake but the gang was out for a good time so there was no shooting. Rosie Almy—who by the way was the kid we bought the paper from—got the first prize, and if it wasn't a boiled dinner, it should have been. Higginson's wife got second, no wonder — evidently he hasn't bought her a new dress since Adam left Eden. Harry Howe, that worthless-looking tramp, walked off with first prize for the bruisers, and Charlie, the Richardson's janitor, got the booby. Everyone went into Somerset Hotel for a speel.

* * *

A Swell Night

IT WAS A SWELL NIGHT and the little orphans of the storm will probably get a square meal tomorrow. The sailor turned out to be a gentleman and took us home in a taxi. Bon voyage!

Entertain Niece

THE WILLIAM PHILLIPS gave a dinner party for their niece, Miss Madelyn Phillips, a debutante of this season, before the charity ball last evening.

Girls Busy in "Leap Year"

Chicago, Feb. 10 (US)—Samuel E. Epstein, bachelor and assistant city prosecutor, who recently adopted a baby, disclosed today that he had received scores of "leap year" proposals from girls who insisted he "needed a wife now."

Thomas Sings at Musicale

The fourth in the delightful series of Boston Morning Musicales was held at the Hotel Statler today at 11 o'clock, with John Charles Thomas as the artist. As usual, coffee was served afterwards, and the charming chairman, Mrs. John W. Meyers, greeted her many friends who fill the ballroom to capacity for these concerts.

On Committees

Directing the group in charge of the several entrances were Mrs. John D. Adams, assisted by Mrs. Frederick C. Bacon, Mrs. Francis G. Barnum, Mrs. Lawrence Black, Miss Louise Coburn, Mrs. Winthrop S. Jameson and Mrs. T. Barnet Plimpton. Mrs. William Emerson Barrett had charge of the programs, and assisting her were Mrs. Walter A. Carl and Mrs. Howard E. Plimpton. Standing at the head of the stairs to direct subscribers were Mrs. John F. Capron and Mrs. Joseph H. Pratt, and Mrs. Charles T. Gilbert took orders.

Mrs. Walter A. Carl entertained a large group at luncheon after the concert, at her home in Brookline, and included among her guests were Mrs. Horatio Alden, Mrs. Thomas Allen, Mrs. Francis G. Barnum, Mrs. William Emerson Barrett, Mrs. Prescott Bigelow, Mrs. Frank Brewer, Mrs. Henry L. Bunce, Jr., Mrs. Francis W. Capper, Mrs. Eugene Noble Foss, Mrs. Frank Godfrey, Mrs. Harold F. McNeil, Mrs. Nathaniel W. Niles, Mrs. John Ramsay, Mrs. Charles Rowley, Mrs. Charles D. Russell, Miss Marguerite Soubier, Mrs. Howard Turner and Mrs. Cortland Van Voorhis.

New Workers

Two new members have been added to the committee, Mrs. John Hoar of Brookline and Mrs. Albert M. Kales of Boston. Co-chairmen with Mrs. Meyers include Mrs. A. Barr Comstock, Mrs. H. Parker Willington and Mrs. Theodore T. Whitney.

In charge of the usher corps made up of Junior League members were Mrs. Edward B. Richardson, and directing them was Nancy Adams. Included in this group were Miss Peggy Bradley, Miss Madelyn Phillips, Miss Katherine Thayer and Miss Ada Trafford, all debutantes of this season; Miss Barbara Richardson, a deb of last year; Miss Betty Hobbs, a post-deb of two seasons ago, and Mrs. Edward Hamlin, Jr., a new member of the young married set.

Thomas F. Farrell Dies in Capital

Washington, Feb. 10—Thomas F. Farrell, of Boston, once prominent member of the Roxbury Tammany Club, who came to Washington 20 years ago as protege of Mayor James M. Curley, when the latter was a member of Congress, and was named as one of the doorkeepers of the House, is dead here of cerebral hemorrhage.

Books—And a Number of Things

By CHARLES HANSON TOWNE

Charm is the quality which gets into Ruth Sawyer's unclassifiable book, "Folkhouse," issued by the house of Appleton. It is a volume to take to one's heart. It is, indeed, a prose poem; and in these unquiet times it comes like manna from heaven.

An old mill tells its own story: how Ann and Martin, two young lovers, found it and turned it into a home. There they lived and loved and suffered and smiled, and watched the long pageant of the years march by. War came to disturb them; but children came, too, and the old mill sheltered them. They were happy and sad. They had dreams in their heart, and they loved every beam and board that whispered of the gentle past to them.

In the very beginning we hear the old mill saying:

"This is the story of Martin and Ann's home: not the story of the house they made out of the old mill but of the spirit that dwelt with them under its roof-tree."

* * *

I suppose that more people yearn for a little country home than for anything else. Then this is the book for them to read, for it is full of idealism and sentiment. There is an elfin-like enchantment running through the pages, and one would have to be hard-hearted indeed not to discover the fragrance in these idyllic chapters. It reminds one of old lavender; but never once does Miss Sawyer break her fine thread and drop into a pitfall of mush, which any writer might have been sorely tempted to do. I think she has created a work of art.

* * *

We turn from this peace to the stormy life of Tom Paine, as written with fervor by George Creel. Sears is his publisher.

It was in January, 1776, that Paine wrote his famous plea for the liberty of the American Colonies; and, as Mr. Creel says, when the Declaration of Independence was written, "the words were those of Thomas Jefferson, but the thought was that of Thomas Paine."

The progressive campaigns of the Twentieth Century were based upon the ideas that Paine advanced more than 100 years before. "Pensions for the aged, maternity benefits, a subsidy to the children of the very poor, municipal factories, labor unions, compulsory education, widows' maintenance—these things were only a few of his suggestions, nor were they mere shots at the moon," says Creel.

No man was ever more persecuted and hunted. He spent years in exile, and found himself at last a man without a country. His last days were full of sorrow and a bitter agony of the spirit; but his ideas and ideals have survived. Mr. Creel ends his volume with these ringing words:

"His Age of Reason stands denoded, for modern criticism has forced the abandonment of much that he assailed, but his political writings have the same fire as when they drove the Hessians from our shores, shook the walls of the Bastille to their fall and lighted England's way to freedom. In the whole American record there is no finer name to hang as a liberty bell in the heart of the youth of the land, for his pure patriotism, his passionate democracy and his drama of his fight for liberty under three flags all combine to make him a figure rich in inspiration."

Mr. Creel's volume might be taken as a model for other biographers, for here is not a wasted word. He is succinct, direct, forceful: yet he had at his hand the material for a massive two-volume life. He chose instead to tell his story in 173 pages. For that self-discipline he deserves the highest credit.

* * *

Sears also publishes a sensible little volume, particularly timely now. "How Shrewd Speculators Win," prepared by Fred C. Kelly and Sullivan Burgess. It is a guide to behavior when the market rises. Who, at this time, is not thinking of that great moment when such an event will occur? Be forehanded, then, and get this book, study it; ponder over it. And you will probably go forth and make the same mistakes you made before the debacle.

Yet the advice given here is sound; and if you followed it you might find yourself back in a field of clover. And you would sleep better at night.

A dozen sensible rules are given at the end; but human nature being what it is, I wonder how many people will conscientiously follow them after the depression ends. The authors themselves make this reservation:

"The truth is that scarcely any rule is ever good enough to be followed implicitly. Sooner or later a situation is almost sure to arise to make it expedient to break the best of rules. If one were to offer a single rule guaranteed to hold down the public's losses, it would certainly be: Never buy stocks on margin. There are many reasons why the margin player is almost sure to lose. One of these is that powerful interests seldom buy stocks except during a reaction—frequently a reaction that they themselves have engineered. They can't get stocks as cheaply as they desire unless they can force thinly margined traders to sell."

One is told to cut losses instantly, but let profits run. Never to take merely a view of the market but always a position; and so on.

The book is full of wise counsel. It remains to be seen how many will profit by what is here written with the best intentions in the world.

Wardrobe Off One Pattern

By DOROTHY ROE

New York, Feb. 10 (US)—The neatest trick of the week is an idea developed by a well-dressed young debutante-about-town who has modelled her entire wardrobe—with the exception of evening gowns and sweaters, of course—on one pattern.

It's really the easiest way out of the fashion dilemma. Find a style that's becoming to your own particular style of beauty. Be sure it's right. And then have it made up in sheer woollens and heavy silks, novelty cottons and feather-weight tweeds. You'll be surprised how satisfying it is.

Once you've picked out the model which brings out all your best points and conceals the bad ones, you may give it to your dressmaker and have it copied in a happy variety of fabrics.

Then get the hats, shoes, gloves and bags that set off each color scheme and there you are—a complete and effective wardrobe assembled with a minimum of fuss and trouble.

The model you will select this season without doubt has a broad shoulder-line, perhaps with a capelet or cape sleeves. It has a trim, slim waistline and a slick way of hugging the figure.

First you will have it made up in one of the sheer wools in navy blue, with red and white accessories.

RESTFUL SLEEP for FRETFUL, FEVERISH CHILD with Castoria's regulation

When your child tosses and cries out in his sleep, it means he is not comfortable. It may be an overloaded stomach, a starting cold, a little fever.

More often than not the trouble is that poisonous waste matter is not being carried off as it should be. Bowels need help—mild, gentle help —but effective. Just the kind Castoria gives.

Castoria, you know, is a pure vegetable preparation made specially for children's ailments. It contains no harsh, harmful drugs, no narcotics. And children take it without coaxing. They like its taste.

Don't let your child's rest—and your own—be interrupted. A prompt dose of Castoria will urge stubborn little bowels to act. Then come relaxed comfort and restful sleep! You'll know genuine Castoria—by the name Chas. H. Fletcher on the package.

ONE DEAD, MANY INJURED IN ICE, SNOW

JACOBS, ISAAC, 68, of 179 Warren st, Roxbury, died at City Hospital today, being struck by an auto on Blue Hill ave., Mattapan.

SULLIVAN, JOHN, 14, of 95 Lawn st., Dorchester, was another storm victim, his sled striking a parked automobile. He is at City Hospital with internal injuries and severe bruises.

NORTON, Edward, 40, of 8 Hardwick st., Cambridge. Back injuries.

STAFFORD, Arthur, 3 Oxford st., Cambridge. Injuries to head and face.

Gertrude Havey, 15, of 22 Mendors st., Roxbury, is at Beth Israel Hospital, as result of being struck by a hit-and-run driver on the Riverway.

Louis Torre, 10, of 107 Addison st., Chelsea, was taken to Chelsea Memorial Hospital, seriously injured in a coasting accident.

An elderly woman slipped and fell in School st., directly in front of City Hall, and was saved from serious injury when the driver of a roadster, bearing down on her, quickly applied his brakes and skidded sideways to the curb.

TROLLEY CARS JAM

Conditions in Blue Hill ave. were bad. One auto skidded against the curb of the trolley reservation near Franklin Park. The following machine skidded on the same spot and went on the reservation. A trolley car, bearing down on it, was brought to a halt only three or four feet distant.

At Grove Hall at the height of the rush-hour period, half a dozen trolley cars in each direction were jammed, and a score or more of autos were tied up, due to the stalling of one automobile in the ice rute.

At Tremont and Dedham sts., a car skidded in a wide circle and narrowly missed knocking over a policeman, who jumped for his life.

Such accidents were frequent all over the city, while countless pedestrians, slipping while crossing the streets, were narrowly escaping death.

MANY AT HOSPITALS

Sidewalk victims in the downtown section, who slipped while on the way to work and were injured sufficiently to require hospital treatment, included:

Cambridge city councilors adopted a resolution condemning the mayor and city officials for "disgusting conditions" and asked that unemployed men be hired to clean up the streets.

In South Boston, business men complained of streets covered with ice and with the heaped-up snow still unremoved from the sides, although the big storm occurred six days ago.

Many Dead as Cold Wave Grips Europe

London, Feb. 10 (AP)—Intense cold came to most of Europe today accompanied by snow flurries. Numerous deaths were reported, especially in Rumania.

London had its first snowfall of consequence and traffic in the rural districts was hampered by a heavier fall. All small craft in the English Channel was driven to shelter.

Paris reported brisk snow flurries and the coldest day of the winter.

3 Investment Heads Must Go to Prison

Hartford, Ct., Feb. 10 (AP)—The conviction of three officials of the defunct Parker-Smith Co., former mortgage investment concern of New Haven, on charges of conspiracy to defraud was upheld today by the Supreme Court of Errors.

It affirms sentences of three to five years for Clarence V. and Paul M. Smith, brothers, and one to three years for John E. Parker.

Pope Honors Two of Mussolini Cabinet

Vatican City, Feb. 10 (AP)—The Pope today conferred the Grand Cross of the Order of Pius IX on two high officials of Italy as a further symbol of re-established peace between church and state, which will be observed tomorrow by a visit of Premier Benito Mussolini to the Vatican.

Those honored are Finance Minister Antonio Mosconi and Minister of Justice Alfredo Rocco.

Girl's Marriage 'News' to Mother

The marriage of Miss Elizabeth Helen Delaney, of 1301 Commonwealth ave., Allston, at New York yesterday, to Robert A. Ryder, 24-year-old salesman, was "news" to her mother, she said today.

Ryder and Miss Delaney gave the Commonwealth ave. address, but Miss Delaney's mother declared he did not live there.

RELIEF DRIVE NEARS GOAL

Leaders of the United Boston Unemployment Relief Campaign today looked to State employes' contributions to add the impetus which would swell the drive contributions over the $3,000,000 quota.

Total contributions for yesterday amounted to $84,228.19 which brought the grand total of the drive to date to $2,801,217.74. Campaign officials announced that these figures marked the complete total to date.

Leaders pointed out there had been considerable activity among State employes in canvassing for contributions and added that they expected a report of a generous donation from this source today. It was recalled that city and county employes donated $396,000 while federal employes contributed approximately $80,000.

Firms and individuals, thus far delinquent in supporting the drive, have been asked to make their donations at once. Persons of means are also requested to make new or additional sacrifices to bring in the sums necessary to reach the $3,000,000 total.

Campaign leaders, although assured of success, are anxious to wind up the drive this week. C. F. Weed, chairman of the committee said last night that the campaign was one of honor, humanity and sincerity and that every possible dollar was needed to assure success.

Additional men will join the flying squadron today to aid in the efforts of that group. They have been doing fine work under difficulties, campaign leaders said, and their total collections are expected to reach the $100,000 mark.

NUNS, PUPILS ESCAPE FIRE

Rustico, P. E. I., Feb. 10 (AP)—Six nuns and 115 pupils escaped in night attire early today when fire destroyed a large convent and Catholic boarding school here.

An early checkup indicated there were no casualties.

The fire broke out in the basement and made rapid headway. For two hours the entire countryside was lighted by the flames.

The convent and school formed the center of community life in this small fishing village and residents worked valiantly in a bucket brigade in a futile attempt to save the two buildings.

They were successful in saving the church and some smaller buildings.

WE'RE STILL IN DINOSAUR AGE ON STAR NEWS

Pasadena, Ca., Feb. 10 (AP)—When the sun develops a new spot, astronomers at Mount Wilson observatory get the news within eight minutes.

It is flashed to them by light, traveling 186,284 miles a second. If some cataclysmic disaster should happen to Pluto, the recently discovered and most distant planet, the watchers at the observatory, a branch of the Carnegie Institute of Washington, could learn about it in half to three quarters of an hour.

They can keep well posted on events in the solar system, of which the earth, sun an dplanets are a part. But a swifter means of communication must be discovered if the world is to keep informed on current happenings among the stars of its own "island universe" and of other similar star systems farther out in space.

Light travels six million million miles a year and radio messages can go no faster, even if someone were found in the other universes to send them. Alpha Centauri, the nearest star in the earth's universe, is four and one-third light years away and as astronomers peer farther into space they find themselves, in effect, looking back into the ages of the mammoths and dinosaurs.

Dr. Edwin Hubble, uring the 100-inch telescope at Mount Wilson, the most powerful yet constructed, has photographed Nebulae, so far away that light leaving them 300,000,000 years ago is just now reaching the earth.

Looking at the Magellanic clouds Dr. Hubble sees them as they were at the time the great prehistoric elephants roamed the earth. Peering farther into space, he sees a Nebulae cluster in the constellation of Coma, as they were in the age of the dinosaurs, forty-five to fifty million years ago.

RADIO TUBE CAN PULL TRAIN

The first public showing of the new type of mercury arc rectifier 300,000 times more powerful than an ordinary tube, was made before the American Institute of Electrical Engineers.

Mercury steam sprayed into the arc separates into protons and electrons, the latter, 300,000 times smaller than the protons, carries an electric current. The mercury then flows down again and starts its cycle all over.

Alternating current, used in lighting houses and in ordinary electrical appliances, is transformed into a direct current within the steel jackets which compose the tubes.

Uninterrupted service can be rendered, Westinghouse engineers who developed the tube say, by setting the tubes in groups, so that one failing the others will assume its work.

Savings Deposits Increase

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 10—Savings deposits in Connecticut were $15,000,000 larger Jan. 1 than a year previous, the state tax commissioner reported today.

It will puzzle you, it will enthrall you. The murder of the beautiful, tantalising Lola Carewe defies solution. Eating, Drinking Unwisely, Smoking So Much Last Night

YET... No "Acid Headache"... No Upset Stomach This Morning

Science says: "If you do, the QUICKEST, SIMPLEST and EASIEST way to avoid FEELING its results is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia taken this way:

"TAKE—2 tablespoons in a glass of water before bed.

"TAKE—2 tablespoons in a glass of water with the juice of a whole ORANGE when you get up."

Or take six Phillips' Milk of Magnesia tablets, which give an equivalent amount of Milk of Magnesia.

Phillips' Milk of Magnesia neutralizes the excess acids in your stomach and alkalinizes its contents, sweetens them; banishes headaches and sour stomach.

Gangland Ignores Baby Killer in Death

New York, Feb. 10 (INS)—Deserted by the few members of his gang still alive, Vincent Coll, slain "mad dog" of the underworld, will be buried tomorrow without the pomp that usually marks the funeral of "big shot" racketeers.

At the undertaking establishment where his body lay in a cheap coffin today, only one wreath was received. Its came from his sister, Mrs. Florence Redden, who took charge of burial arrangements.

Coll had only a little more than $100 when he was killed.

Political Post With $20,000 Salary Goes A-Begging

It's the office of assessor, recently reformed into a one-man job by the Legislature. The salary is yet to be fixed.

Latest to refuse it is J. L. Jacobs, efficiency expert, who has spent months lopping millions of dollars off the budgets of local governments. He may reconsider.

Edward N. Hurley, wartime chairman of the shipping board and millionaire manufacturer, was the first choice of the civic rescue squad and Mayor Cermak. But Hurley, as head of the non-partisan group that enticed both the Democratic and Republican nominating meetings to Chicago, was forced to decline because of the pressure of preparing for the June conventions.

Gunmen 'Sprinkle' Two, Killing One

Scranton, Pa., Feb. 10 (AP)—Gunmen riding in an automobile through Scranton streets this morning sent a shower of lead from sawed-off shotguns into the bodies of two men, killing one and wounding the other so seriously that he may die.

Jacob Levine, 30, who had come here less than a month ago from either New York or Philadelphia, was killed.

Edward Weiss, 25, shot four or five times, was arrested here a year ago charged with the theft of milk valued at $15,000.

Girl About Town

—By ALYCE SIEMENS—

Lovely!

How nice it is to read what Hoover said,
That better times are doubtlessly ahead—
And what a cheering thrill it is to know
That leading men confirm these words as so.
Ah, yes, how much more cherrio I feel—

—Nonnick.

Lifted From Life

A Hub girl we know—a real-on-the-level girl—has been having it tough the past few months. She sings for a living, lives with her mother and has been trying to support herself and small son. Her pianist husband is somewhere about, content if he has a couple of dollars and a few cigarettes, and even though his little wife is still in love with him, he cares not about her struggling.

About three weeks ago she accepted a singing club-date and, after a day of preparation, such as mending her meagre wardrobe, she arrived at the Cambridge hall to entertain for a group of good fellows, who had just had their lodge meeting and were keen for a bit of fun. After a snappy show—probably snappy because the performers were glad they were to see money again—the gent who booked them, told the performers he'd see them the next day but, for some unknown reason, he gave the singing girl a check for $10.

Next day she went to the neighborhood grocer, spent most of it for provisions, to carry them along til the next job. Imagine her bewilderment when later the grocer showed her the booker's check, returned from the bank with "No account" stamped across it . . . Of course, the girl made the check good. She had a ten-dollar bill tucked securely away for an emergency for her little son . . . This true story should be of interest to every girl or boy performer, dependent on club work, and to every committee member who may be shopping for acts for the next affair staged at their club. Since no one has been able to locate the short, slim, dark-skinned booker, he may still be "in circulation," who knows?

About Folks You've Seen

Joe and Phoebe Rubin of Pine View Inn are at Miami Beach with Joe yelling his songs from the Miami Jockey Club's Hialeah Park in the daytime and from the Alcazar's night club floor in the early hours . . . It's his sixth season at the park, too! Everett's pretty Alice Perrel is visiting with her parents in Miami, while she is featured there now with Ray Teale's band act . . . Tom Patricola, who is "Met" show-stopping 'em, is just a big kid off-stage and laments that he has no Stutz with him in the Hub this time. Seems for the past six years Tom always made his sleeper-jump via his own auto-ing . . . Paul Ash owns 28 walking sticks but has a preference for the one Sophie Tucker gave him . . . And those clever vaudeville sisters, Fanny and Kitty Watson, who were Hub-playing last week, are reputed to be the world's richest theatrical sisters, with a palatial home in Buffalo.

Just a Ruse!

Medford's Jack O'Brien tells us this one. Two girls had boarded a Lake st. car, which was filled to overflowing, and were strap-hanging while eyeing a husky man who occupied the seat in front of them. The man was busily engrossed in his newspaper reading. "You'd think men would know better than to let ladies stand," said one of the girls.

"It's so easy for some men to forget their manners," piped up the other girl.

With that the man, looking up from his paper, stood up, tipped his hat and asked the girls to take his seat. They both crowded into it with the first girl handing him such a look and "Well, it's about time!"

Immediately the man fumbled in his pocket, then asked the girls if they'd mind standing, that he'd left his handkerchief in the seat. As soon as the girls stood, he seated himself, opened up his newspaper once more and proceeded to be busily engrossed in same until he left the car later!

Pick-Ups

Dr. Tehyi Hsieh, Chinese physician, possesses a delightfully correct Oxford accent which is the envy of his American friends . . . The Helen Kane who has been giving the Hub band-leaders those thrills, when they've received her fan and appreciation notes lately, is really Helen Katherine Kane, of the Ritz, a charming middle-aged lady, and not the boop-a-doop Helen some of the boys thought it was . . . Cranberries grow plentifully on Hopkinton's marshes, Mrs. Mabel Cole tells us . . . Ten-year-old Betty Bell, an honor student at the smart Seegar School, is readying her second book on circus life . . . Louis Armstrong, ace trumpeter, displays the wildest originality in band leading antics we've ever seen! . . . When you feel low take a trip through the Middlesex County Sanitarium and notice the silhouettes, paintings and needlework the T. B. treated girls are doing there . . . Their happiness in being there will cheer you . . . Did you know that after a hair-raising thriller's been witnessed—whether on the screen or the stage—the box-office of the theater is overstocked with forgotten-behind articles? People get so interested, or excited, that they walk right out of the place, forgetting everything but where the front door is! . . .

Classics of Screen on Program

By HARLEIGH SCHULTZ

Boston's baby theater is going to have its cake with one candle next week. Meaning that the Fine Arts will through that period celebrate its first birthday. This little house, which has been bringing the best in the foreign cinema to this city, is going to make note of its anniversary with what one might call artistic whoopee. Beginning Monday, there will be a change of film each day, with added specials, with due attention to hearty laughs for laughter's sake.

* * *

With that knack of his of doing things in a distinctive way George Kraska, the manager, polled his patronage on preferences of pictures for the week. It is interesting to note that in the totals, the French and German films led, with the Russians third. Then Mr. Kraska announced his program, as follows: Monday, "Le Million"; Tuesday, "Storm Over Asia"; Wednesday, "The Blue Angel"; Thursday, "Bockbierfest"; Friday, "Anna Christie;" Saturday, "The Lady of the Lake"; Sunday, "Karamazov." In addition he will screen for each show each day Serge Eisenstein's first talkie, "Romance Sentimentale." Each evening there will be a special musical or other stage effort by well known talent.

George Kraska

Under Mr. Kraske the Fine Arts through the year has grown in favor and appeal. Distinction is its keynote, in entrance, past exhibitions of art important in themselves; the lounging room, and decorations. Best of all, by personal attention, he has quested and secured bookings of the cinema's best. Even his "shorts" are classy. An excellent illustration is offered by the current bill on which are superb one or two-reelers, one of which is so sterling it begets much applause.

Movie Clock

Feature photoplays in the picture theaters and their approximate starting times today are as follows:

LIKE THRILLS? LET THESE STARS GIVE YOU A FEW

"Murders in the Rue Morgue" is giving patrons of RKO Keith's plenty of thrills this week. Bela Lugosi, star of "Dracula," has the leading role and also in the cast is Sidney Fox. At the organ is Leo Weber.

Film Who's Who

Lowell Sherman, director and player of "The Greeks Had a Word for Them," at Loew's State Friday, comes from a distinguished theatrical family. He embarked on his career as an actor at an early age. He was born at San Francisco but received his education in the public schools of New York. He made his debut in New York and afterward appeared with Nance O'Neil and other famous stage players. His first big success was in "The Commuters". Among his other hits were "The Heart of Wetona," "The Guilty Woman," "The Sign on the Door and "Casanova." Making his debut on the screen in "Way Down East," he has since been seen in "The Whip," "Convoy," "General Crack," "The Pay Off," "The Royal Bed," and numerous other films.

Lowell Sherman

Sevitzky Back at Met Friday

Fabien Sevitzky, conductor of the Metropolitan Theater Grand Orchestra, returns next Friday to resume his work here after a triumphal tour of Europe. Absent since last December, Mr. Sevitzky has been guest conductor of the Symphony and Philharmonic orchestras in Berlin, Vienna, Warsaw and Paris.

Fabien Sevitzky

Entire Circus Show Staged for Marion Davies' New Picture

An entire circus show was staged and a camel was included in the menagerie when production began on Marion Davies' new starring film, "Polly of the Circus," a Marion Davies production with Clark Gable, coming to Boston soon.

When Al Santell, director of the new film, had finished "shooting" the circus scenes, he looked around for the camel, intending to ship him back in the truck in which he had been brought, but the animal was missing. Hiking down the road, Santell walked a mile before catching up with the missing camel.

The Codonas, internationally known circus aerialists, were employed to perform some of their sensational feats for several scenes. The acrobats taught Miss Davies how to "take" the bounces when jumping from a trapeze into the net below. The star caught on quickly and [illegible] Santell praised her for her agility and expertness, considering the short period of instruction.

In the new film Marion Davies plays a vivacious trapeze artiste who is injured in a fall and is taken to the home of a minister with modern ideals. "Polly of the Circus" is the seventh talking picture in which Miss Davies has appeared.

Clark Gable, who plays the small-town minister, has appeared opposite such stars as Garbo, Norma Shearer and Joan Crawford. His rise in talking pictures is one of the most sensational that has yet occurred.

Richard Whorf in Cast for Play in New York

Richard Whorf of the Copley is finally to be seen in New York in "Monkey," a detective comedy popular in Boston last spring. Robert Sparks, who produced "Lysistrata," is making the Broadway presentation. Next Friday at the Mansfield Theater, where "The Green Pastures" held forth for more than a year, is the time and place of the event. Houston Richards, another Boston favorite, and recalled from his long engagement here in "Rose Marie" is also a "Monkey-shiner."

Symphony Orchestra in Matinee Concert

The third Tuesday matinee concert of the Boston Symphony Orchestra, led by Serge Koussevitzky, was devoted to a program of music by Schubert and Brahms, romantic composers. From Schubert was drawn a "Rosamunde" ballet and the "Unfinished" symphony, while Brahms contributed the fourth symphony in E minor. The large audience applauded enthusiastically the excellent performance.

Stage Who's Who

Brian Aherne made his stage debut at the age of six, riding on the back of no less a person than John Drinkwater in a Christmas pantomime in Birmingham, England. While he was in a dancing school in London, at the age of 10, he appeared with other children, including Gertrude Lawrence, in "Where the Rainbow Ends." After a few years in business, he returned to the stage and has acted in London in such plays as "The Silver Cord," "White Cargo," "She Stoops to Conquer" and "Rope."

Victor Damiani in Role of Figaro Adds Laurels to His Local Honors

By MOSES SMITH

One of the greatest of all comedy operas, Rossini's "Barber of Seville," was given by the Chicago Opera Company last night. The performance was a good one, the Chicagoans striking a happy balance between burlesque at one extreme and lack of animation at the other—and either temptation is ordinarily too great for operatic companies to overcome nowadays.

* * *

For the text of Beaumarchais is witty in the 18th century manner, which means not vulgar. Aptly suited to the text is the delicious music of Rossini, who tried—and successfully—to set the drama to music after Mozart's marvellous "Marriage of Figaro" (the companion piece of Beaumarchais) had apparently said the last word.

The cast last night caught the spirit nicely, and maintained it consistently. Charles Hackett was far more convincing than usual as the Count Almaviva, once the opening serenade had been disposed of none too successfully. The singing of Margherita Salvi, who made a charming Rosina, was greatly superior to her work in "Rigoletto" last Saturday. Her voice had freshness, animation and quality; moreover, she sang in tune, and sang brilliantly. We were less grateful for her choice of a sad tune for the lesson scene.

* * *

But the palm for singing went, in our opinion, to Victor Damiani, who in his two appearances last week led us to expect great things, and who was now a Figaro to the life—and to the tune. Here was a cocky Figaro, never at a loss, up to all manner of tricks, yet always in the play and delivering his music in beautiful tones. Vanni-Marcoux, an artist who dignifies any role, was, of course, the expectedly ridiculous music master, Don Basilio, contriving fresh bits of "business" to reanimate the part. And Salvatore Baccaloni was an unusually resonant Bartolo, in looks and character ideally cast as the doddering and impudent guardian of Rosina.

These artists sang and acted well not only singly, but in ensemble, which is essential. The lesser roles were similarly well filled. Mr. Moranzoni conducted the orchestra with spirit, but there were times when one would have liked an iron hand to rule over the careless musicians.

Well, you can't have everything.

Zeppelin Raid Halted Show

Oscar Shaw, juvenile lead of the Shubert musical comedy hit, "Everybody's Welcome," at the Majestic next Monday, paused in the midst of rehearsals to look back upon his career on the musical comedy stage. Shaw was a Philadelphia boy back in the halcyon days when the City of Friends was bringing up an entire generation of musical comedy stars.

Oscar Shaw

Shaw was singing in London during the war when the first Zeppelin air raid brought home dramatically the terrors of the conflict. He explains:

"It all happened at ten minutes past ten. I was in the middle of Irving Berlin's 'Rag Pickers', singing in Charlot's Review at the Alhambra. Suddenly the manager rushed out, stopped the orchestra and shouted wildly:

"'The city is being raided by Zeppelins. Please be calm. Don't leave your seats.'

"Everyone ignored his expostulations and rushed out of the theater. No, not in fright, but we found out quickly enough."

WAR AND WINTER OF HARDSHIP UNFAIR
By GILBERT SELDES

MOST OF US FEEL, I THINK, that the Japanese have taken an unfair advantage of the world, as if starting a war in Winter was somehow less decent than the march of the German soldiers through the wheat fields under the bright Summer sun. It is not the temperature we really object to, but the temper of the world; in all our distress about taxes and tariffs and hoarded money and jobs in jeopardy, we do not feel that we are free to act, or even free to think, as we should about Japan. At the same time we wonder where Japan has found or expects to find the materials for even an unofficial war. Obviously it was a good time to turn the trick and get control of China; but a trick in war is only good if it works.

Gilbert Seldes

Sour Notes

So long as the Japanese Government writes notes which sound like a cross between the later Caesars and African chieftains, it will not be possible to have much sympathy for them. The world simply will not believe that the Chinese have no right to boycott their invaders and for the Japanese to insist again and again that the little guys attack them seems hypocritical and actively unpleasant. So the whole body of pacifist and liberal opinion has favored the Chinese and I doubt whether any pacifist was so true to his principles as not to wish for a thumping Japanese defeat.

Remember!

For myself, I cannot keep away from the parallel of 1914. Pacifist opinion denounced the war, but specifically denounced Germany as the cause of an unnecessary war. Pacifist opinion today makes much of the fact that Germany certainly was not the single offender. It is reasonable, even if it is not pleasant, to think that twenty years from now what is left of civilization may put the blame on China as well as on Japan.

Defense for Billions

I do not know why so little mention has been made in the newspapers of the fact that Great Britain and America both have enormous investments in China. I have been told that the British investment is five billions (and I am so feeble a financier that I do not know whether this is in good dollars or diminished pounds). For a generation China has been chaotic and torn with civil wars. It may be a good thing for our dollars that Japan should protect them. But we have to remember that the Japanese are not going into China for our sweet sakes.

Divide and Sell

A young man, formerly a member of the House of Commons, was asked what he would do to save the world if he were dictator. He replied that he would arrange for the partition of China. I think his argument was that the prosperity of the last century depended on the opening up of new countries—the American West for America and Africa for all of Europe. If we could dismember and "civilize" China we would create such a market for our manufactured goods that we would be prosperous for another century. It is quite true we should destroy a civilization older, and some people say better, than our own. But it seems that the Japanese will save us the trouble.

Crowded Pages

A friend of mine has a private grudge against the Japanese. He has a publicity stunt which has to be pulled within the next week, and which would be first page news if it weren't for the crowding cables from the Far East. It reminds me of a man Alexander Woollcott tells about who was apparently driven mad by his own obscurity and in a furious determination to be remembered forever, committed a heinous crime—the murder of his entire family, burning their home and committing suicide. Unfortunately, he chose the third of August, 1914, for his great day and the newspapers had a previous engagement.

The headlines in the past 10 days have driven into obscurity almost all the plans which were going to save the country. Nothing surprised me more than to find a Presidential attack on hoarding, tucked away on page six. Thinking back, however, I became aware of the fact that the financing corporation has not yet been created by Congress. So the millennium has not yet arrived.

What Shall We Buy?

Our Government is of course not in business except for selling postage stamps, so its propaganda against hoarding money cannot be effective and it is well that leaders of finance and business have been called to aid in the good work, because the first thing the anti-hoarders ought to do is this: they ought to tell us on what to spend our money. Getting myself terribly tangled in economics, I arrived at the conclusion once that the way to set the country on its feet was to buy endless quantities of perfectly useless objects which were immediately destroyed. As I couldn't think of such objects, I gave up the economic struggle. I am perfectly willing now to take advice.

All for "Thorough"

I am impressed by the announcement that Canon William Sheafe Chase has resigned as rector of his church to devote all his time to reforming the world. Canon Chase has "fought for Federal censorship of moving pictures, for a clean stage and clean books and against Sunday theatrical performances. He is an active opponent of birth control and an ardent prohibitionist."

The nice thing about this is that like an ancient warrior, Canon Chase is rushing ahead to bury all the spears of the enemy in his own breast. And, on the contrary, we now know where to concentrate our fire.

The Voice of Broadway
By LOUIS SOBOL

Snapshots at Random!

Almost every night you'll see her .... At 52d and Seventh Avenue ..... A neatly dressed, pretty girl with wholesome features, peddling newspapers ..... She snickers at the Broadwaywardites who approach her and offer to make life a bed of roses .... Friday night at the penthouse apartment of Harry Green, the comickian .... Yurmi Stern astounds the wide-eyed blonde Alva Larsen with his psychic phenomena ... He quivers and shakes and tosses himself into a trance .... He burns a piece of paper, palms the ashes and rubs them over his bare arms ...... Faintly letters appear spelling the word "Fred" ... A door opens and bangs mysteriously ... Hey, hey! ..... Thursday night at a shindig in the luxurious apartment of Ben Barzune ..... Ben Platt, Jr., the host .... A gathering of the Broadway clans ... Ziegfield, White, Carroll and Wynn gals ... The beauties of the town ... Buddy Rogers and Bill Corum discuss Knute Rockne ..... Rudy Vallee pops in, a gracious gesture, since the party is in honor of this columnist with whom he's been feuding and we shake and make up and wonder what's it all been about ..... Producer Archie Selwyn loses himself in a chicken bone and Eugene Howard studies Barzune's antique watches ..... Lou Holtz wrapped in a heavy, hairy coat, sniffles and complains of a code in his node and hedd ... Al Siegel and Lillian Shade arrive from the Montmartre opening and begin foraging about for food ... Texas Guinan breezes in at 5 ayem, and expresses complete disgust because the party's breaking up ..... Jack Lait sinks into a soft chair and studies his fingers ... Joseph V. Connolly, King Features chief, and Amster Spiro, City editor of the Journal, in a huddle ... Clusters of Broadway's beauties in every corner .... Gertrude Sheffield, Georgia Ellis, Gypsy Rose Lee, Vivian Keefer, Genia Furza, Doris Andrese, Ethel O'Dell, June O'Dea, Harriet Fink, Joan Burgess, Mary Alice Rice, Colette Francis, Villi Milli, Eunice Healy, Frieda Mierse, Barbara Blair, Madelon Dunbar, Dorothy Talbot, Marjorie La Voe, Margerie Fischer, Louise Allen, Agnes O'Laughlin ... And others ..... The elderly gent at the premiere of "If Booth Had Missed" Thursday night ... Sitting in back of us ... He whispers to the young girl with him ... "That may be his idea of Abraham Lincoln, but Lincoln didn't talk that way ..... His voice was something like Al Smith's."

Grace Hayes' debut at the Club Richman, Monday night ... The slim lass sitting with us murmurs "I could listen to her for hours" ... Bee Jackson, whose daring dances shocked Europe—but packed the theaters ... Later at Reuben's to see Russ Columbo and Rudy Vallee sitting at adjoining tables ... Saturday night, we drop into Dr. Leo Michel's for a second and remain an hour while Harry Rosenthal and Nicky Kempner present an impromptu piano recital covering the melodies of all nations and ages with Rosenthal delivering a running talk on the history connected with each song ... Fascinating stuff ... The birth of the torch ballads and the wholesale thefting by modern song writers from the classics ... Later at the Hollywood Restaurant with N. T. G. tossing verbal posies at his new "find," an Alice May of New Haven, Conn. ... Lawrence Gray, cinema and musical comedy star sitting with Freddie Kaplan, the criminal lawyer, looks bored ... Friday night at Barney Gallant's in the Village ... an elderly gent approaches the youthful, sparkling-eyed Kay Lazelle, the dancer, and begs her to dance with him ... The gal refuses, whereupon he turns his attentions to her mother, who also refuses ... The fellow shakes his head and mutters something about "women are getting too ritzy these days" and stalks off in a huff ... Frances Faye and her fiery piano routine ... Earlier that evening at the Greenwich Village Inn ... The large, colorful murals ... They unfold a tale ... Of a group of shipwrecked sailors tossed upon the shores of a tropical island ... They woo the native women while their men are out on a fishing expedition ... Later, rescued by a passing ship, they leave the women behind them, heartbroken.

The re-opening of the Silver Slipper Wednesday night with its new tag, "The Show Place" ... Newspaper men and their wives and gals ... And press agents ... Two outstanding principals ... The droll Sammy Walsh with his unusual smile and Joe Lewis manner and the volcanic, coon-shoutin' Rita White with her throaty scat singing delivery ... This gal is a find for someone ... We've been saying that for two years and we'll continue to until someone has enough sense to take her under his wing and accomplish with her what Al Siegel did with Ethel Merman and is doing with Lillian Shade ... Sunday night (a week ago) at the St. Moritz Grill ... Another typical Broadway gathering ... Joe Frisco and Jack Osterman alternating with Dan Healy in conducting the festivities ... Familiar faces ... Buddy Rogers ... Billie Dove ... Fifi Dorsay ... Pola Negri ... Russell Patterson ... Joe Zelli ... Zito ... Ruth Roland ... Ben Bard ... Tommy Guinan ... Nita Naldi ... Billy Mishkind ... Carolyn Nolte ... Ann Pennington .... Has it ever occurred to you that impressive as these names sound, the people owning column. them are small-town folks at heart, after all, with small-town ideas? ... I mean that in the villages where you and I come from we get together at somebody's house once or twice a week and if your name and mine mean anything, and even if they don't, we look in the society columns of the paper the next day to see if there's a piece about the party ... If there isn't the host has failed in his duty—but usually he hasn't, because in small towns the first thing that a host or hostess does is to call up the society editor and give her the list of names at the party, who sang or entertained otherwise—and what was served

By LOUELLA O. PARSONS
Motion Picture Editor Universal Service, Inc.
Copyright, 1932, by Universal Service, Inc.

Los Angeles, Feb. 10—I don't know how the anonymous "Merry Go Round" with all its political barbs and innuendoes about Washington social life can be filmed. But the fact remains it is now being discussed by Harry Cohn and Walter Wanger as the first picture to be made by the newly organized Columbia company.

Louella O. Parsons

You cannot say that Washington "Merry Go Round" is partisan as regards politics. It deals with both Republicans and Democrats. However, it's the present administration against whom most of the diatribe is aimed.

And since Will H. Hays, head of the Motion Picture Producers Association is a Republican in good standing, well, there is apt to be some fireworks if Mr. Cohn and Mr. Wanger persist in their original plan to bring this widely discussed book to the screen.

Hollywood Chatter

Janet Gaynor will stop in San Francisco before she returns to Hollywood. While she was in Europe on a vacation with her husband, Lydell Peck, many changes have taken place at the Fox studios. When she returns she will have to discuss plans for her next picture, "Rebecca of Sunnybrook Farm," with a new production boss. Rumors continue that Fox will buy Sol Wurtzel's contract this week. Sol, I hear, is holding out for his entire salary and that's a large chunk of money. Reports of the opening of the Montmartre in New York sound good. George Olsen bought it one day when he was looking for a likely spot in the big town to move in his band. Howard Hughes, who is still in New York and still interested in Lois Moran, was her escort for the evening. June Collyer was there with her bridegroom, Stuart Erwin, looking very lovely, that perennial first-nighter, Peggy Joyce, Fifi Dorsay, Buddy Rogers, Phyllis Haver, Eddie Buzzell, et cetera, were a few of the well known names on the guest list. Eddie Cantor in the role of master of ceremonies, was very much on the job.

Clara Is Favorite

If Irving Thalberg wants my honest opinion about "The Red-Headed Woman" and he said he did, I can tell him that Clara Bow, up to now, leads in the number of votes. He asked me to invite the fans, in my column, to come to his aid, with suggestions for the lead in Katherine Brush's story and Clara is the favorite. She will not make the picture for Sam Rork. Tired of waiting for Harry Cohn to make to make up his mind about a story, Mr. Rork has decided to go ahead with other plans. He has purchased "The Mud Lark," a magazine serial by Arthur Stringer, and will produce it immediately. He hopes to get Barbara Stanwyck for the lead.

"RAIN" FOR ANN DVORAK

The mysterious actress who will be exploited in "Rain" is, guess who? No unknown, brought on from New York to play the far-famed role of Sadie Thompson. The girl chosen by Lewis Milestone is Ann Dvorak, Howard Hughes' discovery and the young lady who recently signed with First National. The blonde wig, they tell me, has emphasized her beauty. This is not an official announcement, I must confess, but it comes from a good enough source for me to print it. Matt Moore who is convalescing from an appendix operation, will have a part in "Rain." Lewis Milestone, Charles Lederer, etc., are expected home some time this week.

More "Horror" Films

Grotesque makeup becomes increasingly valuable as additional horror pictures are made in the studios. Just as gang pictures were a part of every producer's program, now it seems that horror pictures are leading in popularity. The Halperin Brothers, independents, have leased quarters at Universal to resume production. They are pioneers in the business and we haven't heard of them in a long time.

Hoot Gibson

Their first picture will be "Zombie," a horror number. Garnett Weston is writing the screen play and Victor Halperin will direct. M. H. Hoffman, another well known independent, is on his way to New York. Before leaving he announced a twenty-six picture a year schedule, eight for Monte Blue, eight for Hoot Gibson, six stage classics, two all-color productions and two road shows.

Snapshots of Hollywod

BEST CONTRACT HANDS

A series of selections by bridge stars of the best illustrations in their careers of precise bidding and excellent play. No. 3—Josephine Culbertson.

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—If a player has contracted for four hearts and holds only four to the queen-10 and the player at the declarer's left holds five trumps to the king-nave, fulfillment of the contract would seem impossible. Success with such a hand is one of the triumphs of Mrs. Josephine Culbertson.

In order to take 10 of 13 tricks she had to make accurate deductions of the holding of opponents, especially of the player at her left, who had doubled.

Her bid of hearts, raised to four by partner, under some circumstances would have produced a heavy penalty. She had a two suiter and first bid a club, holding five to the ace-knave. The hand, played in a social game, follows:

NORTH
♠—10 9 8 7
♡—A 9 8 5
♢—A Q J

WEST
♠—K J 2
♡—K J 7 4 2
♢—8 7 5
♣—10 4

EAST
♠—Q 5 4 3
♡—None
♢—K 9 6 4 3
♣—K Q 9 2

SOUTH (Dealer)
♠—A 6
♡—Q 10 6 3
♢—10 2
♣—A J 7 5 3

The bidding:

South, one club; West, pass; North one no trump; East, two diamonds; South two hearts; West, pass; North, four hearts; East, pass; South, pass, West, double; all pass.

The play:

Trick	West	North	East	South
1	8 D	A Dx	3 D	2 D
2	5 D	Q D	K Dx	10 D
3	7 D	J Dx	4 D	6 S
4	4 C	6 D	2 C	A Cx
5	J H	A Hx	3 S	3 H
6	10 C	8 C	Q Cx	3 C
7	2 S	7 S	4 S	A Sx
8	K Hx	8 S	9 C	5 C
9	2 H	5 H	6 D	6 Hx
10	4 H	8 Hx	K	7 C
11	J S	9 S	5 S	10 Hx
12	7 H	9 Hx	9 D	J C
13	K S	10 S	Q S	Q Hx

(xTook trick. Next lead immediately underneath.)

The key play was the discard of the spade six upon the high diamond in dummy. Mrs. Culbertson deducing that it was probable that East had not more than five diamonds and therefore West had three. The bidding also showed her that West must have at least four hearts to the king-knave. If on the first heart lead West played low, Mrs. Culbertson would have finessed the eight from Dimmy. Against any defense Mrs. Culbertson's method of play would have been successful. She did not risk finesses in diamonds and clubs, which would have seemed the only hope to many players.

Tomorrow: Shepard Barclay.

Chicago Finds It Can Get Real Cash

Chicago, Feb. 10 (INS)—Officials of the campaign to sell $18,500,000 worth of tax anticipation warrants for use by the Illinois emergency relief commission were elated here today. With the campaign not scheduled to open until today, the committee's office was flooded with purchase applications.

The Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. of New York has requested $1,000,000 worth of the securities.

Maybe I'm Wrong (About Hollywood)
—By JOHN P. MEDBURY—

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 10—Anita Stewart, one of the most charming actresses who ever flickered across a screen, has decided to enter her wirehaired fox terrier in the coming kennel show. "I don't think he has much chance of winning," said Anita, "but he'll meet some awfully nice dogs."

The Crack of the Day

Buster Keaton and Adolphe Menjou were discussing an acquaintance who's been getting several bad breaks lately. "Al is the most unfortunate fellow in the world," said Menjou. "Yeh," replied Keaton, "he's so unlucky he'd find himself in the house of a thousand candles without a match."

Yes – You Can
Quiet Your NERVES and Get Relief

Hectic Days and Sleepless Nights. You don't have to endure them! Nine times out of ten the cause of the trouble is simply a case of overworked, frayed and frazzled "NERVES." You know the symptoms: Everything in a frenzy—a million things on your mind—your nervous system all keyed up—your whole body tense. You can't seem to quiet down. You can't relax and get the sleep and rest you need.

Nervous troubles are the most mysterious of everyday ailments ... quietly they creep upon you ... suddenly they attack ... and quickly shatter your normal poise and self-control. Then follow hectic days—frenzied, sleepless nights and hours of needless nervous agony.

Never Neglect Your Nerves

In this high-tension age, few people escape distressing days and nights. But you can. There is no need to suffer with aggravating attacks of "NERVES." The first thing to do is to quiet your overwrought nervous system. And the best way is to use Dr. Miles' Effervescent NERVINE Tablets. A tablet in a glass of water makes a sparkling, Effervescent drink that quickly soothes your overwrought nervous system and helps you relax the nervous tension.

When you are all upset and jumpy—when you feel nervous and irritable — when Nervous Headache, Nervous Indigestion and Sleeplessness bother you—you want to quiet your nerves at once. Not tomorrow or next day—but right away. You can't wait to change your diet or take time off to go to bed. When your nerves are all upset, you cannot eat or sleep anyway. It's your "NERVES" that need relief and Effervescent NERVINE Tablets will give the prompt relief you want.

A Harmless Drink

There is nothing harmful about Effervescent NERVINE Tablets. They are the same time tested NERVINE formula of Dr. Miles which for over 50 years has helped thousands of people get prompt relief from nervous troubles. What $16,000 buys in The American Weekly

A full page in color more than twice the size of any other magazine page in the world . . . 5,500,000 families at a cost of less than ½ cent per family . . . The attention of the entire family instead of a single buying factor.

A magazine is merchandise, just as much as a cake of soap or a pound of coffee.

But its editorial appeal is its suds and flavor.

That must be modern—built for 1932—for on its editorial platform every magazine must stand or fall.

Unless, like The American Weekly, a magazine capture and stir the interest and the imagination of the people it cannot expect to hold the support and indulgence of the advertiser.

By keeping the editorial finger on the pulse of public interest, 1932 finds The American Weekly the mightiest magazine of them all.

Mightiest because its circulation of 5,500,000 is nearly double that of its nearest competitor.

And that, obviously, is because it interests nearly twice as many people.

Why?—Examine it if you please:

- Dramatic episodes from the lives of real people made vital and absorbing by accurate and skilled writers.
- Fascinating facts of nature.
- Articles on health and human psychology.
- Scientific progress related as entrancingly as the Arabian Nights.
- Fiction by the best story tellers of our day.
- Romance—adventure—fashion—every facet of human interest set alive and sparkling by the magic touch of journalism.
- All twined and intermingled to make up the most interesting magazine in the world.

Because its interest is so wide and varied, the advertising pages which accompany this magazine reach the eyes of more than one member in every family.

With a full-page advertisement printed in four colors you can reach all these families, located in the nation's richest buying areas at a cost of less than ⅓ cent per family.

Where this magazine goes

The American Weekly dominates the urban markets by concentrating 70% of its total circulation in 578 of America's 997 towns and cities of 10,000 population and over. (1930 U. S. census figures.)

In each of 152 cities, it reaches one out of every two families
In 108 more cities, 40 to 50% of the families
In an additional 146 cities, 30 to 40%
In another 172 cities, 20 to 30%

. . . and, in addition, more than 1,700,000 families in thousands of other communities, large and small, regularly buy The American Weekly.

That is why The American Weekly offers the drive and force required to sell goods in 1932.

That is why in lean times as well as fat The American Weekly marches on while others lag.

Cock-A-Doodle-Doo

January, 1932, was the largest January in volume of advertising linage and revenue in the history of The American Weekly.

GREATER BOSTON NEWS — BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN — SECOND SECTION

BOSTON, WEDNESDAY [illegible]

THIS IS LIFE

—By ROBERT E. ROGERS—

I WONDER WHETHER this hullabaloo over what Alfred E Smith really does mean is not indicative of something badly askew in the way our American language is being taught. I doubt whether such a mixup as this would be likely to occur in England, where they speak and write the language from which ours is being derived

ROBERT E. ROGERS

A few years ago Mr. Coolidge roused an even greater furor of assumption, surmise, and contradiction with his famous "I do not choose to run." But in that case I am quite sure in my own mind that Mr Coolidge threw his bomb quite deliberately with full foreknowledge of exactly what would occur. There is a kind of Yankee elf or Puck in Coolidge that loves to practice on the simplicity of other people, deriving a dry and somewhat malicious amusement out of it.

Mr. Smith's difficulty is of a different sort. I believe that he did his best to be plain and fair and generous and decent. I am sure that he is unpleasantly surprised at the comments, both unfriendly and sensationally loyal, which his announcement evoked.

* * *

"Clear and Concise," Modern Curse

One can see that all along he has apparently had a conception of the word "candidate" which is not held by most of the politicians and the public, and that he is hurt at having read into his words something which most people would take as a matter of course. A morning newspaper prints a dictionary definition of the word, which seems clearly to contradict Mr. Smith's.

I am all for the living language as against the worship of the embalmed mummies of the dictionary, but in this case I am afraid that the trouble goes deeper than mere words. And that trouble is the one which underlies most of our writing in America, particularly in business and the every day affairs of life.

The curse of the use of the American language, as it is taught in the schools, is the emphasis on "clear and concise." This phrase is the shibboleth of the teaching of "composition." It would be all right, if both goals were attained. But clearness can not be taught without emphasis on the process of reasoning, on the proper distinction between true and false, correctly stated premises, logical argument, limited conclusions, and all the rest. And generally speaking, exact reasoning is not taught in our schools.

This being so, with "clear" cancelled and out of the picture there remains only "concise." It is not unfair to say that our average American grows up with a kind of hazy idea that if he is only concise enough, he must surely be clear. Purely economic considerations enforce this silly idea. The newspaper, which makes up the major part of the reading of most Americans, frequently has to sacrifice clearness to space considerations. It tells half the story; it develops one-third of the idea, and lets it go at that.

* * *

Cathedral Ideas, Hallroom Sentences

Advertising writing, perforce, is concise and therefore not always ingenuous, not always complete or clear. And who has not known the exasperation caused by the reception of a business letter, which has been so intent on being concise, brief, "businesslike," and all the rest, that it necessitates another exchange of letters to complete the idea which might just as well been explained in the first?

No, this idea of "clear and concise" is a fallacy which muddles our national thought. "Clear and complete" would be better, or "clear and concise so far as is compatible with completeness." Only simple ideas can be expressed in elementary form. Ideas of any maturity, complexity, or difficulty can be expressed only in sentences or paragraphs which take pains to leave no thread unknotted, no loop-hole open, no query dangling.

That is, I take it, the trouble with Mr. Smith's announcement. He was dealing with a very difficult and a very complicated situation and, as I believe, he was trying to deal with it in an honest and sincere and delicate manner. I believe that he was trying to be fair—though in a way calculated to drive his own supporters and those of Governor Roosevelt to frenzy.

But his mistake was that he tried to be concise about it. Apparently, he rather prided himself on this conciseness. The result was that he spent the following day in obvious exasperation elaborating his remarks, explaining his own definition of "candidate," and saying things which certainly ought to have been said in the original announcement.

* * *

Washington, Hearst Models

I have been reading of late in the letters and orders of George Washington. According to modern notions he is rather long-winded, wordy, and formal in his phrase. But he is always admirably clear and crushingly emphatic. There is never any doubt as to what he means or the force with which he means it. The same thing is true, incidentally, of the official editorials of Mr. Hearst. He takes all the space he needs, he repeats himself as much as he feels necessary, and there is never any doubt at the end as to what he means and how he feels. It is an old American custom we should do well to revive.

Professor Pitkin thinks that all this may be caused by the fact that the average American business man is incapable of reading correctly. Everything has to be boiled down for him into tabloid form, so that his badly trained and jumpy mind can take it in at a glance. Give him a long, closely reasoned piece of writing, says Professor Pitkin, and the chances are that he will read it all wrong.

If this is so, if half of us can't write correctly what we have to say and the other half can't read correctly what we have to read, the explanation of the present mixup and of many others like it becomes clear enough. But, however one may explain this lack, it certainly is not an asset to a candidate for a presidential nomination nor to the politicians and the publicists who have to deal with him.

Traffic Lights Too Costly in Medford

Because of the jump in cost of operating automatic traffic lights in Medford, Mayor John H. Burke is studying a new plan for traffic handling. The mayor says that the cost of automatic traffic lights is approximately 30 per cent of the amount spent by the city on its street lighting.

Judge Flynn Gets Robe From Friends

NEW CLUES IN 'PSYCHO' HUNT FOR STUDENTS

Federal Reserve System Joins in Nation-Wide Search for Harvard Boys

The nationwide federal reserve system and a New England chain of gasoline stations joined the hunt today for the two students missing from Harvard School of Business Administration.

The two agencies were called on for aid as Harvard psychologists studied examination papers of Nathaniel E. Jones and Floyd Stewart for possible clues on their state of mind.

FOLLOW ALL CLUES

At the same time, Walter Briggs of Lexington, accompanied by William Conway, Boston Evening American reporter, set out over snow-covered roads for Hanover, N. H. to trace a course often taken by Jones, a pal of Briggs Broken fences, disabled automobiles, gas stations and hospitals were checked on the trip.

The Federal Reserve checkup was asked in the hope that a clue might be furnished should a check of either student go through for clearance.

Young Jones, whose father, Nathaniel R. Jones is confined to the family home at Billerica because of his son's disappearance, held a discount card on the chain of gas stations, accounting for that check up.

Police were waiting today for further word from New York in connection with a small car that was reported in a plunge into North River last week

SEEK LOST AUTO

The car has not been located, but New York police said the aid of divers was to be sought to locate it.

Theodore C. Streibert, assistant dean at the school, said both students passed the mid-year exams but a study of the papers was taking place, in the hope that the type of answers might reveal the state of mind of the men and thus furnish a motive for their disappearance.

Registrar Ryan in Crash on Ice, Gets Only a Headache

The man who knows all about automobile accidents, road hazards, errors in judgment and structural failures in automobiles studied an accident at first hand today—and came out of it suffering from a headache

He is Morgan T. Ryan, registrar of motor vehicles, and his car was in collision with another machine at Essex and Lincoln sts., as the registrar was being driven to his office at Commonwealth Pier

As the registrar's car reached the intersection of the streets, he said, the other machine, coming out of Lincoln st., took a 20-foot straight skid on the snow-covered ice-rutted pavement and crashed the side of Ryan's Public Works Department car

Ryan, who only yesterday declared that he would not suspend licenses of drivers involved in ice rut accidents, said he told the other driver to report to him at Commonwealth Pier

"Nobody was hurt," said the registrar to the Boston Evening American. "All I got out of it was a headache. I'm thankful my chauffeur didn't give her the gas when he saw the crash coming, else we probably would have been struck at the rear and overturned.

"And, by the way, how do you fellows hear of these things so quickly?"

CITY TO FIGHT HULTMAN

Police Commissioner Hultman's court action to secure the $100 pay increase for [illegible] members of his department was sharply criticised last night by Corporation Counsel Samuel Silverman who will defend the economy program ordered by Mayor Curley when the case is reached in court Feb. 19

"I am satisfied to let the courts determine this matter and, of course, will not discuss the merits of the case while it is before the court," explained the corporation counsel. "But it is unfortunate that the police commissioner will not co-operate with the mayor in effecting the economy that would come from the cancelling all salary increases this year

"That is the penalty the city is forced to pay through the placing of the control of the police department in the hands of a state official."

MRS. OSGOOD ON VISIT HERE

Mrs. Margaret C. Osgood, 84-year-old Bostonian of social and literary prominence, has just completed her 134th crossing of the Atlantic ocean.

She is a woman of amazing vitality and has just completed a book, "The Anthology of Mysticism," on which she has been working three years.

Mrs. Osgood, who resided at 235 Marlborough st., until 1886, has been traveling ever since that time and has long been an intimate of notable, both diplomatic and literary, here and abroad. Her friends include Mussolini, H. G Wells, Otis Skinner and George Arliss

Made 15 Audits of Founders Trust

Fifteen satisfactory audits of the Founders Securities Trust and the United Investment Assurance Trust in 17 years were testified to today in federal court in defense of Stephen J. Richards and Charles W. Seager, charged with frauds of $1,400,000 by use of the mails.

The auditor was Lincoln G. Ashcroft, who testified he was resident manager of his firm. He was the first witness for the defense

River Victim Unidentified

The body of the elderly man taken from the Charles river four days ago was still unidentified at the Northern Mortuary.

COL. BUDD GOES BACK TO FARM

After more than 31 years' service in the United States Army, Lieut.-Col. Arthur Dryhurst Budd, World War hero, has been retired and will live in Windsor near Pittsfield, as a "dirt farmer," the army announced today.

It was at the Windsor farm of Lieut.-Col. Budd that John Coolidge, son of the ex-President, and his bride, spent part of their honeymoon

Graduated from West Point in 1904, Col. Budd leaves the army as one of its most decorated members. Ten of his 31 years' service were spent outside the continental limits of the United States.

In the World War, he went through the entire American participation overseas, missing but one major engagement and emerged unscathed—only to return home, slip on a rug and suffer an injury which necessitated removal of his right eye.

For his World War exploits, he was decorated by the American government, by the French, by Italy, by Roumania, Serbia, Portugal, Poland, Belgium and Greece

His wife is the former Mrs. William S Ely of Rochester, N. Y., whose only son, an aviator, was killed on the western front in the war

Alumni to Meet

"Dirt Farmer"

3 MAGAZINES UNDER FIRE

Quincy police today will seek an opinion of justices at the Quincy District Court as to whether there is sufficient grounds to prohibit the sale of three humorous magazines by Quincy newsdealers

Lieut. John J. Avery said that no action would be taken until he obtained an opinion from the court

Action against the magazines was first taken yesterday when Superintendent of Schools James N. Muir brought the magazines to the attention of Mayor Thomas McGrath, who advised the school head to see Chief of Police Ernest H. Bishop

Association Will Honor J. I. Moskow

In honor of the retiring president, Jay I. Moskow, the Massachusetts Avenue Association, Inc., will devote its seventh annual banquet at the Hotel Kenmore Tuesday night to paying him tribute. Governor Ely is expected to speak. Clarence W. Rowley will preside.

It was [illegible] been in the [illegible] with M[illegible] more than an hour before she discovered the bag

She could hear by pressing her ear to the wall when they were using the telephone. And the telephone was being used plenty. But during a [illegible] she connected the [illegible] and called the Morris Hotel. Ed, anxious and excited, listened to her.

DAISY PHONES ED

"I'm at Belmonte's lodge, near Cannondale," she said, and she told him exactly how to get there. "They've got Mickey here and the whole mob's armed. Don't tip off your brother, because you've got to crash in the way I tell you. There's a back road — if you come in the entrance they'll get the signal from the lighthouse. Belmonte's here now an' all the rest o' the mob. Hurry, sweetheart, I love you, and I need you—"

Ed didn't call from the hotel. Instead he went to the corner. When he [illegible] headquarters he asked for Lieut. Tom Duggan

"Hello, Tom," he said. "This is Ed—yes, yes—never mind. I've located Mickey . . . For God's sake, don't tell Jim. We'll call him just before we get there. We've got to do this thing right . . . I've got the low-down . . . can you get ten fightin' men who can keep their mouths shut? . . . Okay, bring me a gun and pick me up at Clark and Devon. I'll be on the corner——"

"Hello, Steve—Hello, Mike—Hello, Rod!" he called

"Where to, Ed?" Tom's in back—he's got three others with him. We've got plenty of stuff—tear-bombs—sub-machine guns—and fifteen fightin' men—"

"Straight out Dunhill Road," said Ed, sinking back. He felt like an outcast. Marty waved an arm outside, and the car lurched ahead. On and on they went, Ed grunting out a direction now and then. Hardly a word was spoken. Behind, the headlights of the other

FATHER SAVES THREE FROM LYNN FIRE

Leaps From Window With Daughter After Rescuing Two Sons

Fighting his way three times through flame and smoke, Francis J Murphy, Lynn worker, today rescued his two boys and a daughter from their burning home at 59 Prospect st., Lynn

Murphy awoke to find the kitchen in flames edging toward a bedroom where Margaret, 22, was asleep.

In an adjoining room ... William ... were unaware of the danger.

Murphy ... to stay in her room and ... to make her way ... through the burning kitchen.

Then he took William to the back door, rescued Francis in the same way and returned to find his daughter had collapsed.

Escape by the kitchen was cut off and Murphy was forced to carry her out the bedroom window and jump ten feet to the ground.

Fire Chief William ... said the fire started from an ... kitchen stove. He said ... told him he had ... fire and ... regulating the stove drafts and dozed off.

Sudden Prosperity Traps Youth in Theft

Sudden evidences of prosperity displayed by Daniel D. Gratti, 24, of Adams st., Newton, led to his arrest on a charge of larceny of a cash register and its contents from the poolroom of Benn Romano at 210 Adams st.

Suspicion was aroused when he was seen smoking huge perfectos and taking girls to dance. He pleaded guilty in the Newton District Court and was sentenced to serve two months in the house of correction.

McAdams' Death Robbed Him of Election to Phi Beta Kappa Society

Academic honors were awarded at noon today by President John A Cousens to Tufts and Jackson students whose college grades have been exceptional, and have been granted special recognition. Leading athletes were among the recipients of scholastic honors.

Charles G. Geary of Woburn is selected to represent the School of Liberal Arts at Commencement. Miss Elinor H. Crockett of Springfield, who will represent Jackson, received the scholarship of the class of 1898, the Alpha Omicron Pi scholarship and membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

The class of 1882 scholarship was presented to Harold W. Kaese, stellar baseball man, for distinction in two fields, mental achievement and physical prowess.

Death on the storm-swept slope of Mt Washington a week ago robbed Ernest W. McAdams of Stoneham, Tufts senior, of the chance to receive high honors at the exercises. His scholastic standing was far above the standard required for membership in Phi Beta Kappa.

ATHLETE HONORED

The Bennett Memorial scholarship was awarded to Jacob Fine, captain of the basketball five.

The Goddard prizes for high academic grade attained in a field of effort were awarded to Miss Mildred Ingalls, Gloucester; Lazarus Secunda, Pittsfield, and Prudence MacKissock, Manchester, N. H.

Special honors for Jackson students were the Pi Delta scholarship awarded to Miss Margaret W. Beattie, Medford; the Chi Omega scholarship to Miss E. Marjorie Wood, also of Medford, who best exemplifies the combination of excellence in scholarship and participation in worth while activities. Miss Wood also was elected to Phi Beta Kappa.

Miss Winifred Blackmer of South Sudbury, president of Alpha Omicron Pi, received the Panhellenic cup, offered for annual scholastic competition between four sororities. Miss Elsie A. Mueller of Somerville was awarded the individual Sigma Kappa scholarship.

GODDARD PRIZES

Results of the Goddard prize readings were announced as follows: Miss Kaye MacKinnon, Belmont, first; Miss Ruth MacDuffee of Cliftondale, second; Miss Olive B. MacPherson, Somerville, third. The Greenwood prize scholarship for the greatest improvement in oratory was awarded to Ralph B. Miller of Monson, with other awards to Arthur W. Olsen of Lincoln, Miss Ramona Sawyer, and Charles W. Thomas of Providence.

Sigma Omega Psi fraternity won the Cousens cup for having the least percentage of men failing in any regular course.

The Walpole prize, awarded annually by the author Hugh Walpole for the best essay submitted in advanced English courses, was presented to Miss Mildred Ingalls of Gloucester.

The Moses True Brown prize went to Melvin C. Miller of Kingston, N. Y., while the Wendell Phillips Prize for declamation and debate went to Francis J. McNiff of Hudson.

TO PHI BETA KAPPA

Elections to Delta Chapter of Phi Beta Kappa were Miss Margaret Beattie, Medford; Miss Elinor H. Crockett, Springfield; Charles G. Geary, Woburn; Miss Mildred D. Ingalls, Gloucester; Charles C. Montano, Hartford, Ct.; Lazarus Secunda, Pittsfield; Miss E. Marjorie Wood, Medford; Maurice M. Blodgett, Barnard, Vt.; Miss Ruth E. McDuffee, Cliftondale; Gabriel V. Mottla, Quincy, and Miss Helen S. Taylor, Greenwood.

Elections to Tau Beta Pi, the honorary engineering society, were as follows: Warren S. Darling, Orleans; Herbert E. Howe, Waltham; Ralph L. Dockendorff, Saugus; Charles O. Hosterman, Dorchester; Ernest W. McAdams, Thomas J. Marshall, Medford; Philip R. Nye, Lynnfield Center; Philip A. Ramsey, Jamaica Plain; Albert B. Rich, Medford, and Louis Schwartz, Dorchester.

TUFTS AND JACKSON REWARD THEIR EXCELLENCE

MARGARET BEATTIE — JACOB FINE — MAURICE ABRAMOVITZ — ELEANOR CROCKETT — E. MARJORIE WOOD

Five of the recipients of academic and scholastic honors awarded at Tufts and Jackson colleges today. They are Miss Margaret Beattie, winner of several honors; Jacob Fine, basketball captain, who has attained A in all his studies and is rewarded for the combination of high marks and athletic prowess; Maurice Abramovitz, given two honors for attaining A in all studies during his whole college career. He will represent Tufts at commencement; Miss Eleanor H. Crockett of Springfield, awarded two scholarships, membership in Phi Beta Kappa and will represent Jackson at commencement; Miss E. Marjorie Wood of Medford, selected as best all around Jackson student. The awards were made by President Cousens.

RADIO GOOD SAMARITANS Broadcasters Recognized

By N. F. T.

To the dean of radio writers in New York goes credit for establishing what he terms his "Good Samaritan Club of the Air." For the first time this department has decided to steal a bit of thunder from another scribe by setting up a Boston branch of that same club, hoping to be wished well by ... Nick Getting An Earful Kenny.

FAVORABLE REPORT SEEN ON BILL TO PERMIT BETS ON RACING

NINE MEASURES DISCUSSED AT HEARING

Proponents Predict Passage in House, Stiff Fight in Senate

Predictions were freely made that some pari-mutuel measure would have strong backing in the Legislature following the hearing before the Legislative committee on legal affairs on various bills to legalize betting on races with the old age assistance fund sharing the proceeds.

The committee took the various measures under consideration following yesterday's meeting, at which gambling on horse races was portrayed by some as a harmless pastime furnishing thrills for thousands and by others as a great evil tending to debauch the morals of the people of the state.

FAVORABLE REPORT SEEN

It was believed by many who closely followed the trend of the hearing that the principle of the proposed legislation is likely to be reported favorably. Many prominent men predicted that the measures had more than an even chance of passing in the House and that the real battle would come in the Senate.

Nine bills came up for discussion at the hearing of which several were duplicates. One seeks to establish a state lottery commission with two annual pools, while another would legalize the registering of bets.

Interest centered largely in the measures which would permit the installation of pari-mutuel machines at race tracks.

WATCH AND WARD SCORED

Among the supporters were Judge Frank J. Bryan, of New York, Bayard Tuckerman, Jr., Representatives Christian Herter, Lewis Sullivan, Jr., Daniel Coakley, Eugene Durgin and Lewis Gray, Senator James Twohig, Hugh Bancroft, William T. Ryan and Ernest A. Johnson.

Opponents included the Rev. Robert Watson, Henry M. Pringle, of Washington, law enforcement director of the National Reform Federation; John C. L. Dowling, director of the Watch and Ward Society; Godfrey L. Cabot, John L. Grandin and George E. Oudland.

Representatives Logan, Carroll and Derham hurled bitter criticism during the afternoon session of the hearing regarding the activities of the Watch and Ward Society. The right of Dowling to appear was challenged by Rep. Logan, who charged he was a paid lobbyist.

TEACHERS' PAY CUT IN LYNN

More than 500 teachers and hundreds of other employes of the Lynn schools were notified of 10 per cent cuts in salaries today.

A problem confronted city officials, however, on 153 teachers who are serving under contracts for the three years prior to "tenure status."

Leaders among the teachers were canvassing their co-workers today to accept the cut as a voluntary measure, pointing out that a compulsory cut would later effect retirement pay.

The city council will meet Thursday to act on similar pay cuts in other departments. Action on the pay of teachers was taken by the school committee.

Rites for Vincent Sullivan

The funeral of Vincent Perry Sullivan, former golf professional at the Sandy Burr Country Club, who died at the Middlesex County Sanitarium on Monday, will be held tomorrow.

HARVARD TO PRESERVE MEMORY OF FAVORITE IN OILS

BOB LAMPOON

MISS THAYER

Bob Lampoon's famous face will be preserved for Harvard on canvas. The veteran janitor of the Lampoon building, shown at his home, where he is confined to bed by a leg fracture, is to be painted in oil for the Lampoon staff. Miss Ethel Thayer, formerly of Boston but now of New York, is the artist given the commission to paint Bob who, incidentally, was christened Robert H. Stewart. Bob says the plan is O. K. if he doesn't have to pose undraped. (Staff photo.)

WHITE STORE WORKERS MEET

Ten employes who had completed 15 years' service with R. H. White Co. were admitted to membership in the Long Service Club at the annual banquet in the store last night.

NO SALARY CUTS

Benjamin F. Raphael, president of the R. H. White Company, [illegible] of the 10, extended a welcome to the rest and presented certificates of membership. In reviewing the work of the past year he said the store had made a very good profit showing.

He said the store had not cut salaries and doesn't intend to.

Howard E. Lovett, the new general superintendent, and Matthew Dunphy, merchandise manager, also addressed the club.

OFFICERS ELECTED

The new members admitted by President Raphael were Winifred Greely, Josephine Guerin, Evelyn Michelini, Mary O'Connor, [illegible] Walsh, Josephine Dudley, Agnes Connolly, Abbie Brewster and Anna Sonis.

More than a dozen were admitted to the 25-year class, which now numbers 64. They were, Josephine Cadigan, Alice Corbett, Joanne Finnity, Frances Gilley, Roberta Litchfield, Bertha Locke, Charles Lanman, Art Moulton, John Jarrett, Hugh McShane, Percy Graham, Lillian May and Agnes Sullivan.

The officers elected for the year were William Callinan, president; Frances Gilley, first vice-president; Charles Lanman, second vice-president; Orrin Jones, treasurer, and Belle Douglas, secretary.

EXPERTS FACE ECONOMY AXE

A plan to eliminate high-salaried officials of the Lynn school department and save 700 school teachers from the 10 per cent wage cut proposed by Mayor Manning, was made last night at a meeting of the school committee by Committeeman Dr. William G. Ward.

He mentioned the psychology department, the directors of health and physical education and the Americanization department, but implied the "clean-up" should be wholesale.

Action on the plan was postponed when it was pointed out that the school teachers are to hold a meeting today to consider the proposed cut.

The Lynn City Council also met for the purpose of considering the municipal wage cut, but action was deferred until a special meeting to be held Friday.

Zionist Leader Is Lynn Rotary Guest

Dr. Nahum Sokolow, president of the World Zionist Organization, addressed the Lynn Rotary Club at a special luncheon today, following a public reception in his honor conducted by Mayor Manning at City Hall.

His schedule for the day included four addresses, others being before the State Senate and then the House and at a banquet of the Jewish community of Lynn at Temple Beth-El. Tomorrow he will be the guest of Governor Ely at a State luncheon at the Copley-Plaza Hotel.

Harvard Points Jail Lesson to Library Book Thieves

"This book was stolen from Harvard College library. It was later recovered. The thief was sentenced to two years at hard labor."

They were the books taken by Joel Williams, recently sentenced as a member of a ring that stole 2500 books, kept under lock and key until disposition of the case.

LENTEN SEASON OPENS TODAY

Lent, the annual period of fasting, praying and penitence, began today, Ash Wednesday.

Following masses in Catholic churches this morning ashes were distributed. There will be services and sermons this evening and services will be held Wednesday and Friday evenings during the Lenten season.

There were seven services in the Cathedral Church of St. Paul today. Dean Sturges preached at 10.30 a. m. and Bishop Sherrill officiated at noon. A series of laymen's sermons will be preached at noon on Saturdays during Lent.

Mass will be celebrated daily beginning today throughout the Holy Season in St. Stephen's Church, North End.

Milk Men Donate to Needy

Mayor Sinclair Weeks of Newton was notified yesterday that the employes of the Newton division of Noble's Milk Co. had pooled $207.50 for the city's unemployment relief fund.

GIRL TO PAINT BOB LAMPOON

[illegible] Robert H. Stewart [illegible] painted in oils by a woman artist of New York, formerly a Bostonian, but the famous janitor of the Harvard Lampoon building didn't know about it until today, when he was told by the Boston Evening American.

Miss Ethel Thayer, daughter of the late Ezra Thayer, former dean of the Harvard Law School, announced in New York that she intends to paint Bob Lampoon at the request of the Lampoon staff, but they were keeping it a secret from old Bob.

Anyway, he's laid up with a broken leg suffered on December [illegible] on a mysterious [illegible] on Plympton st., where he says something hit him on the thigh and cracked the bone across.

"So she'll have to wait until the leg mends," he said today. "I don't know who this girl is. You know the Harvard boys are always doing something like this. They've been very good to me since the leg was busted. It'll be spring before I can get back on the job in the Lampoon Building and I guess she'll have to wait till then.

"I guess that'll be a great experience, eh, being painted by a lady, but I'm looking forward to it. Those boys certainly are cards."

Bob Lampoon doesn't know what he is supposed to wear when he sits for the painting.

"I'll wear any costume the boys want me to," he said, "but none of this undraped stuff like I've read about. It'll be costume or nothing."

$34,000 BANK DEPOSITS ARE UNCOVERED

Medford Woman Thought to Have Died Penniless; More Cash Still to Be Found

More than $34,000 in cash deposits in banks of Greater Boston and its suburbs has been found by James W. Norton of Medford, special administrator for the estate of Ellen T. Dwyer, who lived as a recluse in Medford. Many more thousands are believed to be on deposit in other banks and a search has been instituted.

Mrs. Dwyer was found dead on the floor of her cottage home on [illegible] in the rear of [illegible], West Medford, on the night of Dec. 2.

SPURNED FRIENDSHIP

Mrs. Dwyer, known to neighbors as Nellie, was 67 and had lived alone in the little house under the [illegible] of the former [illegible] for many years.

Hundreds of people had a speaking acquaintance with her, but no one living in the neighborhood knew her well. She preferred to be alone.

For years she was believed to have had little money, yet she owned the house in which she resided and paid her taxes promptly. Many of the neighbors taking pity on her used to send in food occasionally for which she appeared grateful.

On the night of December 2 Patrolman Frank Dwyer was asked by neighbors to investigate the situation at Mrs. Dwyer's home. They had not seen her about the place for a couple of days. The officer went to the house and found the recluse dead on the kitchen floor.

WOMAN STARTS PROBE

Some days later a policeman on duty in Medford [illegible] was questioned by a young woman driving an auto with a Virginia registration regarding Mrs. Dwyer and whether or not she had left any property.

Told that she left no property, the young woman, who gave the name of Mrs. Agnes J. Kingsbury and claimed to be a niece of Mrs. Dwyer, appeared dissatisfied and later consulted a Medford attorney, then as special administrator of the estate.

SAFETY DEPOSIT BOX

As a result of a check-up Judge Bean of the Middlesex Probate Court on January 15 appointed Attorney Norton as special administrator of the estate.

After much investigation Attorney Norton unearthed a deposit of $2000 in a savings bank and a safety deposit box in the [illegible] Trust Co. In the box was found [illegible] bank books on banks in Boston and the suburbs, one of which showed a deposit of approximately [illegible].

'Cribbing' Bared at B. U. Examinations

Charges of wholesale cribbing at Boston University were aired today in B. U. News offices, undergraduate publication.

Scores of crib notes were found in the examination rooms after mid-year exams, left secreted in desks by students of business administration, the paper said. The article pointed out that proctors supervised the examinations but detected no cheaters.

ONLY WAY TO BOSS WOMAN— TELL HER THE TRUTH

By HELEN ROWLAND

NINE TIMES out of ten, if a man would tell a woman the honest truth, she'd forget him for anything on earth—and blame "the other woman."

• • •

But, to be FRANK with a woman is against all masculine psychology—and besides, he just hates to be "forgiven"!

• • •

Not that a man wants to be deceitful or enjoys lying to the woman he loves. But it's "the easiest way." Any man hates to have to resort to prevarication, from the wedding day to grave. He would much rather tell a woman that he DID stop at the corner speakeasy, that he was out lunching with the new stenographer; that he HAS had a couple of drinks; that he did forget that it was their wedding anniversary!

• • •

But that would involve explanations. And every normal man detests having to "explain things." He would much rather sit on red-hot corrugated iron!

• • •

Subterfuge and evasion are foreign to the average man's nature. He really prefers to be open and above-board. But what can he do, with a WOMAN!

• • •

No married man really desires to resort to pretext and equivocation in order to get out of the house, evenings. It is a great nuisance and a positive cross to any man, to have to watch his step, clean out his pockets, chew peppermints, and avoid looking at a "come-hither blonde." But "anything to keep the peace"—ANYTHING to keep the peace!

• • •

Any man loathes these clandestine and sub-rosa methods. He'd much rather tell a woman that he's sick and tired of her, than go on pretending. But he's a "gentleman." And he's got to like one—or have a scene on his hands." He is DRIVEN to deceit, by a woman's "unreasonableness"—that's what!

• • •

As a matter of fact, nine modern women out of ten are PERFECTLY reasonable. But, almost every man is a "Jiggs" at heart, and imagines that he's married to a tyrant "Maggie." His motto is, "Peace—and perfect liberty—at any price." Yet, if a man only had the courage and the commonsense to look a woman in the eye, tell her the TRUTH, and ask her what she's going to DO about it, he'd be astonished to see how meekly and "reasonably" she'd take it. That's the only way to boss a woman!

Don't Neglect High Blood Pressure

By DR. R. S. COPELAND

HIGH blood pressure is one of the common ailments complained of in modern times. It was unrecognized by the old-time practitioner. Even now it may not be discovered until it has left its damaging effect upon the body.

Dr. Copeland

Frequently I am asked what the blood pressure should be at different ages. A sort of "rule of thumb" for determining the normal blood pressure is to add one hundred to the age. This will give the approximate but of course not wholly accurate answer.

The pressure found in a healthy person between 20 and 30 years of age varies between 100 and 120. As we grow older the blood pressure rises. This is due to certain changes which take place in the walls of the blood vessels. The small arteries become hard and lose their elasticity.

Warm baths are beneficial, but hot baths are harmful. A person who suffers from high blood pressure should have a daily elimination.

Ed Battles to Hero's Death

When they got to Boroughville, Ed straightened up.

"Wait a minute, Marty," he said. "I want to talk to Tom."

Marty's hand went out once more and he pulled to the side of the road. The other cars lined up behind. Ed crawled out.

"Tom's in the last car," said Marty. Ed started back. As he passed each car he heard the words, "Hello, Ed," and he raised his hand. He would have preferred it if they had said nothing. When he got to Tom's car, he said:

"Better call Jim, Tom—the fight'll be over by the time he gets there."

Tom grunted and slid out of the car. Ed walked beside him. "Don't say anything about me," he hoarsed. Tom nodded. He went into a little restaurant and in five minutes he was back. Ed had waited at the side of the road.

"Okay," said Tom. Ed nodded and ran up to the first car.

At Cannondale Ed gave the directions just as Daisy had told him. They had to leave the cars at the outskirts of Belmonte's domains. The detectives stood in a little grim group.

"You lead the way, Ed," said Tom.

"But—Tom—I'm not on the force," stammered Ed.

"This is a private job," said Tom. "Go ahead!"

Ed shrugged. Somehow he felt out of place—among his former comrades. They trailed behind some carrying bombs, some long-barrelled guns, which looked like shotguns with huge cylinders at the chambers. They took a tan bark path and Ed in the lead, now and then, sought his way by his flashlight.

Soon the squat, low-roofed lodge came in sight. A police-dog began to howl. They crept a little nearer. Then came a shot.

Daisy, with Mickey shielded in her arm, crouched in a corner of the room which had been their joint jail for long hours of premonitory silence. A silence at that moment broken by the sharp crash of a shot. A silence shattered to multi-million bits by a barrage of explosions, by a few hoarse shouts, and the roar of hell fire.

"It's Ed, Mickey," Daisy whispered with a shudder and a smile.

"Sure, and he'll get us out, too. He's the biggest cop next to my father," Mickey whispered back bravely.

The rapid thunder of racing feet sounded near by, followed by the deafening outbursts of a desperate attack, an equally desperate defense. Then the rat-tat-tat of machine-gun fire swept through the house. Wood and stone crashed. Bullets ripped their way through the door of Daisy's and Mickey's room; a chance bullet split the lock from the wood. Freedom!—of which no advantage could be taken. Daisy was shaking, holding to Mickey for the support which the newly-made corporal gave her with the true valor of an officer.

"It's all right, Daisy. Hold tight. Ed'll get us," he said, holding back an involuntary shudder and sob.

"Sure he will, Mickey. Wait a minute. While it's quiet I'll go out. Promise you'll stay here? Honor bright?" Daisy was on her feet with a lull in the firing, and with Mickey's promise scarcely said, ran to the door. She opened it a bit, pulled it wide and slammed it behind her.

There, in the still, smoke-laden air, not 15 feet away lay Ed, side by side with Ginger Slim.

"Ed, Ed, Ed! Did they get you? I did it! I did it! I brought you out here—if they—"

"Yeah—you dirty little rat. You double-crossed Belmonte just once to often, you blonde punk—"

Guiseppe Belmonte, for one time in his career was mad. His automatic was leveled directly at Daisy's breast. He took one shot to put the period to his tirade. Daisy with a look of cold recognition and colder hatred, without a groan, doubled up on the floor, her arms across Ed's body.

A big man bristled in, a revolver in his hand . . . Fightin' Jim Fitzpatrick's gun took the final toll of the Belmonte gang, leveling a surprised Guiseppe where he stood.

"That's one rap you won't beat," he breathed.

And Fightin' Jim made his way through the chaos of broken furniture and crumpled bodies to the body of Ed, the last of his own flesh and blood.

"Mickey! Search the place for Mickey, men," he sobbed as tears choked him. But the order was unnecessary.

• • •

"Come here, Mickey boy," said big Jim, bending over Ed and holding his left arm for his son. "Come here—while I pin my star on a man who died as a copper wants to die—his duty, Mickey, was his honor."

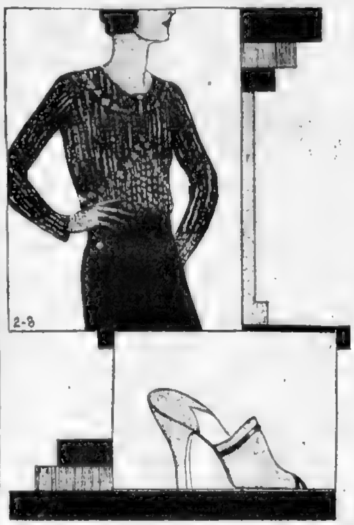
THE SWEATER GETS GAY

Model in Black by Schiaparelli

SKETCHED IN PARIS



The sweater sketched is a Schiaparelli model in black wool which combines a close purling stitch in the upper part of the bodice and sleeves with a loose, lacy stitch which makes the shallow yoke, lower part of the bodice and set-in cuffs.

Geniuses Are All Right in Someone Else's Family

By WINIFRED BLACK

A LITTLE nine-year-old girl out West has taken a job as an expert bookkeeper—and she's kept the job too, mind you that.

Of course she has to waste a lot of valuable time going to school or the truant officers will get her, but she does the expert bookkeeping after school, and late into the evening.

There's a little girl of five in Chicago and she's composing her own songs, if you please.

And how about that boy of three up in the Northwest who can speak correctly in Italian, French, German, and such English as is spoken by the everyday American?

I'd be scared to death, myself.

How ever are these poor little things going to endure the dull stupidity of life when they begin too early?

If I had that little girl keeping my books, I'd give her father a good talking to, and her mother a good shaking, and I'd buy her a woolly sweater and a woolly hood, and some high boots, and a pair of woolly gloves—I suppose you couldn't find a pair of mittens for her to save your life—and I'd send her out skating and snow balling and acting as if she couldn't spell M-e, me or Y-o-u, or add two and two, to save her life.

Old heads on young soldiers—I don't like to see them, do you?

Of course, we all admire clever children, just as we admire clever grown people, but these weird little things who can read Greek at five and translate Horace at four—I thank you, ladies and gentlemen, none of them for me. They make me too nervous for words—even to think of them.

A Valentine Supper for Sunday

By MARTHA LEE.

IN THE far-off days of ancient Rome people felt the need for a day of relaxation and play, so set aside a holiday in February when young men and young women drew each other's names as "particular friends" for the coming year.

Centuries later this delightful holiday was revived in England, but instead of adopting the old Roman name, the name Saint Valentine's Day was chosen to commemorate the good works of a kindly bishop, Valentine. Ever since, the 14th of February has been set aside especially for lovers.

This year the holiday falls on Sunday. And the year, be it remembered, is Leap Year! This gives the hostess an opportunity to entertain at Sunday night supper.

The color scheme for the 1932 Valentine's Sunday night supper should, of course, be pink and white. Here is a menu particularly suitable for the occasion. The Raspberry Fluff is one of those delightful delicate desserts that seem to have been especially invented for Valentine's parties.

Lobster Salad

Juice of one lemon
2 cups celery
Mayonnaise
Salt and pepper to taste
Lettuce

Allow lobster meat to thaw slightly. Cut in small cubes. Marinate with lemon juice. Add crisp celery cut in pieces. Just before the salad goes to the table, stir in tart mayonnaise and seasoning. Garnish with pimiento hearts and serve on crisp lettuce leaves. Serves eight.

Valentine Sandwiches

1. Serve heart-shaped sandwiches spread with crushed pineapple and chopped pecans.
2. Spread thin slices of very fresh bread with creamed butter, peanut butter, or any desired filling that spreads easily. Roll, fasten with a toothpick, and put in a cool place. Remove toothpicks before serving. These sandwiches may be tied with a narrow pink ribbon or may be brushed with butter and toasted.
3. Open sandwiches may be spread with cream cheese tinted a delicate pink and garnished with pimiento hearts.

The Beauty Box

THE white evening robe is popular, but watch out for it. In contrast, it is bound to give the complexion a yellow cast. Oyster or ivory is a safer selection than dead chalky white. Cheek and lip coloring must be toned down but the green-blue eye shadows look charming with the frock of snowy surface.

Daily True Story

Money to Save

THE KELLYS had plenty of friends; there was a reason for that; Edgar was a hard working husband and Minna was a hard working wife, but they never had so much to do that they forgot to be cheerful.

When the Kellys had been married five years their friends decided to give them a party in their own home. They went about this carefully and finally it was decided that a new sofa to take the place of the rather shabby one in the Kelly sitting room would be practical and handsome, too.

It took a lot of maneuvering to get Minna out of the flat while the new sofa was being put in place. Then they had to make an excuse to prevent her going back until the hour fixed for the party, which was eight.

That added to the excitement, but when at last the Kellys, somewhat flustered, entered the apartment they were greeted by a grinning crowd of well wishers who stood carefully in front of the new sofa.

SMILES FADED

At the proper moment, when the short speech of felicitations was finished, the crowd parted and the spokesman ended with the usual flourish "and to show our friendship and esteem we beg you to accept this small token of our regard."

Edgar and Minna looked. There was a scream. It came from Minna. She stuffed her handkerchief into her mouth.

"Oh, yes, yes—thank you. It's lovely of you all. Yes, yes, but where, where is the old sofa? What did you do with it?"

The smiles on the faces of the donors straightened out. So that was all Minna thought of this unusual gift. "That," said one of the ladies, "oh, we threw that away. It was so shabby. I beg your pardon, Minna, but we thought——"

"Listen," said Minna. "It was terrible, but"—she looked appealingly at her husband—"I had all our savings hidden in that sofa—all we had in the world."

The startled company looked one at another. Minna was conscious of a voice saying: "We gave it the ashman."

Silently the givers of the anniversary present filed out of the room, leaving Edgar and his wife alone. She looked up at him. "Don't you care?" she stammered. All "our savings gone!"

"Listen," said Edgar, "I didn't want to tell you before all those people, but I—I took that money."

"You—you took it?" Minna started from the sofa—

"Yes, and I put it in the bank—in your name and mine—I figured it'd be safer there."

"Oh, Edgar," Minna broke down. Oh—Oh," and with her arms about his neck she wept in earnest.

It was all explained—the Kellys were cheerful once more and their friends rejoiced. They told her frankly she ought to thank heaven for a sensible husband—a bank was the place for money not the inside of a sofa.

So the Kellys went on saving, and even when the boom came and their solicitous friends urged them to invest in stocks and make a killing they shook their heads—they repeated the words of wisdom "a bank is the place for money," and they kept slowly adding to the amount.

The boom boomed on and everybody was getting rich on paper and then came the collapse.

The Kellys congratulate themselves. "I think," said Minna to her husband, "that it would be a nice thing if we invited all the people who celebrated our fifth wedding anniversary two years ago to a little party to cheer them up."

"It's just like you," said Edgar, "we seem to be the only cheerful people I know."

The idea was eagerly approved by the little company who had presented the Kellys with a new sofa and they appeared in force at the appointed hour. But Edgar was late, not only late but worried and solemn.

ATMOSPHERE OF GLOOM

Instead of his usual cheerfulness he exuded an atmosphere of gloom so that the guests rallied him and his wife couldn't make him out.

"There's only one condition attached to this party," said Minna, "and that is that nobody mentions the depression."

With a little liquid cheer this proved not so difficult in spite of general conditions of the business world, and it was long past midnight when the last friend departed with abundant thanks.

When the door had closed Edgar sank on the sofa and stared guiltily at his wife. "Listen dear," he said in a husky voice, "I've got a terrible blow for you—that money—I put in the bank—it's gone—the bank's busted—I just heard it this afternoon—I feel a hundred years old—"

"Don't worry," said [illegible] brightly. "I didn't want [illegible] you before all those pe[illegible] what they don't know won't hurt them—but I drew it out of the bank yesterday."

Edgar was on his feet. "You—you've got it," he asked, "where?"

FANNING

With GEORGE UNDERWOOD

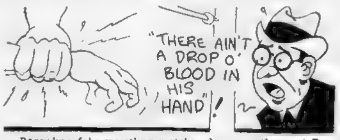
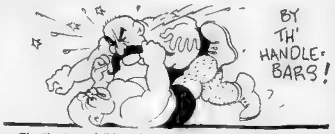
C'mon, Keeper, Bring Along Our Padded Cell!

Getting pussonal, me and my keeper are preparing for a couple o' wild nights. You see, we happen to be one of the great legion of wrestling "nuts" present-day grunting and groaning is turning out in such armies that here in Boston they can crowd three wrestling shows into two nights and get good crowds at all three. Wrestling has a toe hold on Mister Boston and he's hollerin' in an agony of delight. You'll find more "nuts" in the Boston Garden and Shubert Theater, tonight, and in the Arena, tomorrow night than in a whole flock of insane asylums. The Arena is wrongly named, It should be called the Nut Factory. On wrestling nights the Garden is a Bug House, Shubert's a Crazy Shanty. There is nothing which will turn a perfectly sane and level-headed man into a stark, raving maniac like a couple of man-sized grunt and groaners. We once attended a wrestling match with the head of one of America's greatest corporations. We thought they would have to put him in a straitjacket before the delirium was over. Another time our seat mate happened to be a famous surgeon and, when we laughed at his going crazy over an "act" that was being staged in one of the preliminaries, he roared: "Don't tell me this isn't on the level! You hard-boiled newspaper cynics give me a pain in the neck! Why, he's putting so much pressure into that wrist lock all the blood has left the hand!" It mattered nothing to the good Doc that several unbreakable hammerlocks had been "broken" and "broken" right in front of his own eyes. Like the farmer looking at the giraffe, the good Doc had made up his mind that as far as fake wrestling matches are concerned, "there ain't no sech thing."



Regarding fake wrestling matches, however, the good Doc is mostly right. Nine out of ten of the big grappling bouts are on the level. The "acts" are put on in the preliminaries for entertainment's sake. Even in the big matches there is "acting." But "acting" doesn't necessarily mean the match is not on the level A fellow may do a lot of unnecessary grunting, groaning, snorting puffing, kicking and mauling and still be doing his utmost to win. A good wrestler has to be a good showman. A fellow doesn't take his life in his hands in a "hippodrome." A half-dozen times in Paul Bowser matches this season you have seen wrestlers jeopardize both life and limb. The Ponderous Pachyderms earn their money, give us fans a run for our money, so let 'em grunt and groan, brother, to their heart's and our heart's delight.

The most side-splitting, rib-cracking wrestling bouts oftimes are the most honestly and desperately waged. We sat at the ring side one night at a match between a Russian with a mustache that stuck out like a pair of moose horns and a bald-headed Finn. Thousands of dollars had been wagered on it. Yet it was a "scream." A wag from the gallery advised the Finn to "get a hold of his handle bars." Taking the tip, the Finn grabbed the Russian's mustache and the Tarzan of The Steppes emitted a roar that could be heard for miles. A few minutes later the Finn tried the "handle bar hold" again. This time the Siberian Wolf Hound was ready. He sunk his teeth in the Finn's hand, and the guy from Helsingfors and way points let out a wail that sounded like an inebriated steam calliope. Laugh? Ye gods and little fishes! We spectators laughed that night until our ribs cracked! Yet the match was honestly waged. Many of the laugh-splitting bouts are "acts," but there are just as many rib crackers which are dead on the level. Some of the grunt and groaners are natural born clowns They cant help being funny. Thank the good Lord for that. A laugh is good for the soul.



The "best people" have become addicted to wrestling. At some of the big grunt and groan riots you can't toss a hat into the assemblage without hitting a celebrity of some kind. Grunting and groaning is great for the tired business man. It'll even make you forget your latest tiff with the Storm and Strife and Chain and Ball. And how the gentle sex have been bitten by the wrestling bug. The Colonel's lady and Judy O'Grady are sisters under the gin. You'll find the sweetest, most innocent-looking sweetie of the lot right up in a front seat yelling "Bite his ear off, Count," with the rest of 'em. Grunting and groaning knows no age or sex. The whole family gathers at the matside from gran'ma down to the baby. The whole town is mat mad.

To what is due the hold the grunt and groaners have on the populace? One reason, we believe, is that it is a sport they have left much of the bark on. They have bound most of the other sports with so much red tape that they've taken away most off the old-fashioned kick. Too many rules, to many "verbotens." Everything goes in grunting and groaning, for both competitor and spectator., There is a "free-for-all" aspect to modern wrestling, and spectators can do about as they like, too. They are choking boxing and baseball with too many rules, too much formality. Another thing which makes wrestling a pleasant pill for the public to swallow is its admixture of fun, ludicrous and burlesque. The grunt and groaners both thrill your hearts and tickle your tummies. That's the big reason why all of us grunt and groan "nuts" will meet at the matside tonight and tomorrow night. Keeper, put me a straitjacket and bring along the padded cell. It's our night to howl.

GINO RISKS STRANGLER'S HEADLOCK

Jack Conway Rides With Strangler's Headlock

Strangler Lewis says he will carry his headlock into the ring with him when he opposes the youthful Gino Garibaldi at a Toots Mondt mat show at the Boston Garden tonight.

Lewis without his headlock would be much like a circus without elephants The Strangler has cut short the hopes of many an ambitious grappler with this famous hold.

"All I ask is an opportunity to fasten on my headlock, and Garibaldi will think somebody has started the war all over again" said Lewis this a. m. over his prunes and coffee at the Copley Plaza.

"Some of the boys say I am getting old. I don't pretend to be as young as I used to be, but in the wrestling game one can hold back old Pop Time better than in some other pastimes.

Flock of Candles Needed for Ed's Birthday Cake

"Even though I would require a flock of candles on my birthday cake if I were to toss a party, I can still handle all these young fellows who are busting into the sport pages telling the world how good they are. This Garibaldi kid whom I meet at the Garden tonight is an example. He says he is going to wreck the old Strangler with his flying tackles.

"Let him try. I'll bet you a swell dinner tho. I'll win I may have my troubles in the early stages of the bout when Gino is jammed with pep, but the longer the contest goes the better I'll get I find these youngsters shoot the works too early They don't have any reserve left for a long, hard match'

Ray Steele of California one of the best of the Jack Curley wrestlers, will oppose Pat O'Shocker in the semifinal which has a 45 minute limit O'Shocker got busted up in his recent tussle with Lewis but wants to meet the Strangler again Mondt has promised this opportunity to the victor of the Steele O'Shocker affair

Pinetski Posts $2000 Forfeit on Twin Foe Go

Leo Pinetski, Polish giant, six feet eight inches tall and weighing 280 pounds, has posted two grand which will go as a forfeit if he fails to toss John Maxos Greek heavyweight, and Don De Laun giant Frenchman, inside of 20 minutes.

There will also be a flock of 20 minute time limit bouts. Dick Shikat is meeting Sailor Jack Lewis, George Zaharias facing Matros Kirilenko, Jack Washburn facing Paul Harper, Kola Kwariant meeting Frank Speers, Ernie Dusek hooking up with Joe Shimkus and Fred Grobmier trading holds with George Kotsonaros

"I'M O. K." SAYS JIM CORBETT

New York Feb. 9 James J. Corbett former heavyweight champion of the world, answered his own telephone at the Presbyterian Hospital today "just to show folks I'm really not sick"

Learning that Corbett had been in the hospital several days and that his wife had taken a room next door to be near him, Universal Service phoned post-haste fearing that "Gentleman Jim" must be ill

A deep, husky voice came on the telephone and Corbett himself said

"Now, don't make any fuss over me. All I had was a cold and the doctors decided I needed a little rest. I'll be out of here in a few days."

Mr. Boston

By JACK CONWAY

If Ed George gets by Bibber McCoy at a Paul Bowser show at the Arena tomorrow night, you'll hear the start of a ballyhoo for another tussle between the handsomest bird in the wrestling game and Henri DeGlane.

When George and DeGlane bumped into each other at Braves Field last summer they attracted $[illegible] to the box office. Which is more money than most [illegible] millionaires now have on hand. Any time a couple of young athletes can attract this much sugar they are [illegible] to get a hearing from some promoter trying to keep ahead of the sheriff.

Mr. Boston

George won the title from Gus Sonnenberg. He later lost it to Strangler Lewis, who perished before DeGlane. I always felt that if George had remained champion he would have become the greatest attraction wrestling has known. At the time of his defeat he was drawing as big houses as Sonny had when at the height of his career.

[illegible] most former champions George [illegible]. He is only 2[illegible] years of age. He is a mere baby in the matter of years when compared with Londos, Lewis, Koloff, Pesek and the Zbyszko brothers.

When George got knocked off [illegible]. Instead he cut loose with a few strong cuss words and got down to business. He became tougher than ever. I don't envy McCoy the job he has for tomorrow night.

Bibber would probably tell you that A. Morel was supposed to be a tough hombre but that he convinced him that he was just a football player.

If George is to get another crack at DeGlane he will probably first be asked to take on George McLeod, flying head scissors king, provided the latter gets by Pat McKay of Memphis tomorrow night. Then there is also Jim Browning. The latter may never get another crack at the Frenchman but he is in a pretty good spot to insist that all challengers first meet him.

They Now Have Hockey on Roller Skates

They can do about everything nowadays with the exception of making near beer taste like the real thing. Freddy Lane choo-chooed in from Revere with the news that the American Roller Hockey League has reorganized and is entrenched at the State Skating Rink on the Boulevard in Revere. Gene McCarthy has lined up teams from Lynn, Salem, Beverly and Revere.

Bibber McCoy

Freddy explains that there are six men on each team, that the players use hockey sticks, and a ball instead of a disc. They bat the ball around, while they break world's records on their roller skates. The big idea, of course, is to sock the onion into the opposing net.

Freddy says the game is faster than hockey played on ice, while there are enough spills and crashes to satisfy everybody.

Speaking of rough games, Fish Sullivan tells me that this Down East Hockey is a wow. When a goal tender is going great guns, one of the rival players fastens a headlock on him, drags him from in front of his cage and opens the way for a score.

Nobody gets excited when players are slugged. They merely carry the injured player to a field hospital. Incidentally no substitutions are allowed. It is a survival of the fittest.

Buckley to Second Heuser in Cleveland

Johnny Buckley was to hit the trail West today to second Adolph Heuser in his 10-round bout with George Manley of Denver at Cleveland tomorrow night. Buckley feels Heuser is the next world's light-heavyweight champ and intends to give his personal attention to the German.

Heuser and Jack Steadman, trainer, are already in Cleveland. Jack Dempsey will also appear on the Cleveland card.

Fishermen! Can You Tell a Better One Than This?

Clearwater, Fla., Feb. 10 (INS)—A golfer arrived at the 19th hole of the Country Club here with no tale of his 240-yard drive on the seventh, his 40-yard putt on the tenth.

In fact he related a fish story. Topping his drive into a creek, he was startled by a terrific splashing. He grabbed the steel flag pole from a nearby green and speared a 63-inch tarpon, stranded in the creek after an abnormally high tide.

And his caddy was right behind him, toting the tarpon.

JUST FOLLOW THESE RULES

1. Each day for 36 consecutive days (except Sundays) the Boston American will print a Washington Patriotic Prize Puzzle. In each puzzle an historic event in Washington's life will be named. You are invited to solve the puzzle and name the event. The puzzles will be printed in 6 weekly series, each series complete, and each series having its own prize awards.

2. The Boston American will give each week valuable awards to the persons who send in the nearest correctly solved puzzles in accordance with these rules. Winning a prize one week does not prevent competition in following weeks.

3. This offer is open to everyone—men, women, boys and girls—except employees of the Hearst newspapers in Boston and members of their families. There is nothing to pay [illegible] merely a test of your skill and knowledge.

4. Puzzles must be submitted each week, each series of six in a complete set for that week. Do NOT send in each puzzle separately. [illegible] publication of the last puzzle in each series. Address "WASHINGTON PATRIOTIC PUZZLE EDITOR," Boston American, P. O. Box 165, Boston, Mass.

6. Each entry must be sent by First Class Mail, postage prepaid. Entries with insufficient postage will be returned by the Post Office. Be careful to have your name and address on each puzzle. Make your entry simple and neat. Neatness will count.

7. You need not buy the Boston American in order to compete. You may copy or trace the puzzles and send them in. The Boston American may be examined at 5 Winthrop Square or at Public Libraries free of charge.

8. No entries will be returned.

9. The judges will be appointed by the Boston American. Their decisions will be final. In case of ties a duplicate award will be given to each tying contestant. Your entry in the competition denotes acceptance of all existing rules or any that may be made during the time of contest.

10. The Boston American reserves the right to alter or amend these rules at any time.

SPEED DEMON LAUGHS AT DEATH

CAMPBELL SEEKS NEW RECORD

New York, Feb. 10 (AP)—Sir Malcolm Campbell once said, "You can get killed just as completely at 175 miles an hour as at 300 and that seems to cover exactly the way he feels about this eternal chase of his for speed and more speed.

A fatalist like so many of his racing brethren, Sir Malcolm will 'chuck it all" if he ever feels even the least bit fearful about the dangers inherent to the sport he loves.

In the ten years that he has been seeking speed records in a serious way, Campbell has raised the world's land mark from 136 to 245.773 miles per hour. Now he's here again for another assault on the record at Daytona Beach, Fla.

Campbell who is 47 years old, began his racing career, as so many English automobile racing drivers have done, on a motorcycle. This was more than a decade ago. From the motor bike he went on to racing cars on Brooklands track outside London and in the various road races in Ireland and on the Continent.

Campbell Sets Mark at 245 Miles an Hour

It was not until 1931 that Campbell could make arrangements for a try at the record at Daytona Beach. Then last February he sent his Bluebird flying over the course at a rate of 245.773 M. P. H.

But even then he was not satisfied, for he was convinced his car had more speed than that. Back home to England he went to be knighted for his contribution to English supremacy in the field of speed.

Immediately he went to work on his car, changing the design of the nose and making some adjustments to get a little more horsepower out of the engine.

With customary reticence he has declined to say what he thinks he may be able to do at Daytona Beach this year.

"There are so many factors to consider I would not like to say," he declares. "But obviously I expect to beat the present record, and if everything goes well the mark should be raised quite a bit."

Death Wins First Bout With Boxer

Hollywood, Feb. 10 (INS)—Arthur Vincent, 19, was dead today because of a zealous desire to gain membership on the Los Angeles Junior College boxing team.

A physician said that Vincent had a weak heart.

Stagg to Attend Grid Rules Meeting

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—A. A. Stagg, Sr., director of athletics at the University of Chicago and dean of the country's football coaches, left today for Hanover, N. H., to attend the annual meeting of the football rules committee, of which he has been a member since 1904.

Hockey Giggles

By BILL GRIMES

During the second season Boston was represented in the N. H. L., the fans began to interest themselves in the Bruins and they roared against all officiating which failed to meet with their approval.

They were the forerunners of the present day fans who derive most of their pleasure from voicing their opinions of the referees.

After convincing themselves that the Bruins were not getting an even break from any of the officials, a couple of the most rabid fans decided that more strenuous means of protesting were necessary if they were going to accomplish the purpose. So one evening they went to the Arena with a few over-ripe eggs concealed in their pockets to wreak vengeance on their arch enemies.

The self-appointed defenders of the Bruins selected a perfect evening for their air raid, as the officiating in that particular game was worse than usual.

As the Bruins were leaving the ice, beaten again by a narrow margin, the bombers cut loose their ammunition but their aim was poor, for instead of hitting either of the referees, two of the eggs struck Charlie Cahill, the Bruin right winger, on the side of the head and spattered all over Jimmie Herberts' face.

For the instant Cahill and Herberts were both stunned more from surprise than from the force of the assault. After mopping his brow and in his excitement mistaking the brownish red color of the yolk of the eggs for blood, Jimmie Herberts dashed for the Bruins' dressing room yelling: "Blood! Get the doctor! I'm cut!"

When Fitzgerald Put Amby McGarry Away

Today we tell you how Willie Fitzgerald knocked out Amby McGarry in one round—one round of the hottest fighting New Yorkers had ever seen. The fight was held at the National Sporting Club, Philadelphia, June 22, 1906.

Fitzgerald died about two years ago. McGarry is a prosperous business man in lower Bronx and only recently was appointed a referee by the New York State Boxing Commission.

By W. S. FARNSWORTH

Boys and girls, wotta fight! From the opening gong until Amby Garry was flattened it was punch, punch, punch and more punch.

It was the first time that McGarry, who was outweighed a number of pounds, had ever been knocked out. Amby lost no friends, for he put up a great fight. Fitzgerald, one of the wickedest punchers of all time, was just as likely to K. O. Joe Gans as he was the Bronxite.

The bell. Fitz, clad in green fighting trunks, walked up coolly to meet the hurricane from The Bronx. He had seen McGarry fight and knew all about those terrific plunges, so when Amby rushed bull-like with his head down, Willie ducked, but was carried to the ropes by the force and held on until he got his footing again. He smiled as he straightened up and danced away from a wild right that Mac unbuttoned. There was another right missed and then a left on the top of the head which had Fitz rocking.

McGarry, encouraged, rushed in again and drove Willie to the latter's corner, where they slugged like two demons. McGarry appeared much the stronger and whaled away at his man's body with both hands. Fitz finally got away and began sticking his left into McGarry's stomach. They hurt, as Fitz was putting all of his power behind the blows. Yet the Tom Sharkey-like McGarry never winced.

The crowd sensed a knockout and the yelling was deafening.

Fitz was the coolest man in the house. He measured Amby with a left, tossed his guard away and brought over a right that could be heard a block away. McGarry went over on his back. He turned over on his stomach, got up on one knee, his eyes bleary, slowly searching around the ring for his corner. His second tossed water-soaked sponges at him and told him to wait for the count of nine.

As Referee McGuigan reached "nine" McGarry arose and dived behind him. It was not exactly a dance—he was staggering and reeling. Experience had taught Fitzgerald that a cool head was as necessary as a wallop. He jabbed a left and stung Amby on the nose. The latter reeled. Fitz tossed in another left jab and, as McGarry threw up his guard to block it, Willie shot home another blow that was the real groceries.

The water splashed from McGarry's head and he shook like a toy building in an earthquake. His legs quivered and he went over slowly on his face. Fitzgerald knew it was over. He walked to his corner. McGarry could not get up. He was out as clean as a man could have been—his first knockout.

VILLA TO FIGHT RENAULT

In a feature fight of 10 rounds Pancho Villa of New Bedford will meet Baby Jack Renault of Cambridge at the Arena Monday.

Baby Jack Renault is one of the front rank 140-pounders in New England.

The semifinal of 10 rounds will bring together Sam Bruce of Buffalo and Nap Proulx of Taunton.

There will be five four-rounders on the card.

Cashman Is Captain

BLAKE ENTERS B. A. A. 600

Chairman William F. Garcelon of the B. A. A. let the fans in on the news today that the field for the Special 600, at the B. A. A. games at the Arena Saturday, had been completed with the entry of Ed Blake of the Unicorn Club.

Blake has been one of the best performers from the 440 up to 880 yards during the past several indoor seasons. He has been competing for the B. A. A. ever since he completed his college career at Dartmouth.

Schoolboy Notes

By GEORGE W. GRIMM

Huntington's basketball team faces its most bitter rival the Northeastern freshmen, at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium today. Sneddon, Harlow, Radvilas, Gray and Pignone are in the Huntington lineup.

The Husky frosh will floor Hanford, Forward, Whitney, Facey and Marberry, a team which has won four and lost four games to date.

Dick Dunn, manager of the Boston Garden, will return to his sports palace today and is expected to announce that he has arranged for an all-star scholastic hockey team of New York boys to play in the Garden on Feb. 22.

If he has been successful in arranging to bring a team of schoolboy puck-chasers here from Gotham, Dunn will proceed to select a sextet of stars from the Greater Boston interscholastic league.

The Greater Boston Interscholastic League is considered the fastest in the United States and a great team of stars could be picked that should whip any schoolboy aggregation imported to the Hub.

Manager Dunn is giving the schoolboys a fine break financially this year by allowing them to practice free of charge at every available opportunity, giving the schools 10 per cent of the tickets sold and also supplying the officials.

Their season winds up at the Garden on Saturday with Newton and Melrose tangling for the championship and all the schoolboys have expressed a desire to have the Boston-New York game fixed for Washington's Birthday. And some game will be certain for if Dunn hasn't clicked in N. Y. he will go after a schoolboy team from the Providence league.

Boston University's freshman hockey team will play at Exeter today and the game should be one of the best that either six has engaged in. Exeter is extremely strong with four local boys, Duffe, Lawson, Lane and O'Hare, starring.

English and Latin will meet in a dual track meet at the East Armory on Friday afternoon. English will be a big favorite to whip Latin but not by any great total.

FRIARS VISIT B. U. FIVE

Boston University's basketball team weakened by the loss of Freddie Garabedian will play its first home game in a month against the powerful Providence College quintet at the B. U. gym tonight.

Providence has one of the best college teams in the east. The Friars have beaten Harvard, Yale and several powerful teams and [illegible] to outscore the Terriers tonight.

The Terriers will feel the loss of Garabedian who is giving up basketball for the rest of the year in order to devote more time to study.

LOST ALL BUT COURAGE; NOW BACK ON TOP

By B. C. Forbes

Let us, for a change, turn to something cheerful.

In America's largest city there is a "mysterious" gentleman who, under the assumed name of Mr. Glad, hands out during each winter, thousands and thousands of sandwiches, coffee, gloves and nickels to all who come to get them—no questions asked.

His benevolences have attracted nationwide interest. The fact that he scrupulously hides his identity, piques newspaper interest in him and his activities.

It so happens that Mr. Glad has been one of my intimate friends for a quarter of a century.

His experience is worth reciting briefly at this time when so many are tempted to give up in despair.

Built Successful Business

Mr. Glad was a particularly bright business youth. The redoubtable [illegible] P. D. Armour, founder of Armour & Company, spotted him, admired his vigor and dash, promoted him, and as was [illegible] rewarded him for especially meritorious acts with new [illegible] of clothes.

By and by Mr. Glad launched out on his own. He built up a [illegible] successful business by working prodigiously.

Then his health completely broke down.

Lost Health and Fortune

For two years he was totally laid aside. Physician after physician operated on him. From a fine, robust specimen of manhood, he shriveled to a skeleton.

His business waned and waned, finally ceased.

Material and Mental Aid

The outstanding feature of Mr. Glad's homely philanthropy is that he is personally on the job to cheer up every unfortunate who comes to enjoy the food offered, the warm gloves that go along with it and the nickel for carfare to hunt a job. Each recipient receives [illegible] and an encouraging smile, this cheer up card, which perhaps does more than everything else to encourage the downcast:

"Cheer up, brother. Every cloud has a silver lining. Keep up your nerve, and everything will come out all right. Six years ago everyone thought I was down and out except myself.

"I had had a two year siege of illness which included four operations, and dropped from 180 pounds to 93 pounds. My business, which had taken fifteen years to build up, was smashed to smithereens, and I had to start all over at 52 years of age.

"I came back. So will you—if you have the heart and the will to do. My business is again a success—enough so, at least, so that I can do this little to help others less fortunate.

"I am glad to do this little bit because my heart is filled with gratitude to my Maker for all the blessings He has bestowed upon me after everything looked so lack—to everyone but me. I never lost hope. I want you to do likewise."

Forbids Publicity

Mr. Glad forbids me to tell his real name, because, he explains, "People would think what was being done was for the purpose of gaining publicity or notoriety for some personal benefit."

He has his business back, his 180 pounds back—and is probably the most truly happy man in America.

POLITICS

NEVER MISSES

Governor Ely rarely misses the weekly Tuesday luncheon at the City Club with the members of the Senate and House Democratic steering committee. At these [illegible] legislation and policies are discussed [illegible] upon.

TUCK DEMOCRAT

Winfield Tuck, of Winchester, told the legislative committee on [illegible] that he is for the two-party system of [illegible] in the state "I am a plum tree Democrat," he stated. "I believe absolutely in that old slogan 'To the victor belongs the spoils.'"

TO VOTE NEVERTHELESS

Apparently, from opinions given privately by several members, the [illegible] votes in the House will be cast against the horse racing and lottery bills by members who privately have no objection to seeing these things made legal. In some respects the situation is similar to that which prevailed before the people were given an opportunity to have their say on the prohibition question.

GETTING WELL

Miss Gertrude Leahy of the city welfare department, who has been ill for the past two months, is now well on the road to recovery and is able to spend several hours daily at her duties there.

NOT TRUE

It was learned from an authoritative source today that [illegible] that State Senator Michael J. Ward of Roxbury is to be a candidate for sheriff of Suffolk County next fall are without foundation.

HELPS NEEDY

"Jimmy" Hooley of the city paving service, who during the past quarter century has gained fame as an orchestra leader, is now taking an active part in the campaign to raise funds for the needy and unemployed of the city. He is a member of the sub-committee canvassing business men and residents of Ward 8, Roxbury.

FILLS VACANCY

Patrolman Thomas H. Murphy, of Division 5, South End, who was assigned to duty in the vicinity of Dover st. for many years, has been transferred to Mayor Curley's office in City Hall to fill the vacancy caused by the retirement of Patrolman "Joe" Smith.

Budget Trimmed $26,000

By reducing the number of temporary loans to be floated by the city in anticipation of revenue, Mayor Sinclair Weeks of Newton succeeded in cutting $26,000 from the budget of the treasury department, which was considered at a meeting of the finance committee of the board of aldermen last night.

President

TEACHER NEW UTILITY HEAD

New York, Feb. 10—John C. Parker, now president of the Brooklyn Edison Co. succeeding Matthew Sloan, resigned, has had wide experience both as a teacher of engineering subjects and as a practical engineer. For several years he taught in the engineering departments of the University of Michigan and Union College.

Mr. Parker took his Bachelor of Science and Master of Arts degrees at the University of Michigan and later received the degree of Electrical Engineer from that institution.

After a year with the General Electric Company, he spent a year as an instructor in electrical engineering at Union College, Schenectady, where he had an opportunity to work under Prof. Charles P. Steinmetz.

From the teaching work he went to Niagara Falls as assistant to the engineer in charge of the Ontario Power Company, at that time the world's largest hydro-electric development. Later he became assistant to F. B. H. Payne of the Niagara, Lockport & Ontario Power Company, in which capacity he was connected with the installation of the first 60,000 volt line to be built in this country.

Financial News, Stocks, Bonds and Comment

—STATE ST.— Hears:

That prices have drifted to a point where it is logical to consider the possibilities of a rally. Resistance to the decline is now evident at a level which corresponds to the bottom area of early January. While conservatives are content to hold a sideline position the speculative element is ready to try the long side in a cautious way.

Speculative Policy

Considering the market and its recent action from a purely speculative angle, it seems wise to look into the attractions of the bull side. Despite the willingness of certain specialties to give way before concentrated selling, the general list has definitely signalled that it is pretty thoroughly sold out. This seems obvious even though the number of issues traded has tended to expand slightly in the last few sessions. In fact, this latter may be due to the growing tendency to sell on the part of the average boardroom trader. If this element were disposing of long stock something might be said for the short side at present.

Recognizing the reluctance of the list to yield to sellers, while assuming that expansion of issues traded is not a normal development, is the reason more daring operators will try for an upside turn. They will buy the slight spill they think will develop as the leading averages approach old lows. The spill will be due to an already congested short account attempting to force new minimums.

Bank Shares

The time to consider the leading bank shares is apparently here once more, if leading brokerage interests are correctly interpreting the trend. The level at which the shares are now being recommended corresponds roughly to the prices ruling late last November. It is somewhat above the levels prevailing at mid-December when they were recommended here for the second time. Since then the leading institutions have made their reports and shown themselves to be even more impregnable than earlier advices to this column indicated.

The best method would seem to be to accumulate a selected portfolio of four or five leading equities. Any reliable broker can be depended on to exercise conservative judgment. Those who might care for a carefully prepared list may consider the choices of a leading banker. He likes National City, Irving Trust, Manufacturers Trust and Manhattan Company.

Boardroom Briefs

A factor weighed by those considering the long side is the attitude of leading constructive forces who have been inactive pending more definite news from China . . . They seem to feel that this group will attempt a run-in of the shorts before [illegible] price structure without placing themselves in jeopardy through too great commitments in their various favorites . . . Auburn just a few weeks back was headed for 200 or [illegible] visited . . . This column reported the selling of insiders at 150 and cautioned against buying . . . Now that stories of a bear operation are [illegible] avoid the short side . . .

Incidentally [illegible] Auburn is 30. The reason, idle plants. The reason does not [illegible] the company cannot get sufficient parts.

2nd Nat'l Investors to Cut Stated Value

At the annual meeting of stockholders of Second National Investors Corp. scheduled for March 1, holders will be asked to act upon a proposal to reduce the stated value of the $5 convertible preferred stock from $10 to $1 a share. This will not affect the preference value upon liquidation or the redemption price of the preferred stock, which will remain at $100 a share.

Similar changes in [illegible] the common stock were approved at the annual meeting in 1931. Annual meetings of the four companies in the National Investors group will be held on March 1.

Nichols to Speak on Jobs for 1932

Frank C. Nichols of Swampscott will be the speaker this evening at 8:45 over station WAAB of Boston, WICC of Bridgeport and New Haven, WDRC of Hartford, WNBH of New Bedford, WORC of Worcester and WPAW of Pawtucket. Mr. Nichols will be the sixth in a series of speakers presented under the auspices of the New England Council with the cooperation of the Yankee Network. His subject will be "Jobs for New England in 1932." Mr. Nichols, who is treasurer of the New England Council will be interviewed by Dudley Harmon, executive vice-president of that organization.

Telautograph Corp. Earns $1.57 Share

Telautograph Corp., for the year 1931, reports a net profit of $359,273 after depreciation, interest, federal taxes, etc., equal to $1.57 a share on 228,760 shares as compared with $331,360, or $1.53 a share in 1930.

BEAR INTEREST VIEWS FAIL TO AGREE

By FRANK H. MELOON

Views on the bear interest in Wall Street fail to agree. One school of thought holds that the immediate market significance of the January increase of 758,000 in the short account is bullish. This school says it indicates a stronger technical position in the general list, since, eventually the bears must buy those [illegible]. A tentative backlog of buying is thus shown.

• • •

The other school of thought holds the expansion due to activities of large operators. Concentration of much of the selling in a couple of issues is thought by many to support this idea, despite the popular notion that only little sellers, otherwise currently known as the "Teddy bears" have been nibbling at the walls of the financial structure.

• • •

Some argue that the decline shows the bears who sold had the right idea, while others contend that the decline wouldn't have come if the bears hadn't sold. In Washington shortly, bear selling is to be threshed out with its life at stake.

U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham of Connecticut has offered a constitutional amendment to make possible a tax on state and municipal bonds. He finds there is today a total of about $11,000,000,000 in such bonds non-taxable and concludes this results in a huge loss of federal revenue.

Sen. Bingham

• • •

So far as the loss in federal revenue is concerned, State st. opinion runs to the effect that the revenue was received in advance at the time the bonds were sold, through the higher price obtained on account of the non-taxable provision. There is a familiar old saying about its not being possible to eat one's cake and keep it, which appears to apply here, and which explains why no other senator has made the Connecticut solon's discovery.

• • •

A national magazine says the compulsory auto insurance law has eliminated many "junk" machines from the highways. We have certainly seen no proof of that and have never heard anyone else mention any such diminution. A certain number of junk machines are automatically eliminated every year by the simple process of wearing out beyond repair, but others of the class are equally automatically created.

• • •

Benjamin H. Crain, authority on automotive industry, declares:

"One of the highly debatable questions that has been much discussed in the automobile industry since the days of its infancy has been the average life of a car. There have been in the past estimates extending over a wide variation of time. However during recent years there has been a more or less universal acceptance of 6 to 8 years as the life of the average car, with 7 years satisfactory for most practical purposes.

• • •

While those who realize the vital connection between safe and reasonably speedy transportation and prosperity are in favor of having real "junk" barred from the highways such machines are still being granted registration without question in all states. Only in New England do we find a growing stress laid upon the importance of periodical examinations.

C.I.T. NET $2.54 ON COMMON

Consolidated net profits of Commercial Investment Trust Corporation for 1931 available for dividends amounted to $7,554,998, compared with $8,318,793 for the year 1930. These do not include dividends received on investments of the corporation in its own stock, nor any gain in the purchase for retirement or otherwise of any of the corporation's own shares. After dividends on the first preferred and several preference stocks there remained available for dividends on the common stock $5,165,652, equivalent to $2.54 per share on the average number of common shares outstanding in the hands of the public during the year.

Brown Co. Report for Year in Red

Brown Co., manufacturers of high-grade papers and specialties reports for year ended Nov. 30, 1931 a loss after all charges of $3,[illegible] compared with loss of $1,[illegible] in 1930 and a profit of $1,[illegible] in 1929. After crediting [illegible] recurring profit on sale of capital assets of $4,920,000, and deducting preferred dividends of $[illegible] there was a decrease in surplus for the 1931 year of $[illegible].

Today's News of Live Stocks in Wall Street

STOCK list today stood for the [illegible] at its low for the bear market. There is little difference except in individual cases between Dec. 17, Jan. 5 and Feb. 9 prices. The present is a "buyers' market" in which the seller has to take the best price he can get. A great many stocks are now very attractive again.

U. S. Steel Tonnage Decrease Expected

Advance estimates point to another sizeable decrease in unfilled orders of the U. S. Steel Corporation for the month of January. Forecasts of the decline, barring adjustments, vary between 50,000 and 100,000 tons with majority opinion leaning to a figure nearer the larger amount. These guesses are based on knowledge that new buying, since the first of the year, failed to keep pace with the moderate gain in the rate of operations. Last year January orders were up 188,755 tons.

English Banks Liquidating Loans

Air Reduction Earns Dividend

Spasmodic short covering was [illegible] in Air Reduction by the imminent publication of the annual report for 1931. The statement is due within the next day or two and is expected to make a more favorable showing than originally anticipated. Per share profits are understood to have equalled full dividends paid during the year, including $3 regular and $1.50 extra. This would mean income of better than $1 a share for the fourth quarter compared with 90 cents in the preceding three months.

Big Mail Order Issues Compared

Comparison of the relative position of Sears, Roebuck and Montgomery Ward shows the balance strongly in favor of the former at present. Sears reported for 1931 a smaller ratio of sales decrease and higher net margin of profit than its principal competitor and covered dividend requirements on the outstanding stock, whereas Montgomery Ward, in the non-dividend class, showed a deficit equal to $2.25 a share on its common stock. Both, however, have maintained a strong cash and current position.

Renewed Selling in Case Preferred

Close proximity of the next meeting of J. I. Case directors has invited fresh selling of the preferred stock on which the company earned only a few cents a share in 1931.

Tobacco Stocks Rumors Revived

Variety of bearish rumors has been revived on the tobacco industry, with noticeable effect on kindred stocks. The stories are similar to those heard late last year and have to do mainly with the reduced rate of cigarette production. Latest talk in this connection was undoubtedly inspired by widespread publicity given the introduction of a new "make-your-own-cigarette" machine. Although Government statistics on cigarette output for January are not due for at least another week, estimates already suggest a further decrease will be disclosed.

Otis Elevator's New Orders

Otis Elevator has been getting some out-of-town orders including the elevator installations in the new building for the Supreme Court of the United States in Washington, and the Post Office building at Portland, Oregon. The company is continuing its campaign for the installation of up-to-date cars in old buildings, but this end of the business has not developed as rapidly as many had anticipated, due to general business conditions.

Liquidation in Anaconda Viewed

Selling in Anaconda has been the result of the disappointing developments in the copper metal market. More than a month ago there were hopes of stability in the price of copper and at that time quite a demand appeared for some of the copper shares, including Anaconda. Since then copper metal has receded and those who purchased Anaconda on the previous advance have been stepping out of the stock. With buying limited, this supply, part of which was reached when stops were uncovered, has been sufficient to put this issue into new low territory recently.

Scale Buying in General Foods

Scale buying is said to have been in progress in General Foods for the account of an investment trust which had been a large seller of various other stocks recently. The demand has not been following the stock upwards so far as can be learned, but it has been in evidence when recessions have come in the general list.

Railroad Fixed Charges Outlook

An increasing number of observers are expressing the view that the railroads, which earned as much as 70 per cent of their fixed charges during 1931, will not have much difficulty in covering these deductions during the current year. This belief is based on the fact that the railroads have the advantage of higher freight rates and a lower wage scales, which went into effect Feb. 1 and will be reflected in expenses for 11 months of this year. Despite this opinion, however, there has been continued liquidation in some of these rail bonds recently.

Union Pacific Dividend News

High ranking executive of Union Pacific was quoted as assuring continuance of present dividend at "next meeting," but the market apparently is adjusting itself to possibility of a reduction.

Canadian Pacific Dividend Rate

Many [illegible] apparently over[illegible] the reduction to American holders of Canadian Pacific stock, signified by the directors' decision to pay the dividend of 37½ cents "in Canadian funds." The latter are currently at a discount of 14 per cent.

MARKET VIEWS OF BROKERS

Whitney & Elwell—There is an old saying—"Never buck a bull market" and the same may be said of a bear market. On the other hand it is equally true that "too much company" sometimes rocks the boat. The official figures of the Stock Exchange show that the short interest is larger and loaning premiums on important stocks reveal the situation very plainly. It is trite but true to say that for every seller there is a buyer. "Selling into the bag" is not a profitable operation in the long run.

Edward B. Smith & Co.—Our only outstanding recommendation suggests the employment of 50 per cent of resources when and if prices recede to a level equivalent to 50-60 for the Dow Jones industrial average. In that range many stocks which now seem overvalued should be worth buying, even if only for short-term holding.

Hornblower & Weeks—Reluctance of the market to sell into new low ground may very well occasion a short covering movement when least expected, and we would look for just such a development to get under way this afternoon, with strength carrying over into Thursday's trading.

Copper Available at a Record Low

Electrolytic copper for domestic shipment is nominally 6½ cents a pound [illegible] to the end of July [illegible] level at which copper was [illegible] available from first hand [illegible]. Price of copper exporters on European destinations remains unchanged at 6⅞ cents c. i. f. Hamburg, Havre and London.

Commonwealth Co. Earns $10.40 Share

Commonwealth Edison Co. in its report for 1931 shows a net income of $16,322,541 after depreciation, interest and taxes, equal to $10.40 a share on Dec. 31, as compared with $16,402,588 or $11.51 a share on 1,425,100 shares in 1930.

Current assets on Dec. 31, 1931, amounted to $30,618,202 and current liabilities, including accruals were $20,206,007, as against $33,730,504 and $20,313,354, respectively, on Dec. 31, 1930. Cash at the end of last year totaled $19,858,027.

London Silver Quiet

STOCK PRICES MOSTLY OFF IN BOSTON

Stock prices were mostly lower in today's dealings on the Boston Stock Exchange, with changes limited to a point range. Rail trend was mixed, with Atchison and Pennsylvania showing fractional recessions, while New Haven was slightly higher.

Losses of a point or more were shown for American Telephone and Eastern Gas & Fuel prior preferred. Utility Equity preferred slumped 3 points to 43.

United Fruit was strong, advancing over a point to 22⅛. Minor declines were shown for American & Continental Corp., American Woolen preferred and Shawmut Association. Gillette added a minor fraction at 13⅞.

Union Twist Drill Co. reports for year ended Dec. 31, 1931, net loss from operations after $144,292 depreciation charge, of $70,178, loss after $15,017 reserve for loss on foreign exchange of $85,195 and deficit after tax adjustment, preferred stock sinking fund reserve and preferred and common dividends to $1.78 a share on 200,000 common shares.

Balance sheet as of Dec. 31, 1931 shows current assets of $2,274,103, including $598,362 cash. Current liabilities were $42,133, leaving working capital of $2,231,970.

During the year 503 shares of preferred stock were purchased in anticipation of sinking fund requirements, reducing the number outstanding to 7623 shares; 4290 shares of common stock were purchased also.

Consolidated Gas Profit $56,700,000

New York, Feb. 10—The 1931 report of Consolidated Gas Co. of New York, to be presented to stockholders at the annual meeting February 24, will show after all charges a balance available for the common stock of approximately $56,700,000, equal to about $4.93 a share on the 11,477,[illegible] shares outstanding at the close of the year. This would compare with earnings for the common stock during 1930 of $58,017,622.

—SPECTATOR— Says:

The unyielding manner shown by the general stock list in daily penetrating into new low ground, for the decline is adding to the cockiness of bearish traders and at the same time bringing them nearer to a day of reckoning.

Psychology

There are important grounds for believing that the current selling wave which has carried prices lower in all but two of the past dozen trading sessions, has been based in large part upon the [illegible] psychology which has [illegible] made inroads in the speculative community.

One prominent commission house aptly points out that traders who would not sell Steel, Central and other ranking leaders when they were quoted over $100 a share now are among the most bearish. So-called business economists who encouraged sunshine talk a year ago are today the loudest prophets of doom.

Overnight Change

It is declared that this weak character psychology could be changed almost overnight with the proper leadership, and one of these days such leadership will make its entrance into the fold.

A statistical house has discovered what it believes to be faulty logic on the part of speculators for the decline. The survey points out that there were 14 daily increases in the short interest and seven decreases, while the industrial averages showed nine increases and 12 decreases.

Amateur Shorts

The logical procedure for short sellers would be to increase their lines on a rising market and cover on reactions. However, it was discovered that on 75 occasions the change in short position was opposite to the change in the averages. The conclusion drawn from this is that a large portion of the short interest is amateurish in character, with the likelihood of a wild scramble for stocks when the turn finally comes.

Dividends

• • •

J. G. Brill Corp. omitted the dividend on the class A stock due at this time. The regular quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the preferred was declared, payable March 1. A year ago at this time the corporation declared a dividend of 34 cents on the class A stock and two years ago a dividend of 65 cents.

• • •

Texas & Pacific Railway declared regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 on the preferred stock, payable March 31, to stock of record March 15.

• • •

Hazeltine Corp. declared a quarterly dividend of 12½ cents, payable March 15. The two previous quarters dividends of 25 cents each were declared.

• • •

New Orleans, Texas & Mexico Railway took no action on quarterly dividend of $1.75 on the common due to be paid Feb. 29. Semi-annual interest of 2½ per cent on the 5 per cent non-cumulative income bonds was declared.

Guardian Life 1931 Surplus $4,133,380

Guardian Life Insurance Company of America reports surplus earnings amounted to $4,133,380 and a net increase in assets of $7,052,682 for 1931, according to president Carl Heye. Of the accumulated surplus $3,550,000 was set aside for dividends to policyholders in 1932, $90,269 was charged off against depreciation of the home office buildings and other improved real estate properties, and the balance of $493,111 was added to the surplus account.

N. Y. Sugar Prices Sink to Record Low

Sugar prices went to the lowest levels in the history of the New York Coffee & Sugar Exchange, March sold at 88c a pound off 7 points for the day and closed at 89c.

The price of 88c was the lowest ever recorded on the exchange. The previous record low was 91c, established last week. These prices compare with the all-time high quotation for sugar futures which is 21.35c a pound, created in 1920.

Grains Are Easy in Chicago Market

Chicago, Feb. 10 (AP)—Fresh setbacks in grain values early today accompanied bearish official reports as to the crop outlook for domestic winter wheat. On the downturn corn touched a new low price record for the season.

Opening ⅛-⅜ off, wheat afterward held near the initial range. Corn also started at ⅛-⅜ decline and subsequently showed little change.

Total Sugar Melt Tops a Year Ago

Sugar melt of 14 United States refiners from January 1 to January 23, totaled 205,000 long tons, as against 200,000 in the like 1931 period. Deliveries totaled 180,000 long tons, as compared with 205,000 a year ago.

STOCKS LOWER WITH SELLING MODERATE

New York, Feb. 10—Important shares were generally lower in trading today on the New York Stock Exchange. Selling was in light volume.

U. S. STEEL IS LOWER.

U. S. Steel sold off only fractionally in most transactions while the market awaited the forthcoming unfilled tonnage report. In the second period point or more losses showed for Woolworth, Sears, Electric Auto-Lite, Macy, North American, American Tobacco issues, American Water Works, Columbian Carbon, American Telephone, Coca-Cola, International Business Machines and American Bank Note.

Canada Dry, Cream of Wheat and Industrial Rayon all gained a point or more. Allied Chemical and Lambert were off 2 or more.

The steel industry is unable to make progress against conditions which are restricting the purchase of material on almost every hand, "Iron Age" said today.

The publication estimated current ingot production at 28 per cent of capacity, unchnaged from last week, but said there had been a sharp decline in volume of orders for some products, notably those going to the automobile industry. Expectations of an increase this month are based largely on prospective railroad purchases, chiefly rails.

BUYING LIES AHEAD

Ford buying also lies ahead. Delay in announcing Ford plans is what has mainly slowed up the automotive industry, many contend.

"A very definite factor in business curtailment is the slowing down of schedules by the motor car manufacturers," said the Iron Age review, "caused by lagging sales and the desire to move slowly until Ford's plans are fully revealed. Curtailment is especially in evidence among units of General Motors, whose January sales both to dealers and car users were below those of December, going against the usual trend. It is now doubtful whether February output of cars will equal that of aJnuary.

"In building there is virtually no private work, while lettings of fabricated structural steel and reinforcing bars for public projects are unfavorably affected by state and municipal budget reductions. Bookings of fabricated structural steel this week are only 8250 tons ,the smallest for any week since the Iron Age began compiling this record, and new projects call for only 7000 tons."

In a message to employes, F. E. Williamson, president of the New York Central Railroad Co., expressed confidence in the future of the railroad inustry, and predicted solutions would be found for any problems that may confront the industry. Railroad managers realize that changing conditions must be met with changed and improved methods, he declared.

CURB MARKET IS MIXED

New York, Feb. 10—The Curb market put up a more stubborn front in today's session, with a scattering of advances in isolated issues just about offsetting further declining tendencies here and there along the line.

Commonwealth Edison scored a moderate comeback in the utility group, moving up a full point. American Gas & Electric was up ½ point, while slight declines were sustained by Associated Gas & Electric A which was off ¼, to a new low, and United Light & Power, which was down ⅛.

A break of four points in Bulova Watch preferred to a record low followed the announcement that the dividend had been omitted. Other miscellaneous issues to rule under pressure included New York Steam, which was off ⅝, and Aluminum, which ruled fractionally lower.

Hardware Trade Has Gain in Orders

New York, Feb. 10—The February outlook in the hardware industry has shown indications of improvement over the preceding month, Hardware Age will say tomorrow in its weekly market summary. Orders are now making their way more freely toward merchant, jobber and manufacturer. Small lot buying of staple merchandise is currently reflecting an increase and a substantial volume of spring business is anticipated.

Competition engendered by low priced European products of inferior quality is acting as a demoralizing influence to the movement of some important staple lines. Domestic manufacturers of similar products, after instituting every possible economy, are unable to duplicate import costs. The price disparity between the domestic and foreign products is slight, however.

Established quotations are being well maintained and few downward revisions of consequence are being announced. The credit situation has a somewhat "spotty" character, as collections are fairly satisfactory in some market sections, and slow in others.

Bond Values for Month Up

New York, Feb. 10—The Stock Exchange announced that as of February 1, last, there were 1595 bond issues aggregating $52,241,912,994 par listed with a total market value of $38,371,920,619, an increase of $523,431,813 over January 1 for 1601 listed bonds.

The average price of U. S. Government bonds was $95.64, with a total market value of $14,498,709,681. Foreign government bonds had an average price of $62.71, with total market value of $10,303,967,146.

Woolworth, Ltd., Sales Up

New York, Feb 10—Current sales of F. W. Woolworth Company, Ltd., are showing a satisfactory trend, those for January having shown an increase over the like month last year, W. L. Stephenson, chairman and managing director, said on his arrival here from England. In 1931, he said, the company had 470 units in operation in England, an increase of 30 for the year.

De Vaux-Hall Petition Filed

New York, Feb. 10—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy has been filed in United States District Court at Grand Rapids, Mich., by De Veaux-Hall Motors Corporation, manufacturers of De Vaux motor cars. Schedule listed liabilities of $1,830,112 and assets of approximately $2,000,000 with unsecured claims of $1,345,819 and secured claims of $437,700. George R. Scott, vice-president, and Frank G. Deane of Grand Rapids Trust Company named reecivers.

Providence Weaver in Red

Providence, Feb. 10—The Royal Weaving Compares with net loss of $750,350 in 1930. Sales in 1931 were $3,450,320, against $5,206,994 in 1930.

Central Plans Rail Buying

New York, Feb. 10—The New York Central has begun estimating its rail requirements for 1932. Last year road estimated requirements at 175,000 tons, but bought only half that amount, allowing options on remainder to expire December 31. It is expected requirements this year will be less than 80,000 tons.

$1,517,000,000 for Railroad

Cash and credit totaling $1,517,000,000 were advanced by Canadian Government to Canadian National Railways between April, 1919, and end of 1931, House of Commons was told by J. T. Hackett, M. P.

Loan Chance Wanted for Public

Washington, Feb. 10—Suggestions have long been pouring into the capital that the public be given a chance to subscribe to low denomination debentures of Reconstruction Finance Corporation. This might have double effect of releasing hoarded money and in furnishing funds for the corporation. Many matters would have to be considered, including government maturities. General impression existed that the corporation would use the $500,000,000 available from the United States Treasury before issuing its own debentures. Indications were that should the Government and the corporation seek money at the same time, the Treasury would issue sufficient bonds to take care of requirements of both and then buy debentures of the corporation.

Car Loadings in Week 561,157

Loadings of revenue freight for the week ended January 30 totaled 561,157 cars, the car service division of the American Railway Association announced. This was a decrease of 1781 cars under the preceding week. Loadings of merchandise less-than-carload-lot freight totaled 187,979 cars, a decrease of 533 cars from the preceding week.

Market Followers Most Bearish Near Bottom

By W. S. COUSINS

New York, Feb. 10 (INS)—While the general list of industrial and railroad stocks revolved within a narrow range of the January low level, the market has again developed the "weak spots" symptomatic of persistent unloading of stocks for special causes.

Every bear market of which we have ayn record has always found a host of speculators and investors the most bearish at or near the bottom of the decline, and this fact might logically explain the new outbreak of selling.

The New York Stock Exchange's latest report on short selling showed an increase of 758,000 shares during January in the short interest outstanding, the plainest proof of bearishness that can be produced.

Leaders in the latest downturn are well sprinkled among the rails, industrials, utilities and specialties, and include such wel known names as General Electric, J. I. Case, Anaconda, Chesapeake & Ohio, Union Pacific, Consolidated Gas, etc., all of which have finally settled dwon to the low levels of the bear market moves.

While it would be comparatively easy to point to specific reasons for the periods of weakness in these and other stocks, it must be recognized that theeconomic malady in world-wide rather than either local or national.

• • •

There is a feeling among business leaders that a great deal more might be done, than is now being done, to combat the forces of business depression. American political leaders have made an excellent record so far this year, but the same cannot be said for the British, French and German variety.

The Germans are playing possum economically in a desperate drive for reparations cancellation, and are being helped by a small coterie of Britishers, who are angling for a corresponding reduction or cancellation of their war debt to Uncle Sam.

Traders who believed United States Steel would never break under 100 and New York Central under 75, are now the most bearish on these market leaders at 38 and 26, respectively. The economists who were indulging in all forms of extravagant rosy predictions a year ago, are now enshrouded in the deepest gloom.

• • •

It was ever thus; but economic history has never failed to record a rebound from every business depression stronger than any of its predecessors.

Certainly in all forms of material wealth, producing plants, personal fortunes, etc., America was never as wealthy as is today, in spite of the fact that close to fifty billion dollars has been written off the market value of the stocks and bonds list on the New York Stock Exchange in the last two years. Our problem today is definitely and distinctly one of distribution rather than our inability to produce everything we need.

Many of the active stocks on the big board have unfortunately not gotten over their old habit of repeatedly penetrating under the former low price levels of the whole bear market period. The list includes General Electric, Union Pacific Railroad, New York Central, Anaconda Copper, J. I. Case and other of the brilliant leaders of the 1926-29 bull market.

Investors who have hopefully clung to their favorites through two-and-half years of shrinking values are at this late date compelled to relinquish their holdings, but on the other hand every authitative compilation shows a steady increase in the number of stockholders.

Commercial Credit Earns $1.73 Share

Commercial Credit Co. and subsidiaries report for 1931 a consolidated net income after taxes of $3,778,406, equal to $1.73 a share on the outstanding stock, as compared with $4,316,215, in 1930.

COOK-COOS

By TED COOK

It might work out. For example, she could send us $500,000,000 worth of spats.

* * *

This would give the farmers a superiority complex, causing them to move to cities.

* * *

With everybody wearing spats, everybody would think everybody else was prosperous. And as prosperity is a matter of psychology, everything would be hotsy totsy.

How One Woman Lost 10 Lbs. in a Week

Mrs. Betty Luedeke of Dayton writes: "I am using Kruschen to reduce weight—I lost 10 pounds in one week and cannot say too much to recommend it."

To take off fat easily, SAFELY and HARMLESSLY—take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen in a glass of hot water in the morning before breakfast—go light on potatoes, butter, cream and sugar—it is the safe way to lose unsightly fat and one bottle that lasts 4 weeks costs but a trifle. Get it at any druggistore in America. If this first bottle fails to convince you this is the safest way to lose fat—money back.

But be sure and get Kruschen Salts—imitations are numerous and you must safeguard your health.

SIDE STREET CRADLE SONG

You'll be a big shot bye and bye;
First you'll be a sneak thief.
Then you'll be a gun,
Finally a racketeer—
Shooting up your playmates,
Double crossing friends,
Standing in the middle,
Working from both ends.

We are pleased to present another poem by our official Japanese poet, S. Nakano—

LOVING BIRD SONG

I'm hearing my sister playing harp,
Oh, it is fine! Taking to me dream.
I'm running to sweet dream land
For a moment broken dream.
They are tiny loving sing
Sister throws in her playing
I cannot scold they are singing
Oh, they are tiny
Sweet loving bird song.

BULL-ETIN

(Committee hearing on Bingham bill.)

"Economic conditions are responsible for the number of bootleggers. Big business has driven these men to crime to keep them from starving."—Senator Brookhart.

* * *

FUN IN THE BIG HOUSE

(News Item)

OSSINING, N. Y.—Sing Sing prisoners, by special privilege, are permitted to rattle cell doors one night a year in order to celebrate.

* * *

Simile—

* * *

"What frightens me," says the Rt. Rev. Mr. Wiley, "is that the supply of crooners is becoming greater than the demand for grapefruit."

* * *

Little Willie, on a spree,
Filled dad's pipe with TNT.
As pa lit up, ma chortled shrilly,
"Run and get the whiskbroom, Willie."

—M. A. Friedman.

Foreign Lecturers Spread Propaganda

They visit us in shoals. Their coming is heralded before they start. From the ship we get foretastes by radio of what they are going to say, and sometimes, as this week in the case of Lieutenant-Commander Joseph M. Kenworthy, former Member of Parliament, our visitor cannot wait until he lands to utter the propaganda he brings, but is whisked from his ship at Quarantine in a rush for the banquet table, to inform us, in panting phrases, of the "WIDELY SPREAD AND GENERAL BELIEF IN ENGLAND" THAT WE WILL BE OBLIGED TO GO OFF THE GOLD STANDARD.

If the wish is father to the thought, it is certainly true that we have not been left in doubt as to the DESIRE OF ENGLAND TO DRAG THE DOLLAR DOWN TO THE SORRY POSITION OF THE POUND.

From the moment England was forced to suspend free payments of gold at the Bank of England and the dramatic nose-dive of the pound began she has made no concealment of her hope that the dollar can be made to share THE IGNOMINY OF THE POUND, NO LONGER STERLING.

"We have got to knock America and France from their gold perch," said the London Evening Standard some weeks ago.

This threat is now apparently to be followed up by the British propagandist, and a systematic attempt from England to modify and even direct America's fiscal policies.

He has the effrontery in return for our good American lecture-hall dollars publicly to admonish us; to inform us how proper it is for his government to repudiate solemnly executed contracts; how we must cancel the debts his country JUSTLY OWES to the United States Treasury and thereby shift the burden of paying them to the shoulders of the very ones who have paid good American money to hear him; that it is our duty to enter the League of Nations, and the League Court and to concern and to embroil ourselves and our posterity in the political affairs of the Old World; that the advice of Washington and the Founders of the Republic to "avoid entangling foreign alliances" is old fashioned.

Is it conceivable that the government or the citizens of England, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, or any foreign country would tolerate the critical discussion from a public platform of her politics or policies by a paid propagandist from the United States?

No American would think of attempting such a thing, and if he did, he would be politely admonished by the foreign government to mind his own business and be howled down by the citizenry, if not mobbed.

Under the patronage of misguided pacifists and the internationally minded, America has become the stamping ground of the foreign lecturer-propagandist.

There is a limit to this sort of thing. AND THE TIME HAS COME TO CALL A HALT.

A Few Facts at Last

The Truth on Government Salaries

The survey of Federal employes and their salaries recently made by the Bureau of the Budget brilliantly illuminates the murky passages down which would walk the advocates of a slash in Government pay.

Broken down into salary groups, the figures thoroughly refute the oft-made charge that Uncle Sam supports his workers in luxury; that he wastes the taxpayers' money in exorbitant salaries.

Do the Congressmen want to balance, or do they think they can balance, the budget by slashing away at these meager salaries?

More than half of the total amount paid by the Government for civilian salaries goes to men and women who individually are paid less than $2200.

One suggestion which has been made by the slashers is that all salaries of more than $5000 be cut.

In the light of the budget bureau's figures the value of this suggestion stands out clearly. For it is shown that there are only 4736 civilians, outside of Congress and the judiciary, who are paid more than $5000 a year.

The absurdity of making the proposed cut apply to the military and naval forces is also shown by the bureau's survey.

The figures show clearly that the United States is not extravagant in remunerating its faithful employes.

And they show equally clearly that the Federal Government should not join those misguided private employers who are using present economic conditions as a weapon to batter down the American standard of living.

Schoolchildren Save

Such is the dictum stated by Dr. Payson Smith, Commissioner of Education for Massachusetts.

We may be surprised to know that the school system has encouraged 200,000 school children to enter deposits in mutual savings banks. Their deposits amount to $1,134,000.

New York Day by Day

Broadway of the Past

NEW YORK, Feb. 10—I strolled along Broadway last evening comparing its tawdriness to the splendor of yesteryear. About all left of its heyday is the glitter. The great restaurants — Rector's, Churchill's, Shanley's and the Knickerbocker—are gone. Scenery-eating actors have given away to pansy performers.

The Empire alone is the last stand of the Broadway legitimate theater. The Astor is the sole survivor of the luxurious hotels flourishing a decade ago. The Paramount cinema is claimed by Broadway but is in reality reared on Seventh avenue.

Broadway of today is mostly a zig-zag of haberdashery shops, cattery lunch rooms, gown and perfume parlors, souvenir stores, walk-up tailors and tabloids. Here and there in the motley array are catch-penny photo studios and store rooms given over to advertising demonstrations.

A touch of the Broadway that is gone is the black and gold sign over Churchill's old stand, reading, "Irving Berlin Publishing Company." The Winter Garden, once stronghold of the musical revue, is now flamboyantly crisscrossed with a ballyhoo for movies inside.

What is most impressive in the shifting change to the old street is the character of the promenaders. Once a walk along it provided a closeup of reigning theatrical stars, brightly rouged chorus beauties, celebrated song writers, jockeys, fight champions and deep-sea gamblers.

Too, there were dazzling spenders such as Foxhall Keene with his Desperate Desmond mustache and Freddie Gebhart; raconteurs such as Wilson Mizner, and gourmets such as Diamond Jim. Also, Canfield, the gambler; Thorley, the florist, and his lapel carnation; John, the barber, and O'Malley, of the Sun.

The passing parade today reveals drab pastels of tired Jersey commuters, tin horn sports, barkers for talkies, seedy sandwich men, tattered buskers dancing for pitiful coins, third-rate ladies on the make, yap wagon "decoys," and visiting lodgemen who imagine they are seeing the town.

* * *

In the old days Sunday nights at Shanley's lured Broadway regulars. They sat at large tables, watching the floor show, sipping beer from perspiring mugs and indulging merry salaver. Over yonder Lillian Russell, Joe Weber and Lew Fields. Nearby Julia Sanderson and the diminutive fashion plate, Tod Sloane. Also the tall, darkly Oriental Nicky Arnstein with the hoydenish lady we know as Fannie Brice. Richard Harding Davis, silk stockinged reporter with the silver crooked walking stick, and Charlie Somerville, who wrote his epicy but kindly White Way gossip for The World. Once in a while the pontifical Jim Hunseker deserted Luchow's wassail for camaraderie of Shanley's in tow of Ben de Casseres. The "Merry Widow" waltz was "the" tune. Roast fowl and apple dumplings with Brown Betty sauce were Shanley's piece de resistance.

* * *

A favored haunt of those days was Joel's, which had the wainscoted coziness of a country inn. Downstairs the bar and upstairs the jumbled cafe with walls hung with welcoming placards for returning troupers. Joel was the Rialto Rothschild. Piff-awners sent him savings to bridge over summers "At Liberty." Joel was Joel Rinaldo, a queer bird of the Broadway night who twittered e.udite tomes on the polygeneric theory and served Blue Moon cocktails that would knock you stiff as Menjou's evening shirts. He was an uncle of Mark Hellinger, who carries on the avuncular ambition writing tabloid threnodies for the Broadway miserere. Joel, himself, has retired to ... porch of a quiet Brooklyn street to rock, read the classics and meditate upon the blessed promises. A noble Roman, Joel!

* * *

Joel's would receive a high-nosed sniff amid the spurkeasy splendor of the era, yet it was packed with more of the exciting patina called glamour than modern mosquues with continental assurance and Urban decore. And here I am all of a sudden at the end of the column with scarcely room for a bow. I don't gauge my bows well lately anyhow.

(Copyright, 1932, for the Boston Evening American)

Listen, World!

By Elsie Robinson

Other Fellow's Sincerity

YOU DOUBT the other fellow's sincerity. Not of course, when he agrees with you. Then you're sure that he's both honest and intelligent.

But when he disagrees with you, when he says something that you don't believe, when he does something which riles you—then you're SURE that he's insincere.

Surely he can't believe anything as cockeyed as that! He must know that the thing he is saying, or doing, is all wrong! He's just being contrary. Actually cheaty!

So, of course, you have a right to get mad at him, and you get mad—for two reasons. First, because he's saying or doing something reprehensible, and second, because he isn't being honest, even to himself. He isn't sincere.

For instance, there's the chap who disagree- with you about politics. You grew up together in the same town. You went to the same school. And you, yourself, as any sensible person should, decided to become an old line Republican. (Or maybe a Democrat). But he, imagine it! believes in Socialism!

Now how can any sane man believe in Socialism? He can't. That's your answer. He's just showing off! And yet he becomes violently angry when you say he's showing off. He insists that he means what he says. But you know he doesn't. He can't. And you refuse to take him seriously.

Or maybe it's the woman who disagrees with you about wives working. Such a nice woman, and yet she says the most idiotic things. But you're sure she can't really believe them. She's just trying to "be different." And so you feel quite justified in despising her arguments.

Is that the way you feel about the other fellow's beliefs when they differ from yours? Probably. Most of us do feel that way. But it's wrong. There is a certain percentage of hypocrisy, trickery and show-off-smartiness in all human behavior—yours as well as the other fellow's.

But, generally speaking, THE OTHER FELLOW IS JUST AS SINCERE AS YOU ARE.

His notions may seem all twisted, even actually vicious, but he is sincere in them. From his viewpoint that's the right way to think, the right way to act.

AND WHETHER YOU AGREE WITH HIM OR NOT, HIS SINCERITY DESERVES RESPECT AS MUCH AS YOURS.

He thinks according to his lights. And, however, dim his lights, he has a RIGHT to think according to them. That is his way of growing—his way of arriving at the truth, and because of that, HIS RIGHT TO THINK AS HE PLEASES IS HIS MOST SACRED RIGHT.

YOU SHOULD RESPECT EVERY MAN'S RIGHT TO THINK IN HIS OWN WAY.

YOU SHOULD BELIEVE IN EVERY MAN'S SINCERITY AS YOU EXPECT HIM TO BELIEVE IN YOURS.

That is the fundamental law of fair and friendly human relationship, and you'll never be able to understand people or get along with them until you obey that law.

But if you will obey it, your whole life will be changed. Your whole viewpoint toward other people will shift, and theirs toward you. You will find yourself infinitely more flexible, and at the same time more forceful. You will have a tenderness toward people, and a power over them, which you never had before; and in the exhilaration of this new adventure you will forget most of your old miseries, fears and peeves.

Just Folks

Judas Iscariot

Judas Iscariot got thinking bitter things
He'd heard much talk of kingship, but what leader with a crown
Would have to beg for shelter when he visited a town?
Of the miracles he'd witnessed he'd begun to have a doubt,

Fantastic thoughts of envy kept him wide awake at night.
The Christ was meek and lowly, and he couldn't clearly see

Judas Iscariot went out alone to die
Upon the ugly patch of ground the silver went to buy.
Some say he hanged himself; some that he was found,

Wise Sayings

Never risk a joke, even the least offensive in its nature, and the most common, with a person who is not possessed of a sense to comprehend it. —La Bruyere.

There is not any one vice incident to the mind of man against which the world has raised such a loud and universal outcry as against ingratitude. —South.

How to Cure Hoarding; Debate on France

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Boston Evening American.

MR. HOOVER has an undying faith in the virtue of commissions and committees. Finding that the loss of confidence among the people has resulted in the "hoarding" of money, he calls a conference of business men and bankers who resolve to drag this hidden money out from its hiding place and put it in circulation. This is going to be done through the medium of "education." The people of small means, fearful lest their savings be swept away, are to be roundly scolded for their loss of faith—by the people who gave ample reasons for the panic fear.

The President wants them to invest their money in "conservative stocks" or deposit it in banks that it may be loaned.

They stopped investing in stocks because of the memorable licking the small investor got two years ago on the market; and the timid became fearful of banks because of the unprecedented number of failures during the Hoover regime.

The fact that at the height of the absurdity of the gambling saturnalia on the market, when many began to doubt and pause in investments, the Administration and preceding Administration assured them that all was sound and well, and thus led many like sheep to the shambles, has destroyed the faith of the average man, with hard won money, in the assurances of the Administration.

How are Mr. Hoover's conferees going to drag this money, which belongs to the people who have it, out from its hiding place?

* * *

Refuses to Consider Prosperity Loan

There is another plan which he stubbornly refuses to consider—a prosperity loan of from three to five billion dollars to put millions of jobless men on a payroll, for work that is needed and will add billions in wealth to the nation through public improvements.

If Mr. Hoover and his advisers want to get the money in hiding out let him offer this loan to the people and see how quickly the hoarded money emerges to buy the bonds.

The hoarder is not just a miser with a twisted brain: he has worked hard for his money and skimped himself to save, and he would rather have interest on his money than keep it buried where it cannot grow.

But he is afraid of stocks just now, and, rightly or wrongly, he is afraid of banks, but he is not afraid of the safety of a Government loan.

When this money emerges to buy Government bonds, it goes into circulation, into wages, into purchases at stores, and it furnishes fuel for cold furnaces, and goes far to restore prosperity and confidence. And with confidence restored the industrial bonds that are "conservative" will be bought, and the hoarded money hereafter will be a memory.

Turn Propaganda on Germany, Instead

With the disarmament conference in session, France moves, or is moved, into the white light, with her friends and critics hammering each other over the head. France had her inning the other night when the Franco-American Society in New York gave an "amity" dinner in commemoration of the treaties of 1778 and Yorktown. Here protests were made against an alleged "wave of anti-French propaganda" in this country. We have observed nothing rising to the dignity of propaganda, but this does not disprove its existence.

However, in the speeches made, it does seem to us that there was not a little propaganda against Germany—the sort with which we became all too familiar during the war. The purport of the speeches was that the German reparations are not too high; and that Germany can, sooner or later, meet her reparations obligations. Much was said about the sanctity of a contract or treaty.

This made necessary a stand against the "cancellation"—to use the fraudulent term intended to deceive the American people—of the debts due us. One simply cannot blow hot and cold.

Guthrie Attacks Foreign Bankers

William D. Guthrie, distinguished lawyer and head of the society, set forth the theory that the French believe that Germany borrowed far more money at handsome interest from American and English bankers than she paid out in reparations; and then, finding she could borrow no more, used President Hoover to get a moratorium. Mr. Guthrie is convinced Germany can pay in time; and that the policy in the crisis is to postpone payments, if necessary, but to hold on to the treaty obligation. And then he turns to the propaganda for the transfer of the debts of fourteen nations to us:

"Certainly we should not urge France to release Germany in order that the hundreds of millions of dollars that our bankers loaned to Germany may be more readily repaid. English bankers borrowed enormous sums from France at 4 per cent interest and then loaned it to Germany at 6 per cent, and these very bankers are now urging that their debts be given priority over the French claims for reparations. The same is true, also, of many of our own bankers. They, too, were tempted by high rates of commissions and interest to risk hundreds of millions of American money."

Even so, the reparations controversy is not our business—since we refused reparations. But the plan to "cancel" or transfer the debts of other peoples, who owe them, to our peoples, who made them, is our business.

Radio Diplomats

One thing about this trouble in the Orient, it has shattered our conception of ambassadors. We imagined them to be detached beings, arrayed in the ultimate punctilio of elegance, forever ascending marble steps, or coming down on them. We envied their pot hats, prestige and leisurely grandeur.

With kings almost off the stage, ambassadors seemed the only persons left to carry on the hallowed decorum of state, as founded in old Venice and the court of Louis XIV. Everybody waited on them. Themselves, they waited only for despatches.

"They come confounded slow at times," Mr. Adams, our London ambassador in 1815, used to grumble. Sometimes he had to wait five weeks before he could climb steps with a note.

The radio telephone has changed all that. Ambassadors can now function in shirt-sleeves and can smoke pipes, cob or under-slung. They talk to each other with "head sets," like so many train despatchers, and a squad of secretaries, similarly harnessed, listen in and take notes.

The old-time ambassador is gone. Say for him that he had, at least, fine manners and could write very good prose.
